NEW YORKER EXPECTED TO TAKE LEAD ON 4TH BALLOT

Talk of Dewey-Taft Effort to Pocket Him — Plank Drafted for Strong Defense Program, No Involvement in War.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—The most bewildered political convention of recent American history met today when National Chairman John Hamilton called to order the 2002 delegates and alternates to the twenty-second Republican assembly at the Municipal Auditorium.

This morning's session opened at 10:43, nearly three-quarters of an hour late, and, after the routine of organizing, recessed at 11:29 until 8 o'clock tonight when the delegates will reconvene to hear the keynote address of Harold E. Stassen, 33-year-old Governor of Minnesota.

Unlike most other Republican meetings, this quadrennial gathering is without leaders or bosses who can speak authoritatively for their geographic regions or deliver any sizeable bloc of delegates.

As the race for the presidential nomination enters the home stretch the field has narrowed down to three candidates, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Wendell L. Willkie of New York, with the last named moving up so fast that there is persistent talk of a combination of Taft and Dewey to pocket him.

Early Lead for Dewey.

It seems evident at this writing that Dewey, because of his successful primary contests, will lead on the first ballot, but thereafter will lose strength, as the delegates formally fulfill their primary pledges and instructions. Willkie will be the beneficiary of these defections, and after a crucial third ballot, it is probable that the fourth ballot will see him in the lead.

The balloting, however, will not start until late Wednesday, and if the Willkie boom continues to grow the strategy of his managers for a large increase of each roll call may have to be abandoned. The original plan was to start with about 70 votes on the first ballot, more than 150 on the second and around 300 on the third, with the "favorite sons" delegation coming in as needed.

Foreign Affairs Plank.

Willkie was also the indirect beneficiary of the tentative national defense and international affairs plank of the platform drafted by a subcommittee headed by former Gov. Alfred M. Landon of Kansas and turned over to the Resolutions Committee today, which will present the completed platform draft to the convention tomorrow night. The subcommittee agreed in principle on a declaration against in-

SHADED area shows territory held by the Germans. The French admitted further advances along the Atlantic coast by German motorized units toward Rochefort (1), Sainte and Cognac. In the east the Nazis pushed south and east of Lyon. Fighting was reported in environs of St. Etienne (2). On the Italian-French border (3), French Alpine troops were reported to have repulsed strong Italian attacks. The dotted line, according to British reports, is the limit of the area of German occupation fixed in the armistice terms.

REPUBLICAN SIDE SHOW

By Marquis W. Childs
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.

IT was 153 years ago last month that another convention gathered here in Philadelphia. Those delegates were charged with drafting a constitution for the United States. A few earnest leaders were trying to coerce the quarreling states into forming a national union. Europe was in upheaval. Repeatedly that convention adjourned until reason and common sense could catch up with the times. Today's convention cannot fall back on such a simple expedient. For one thing, according to optimistic estimates in the Philadelphia papers, this convention will spend up to $12,000,000 in the five or six days it is here. And you can't adjourn $12,000,000.

The real news, if any, is that Wendell Willkie stopped being homespun, for the week end at least, and got down to the serious business of talking politics and meeting delegates. He even passed up a chance to meet the press on a day so dull that almost any press conference would have attracted the pigeons off the roof of City Hall. When reporters complained bitterly at this defection, a Willkie aid who had explained earlier that the boy from Indiana would spend the day in several smoke-filled hotel rooms, added with what seemed a gratuitous understatement, "You know, Mr. Willkie is very new in politics."

Dewey a Candidate With the Answers.

DEWEY at his press conference was the perfect District Attorney. Crisp, incisive, always ready with a bright answer for judge and jury. When photographers continued their ministrations a little longer than he felt necessary, he said out of the side of his mouth to his bodyguard, "All right, start getting tough, Johnny."

It was a flawless performance.

Asked what he thought of Mr. Willkie's amazing home stretch buildup, Dewey said he thought it was a honey. In his voice was just a trace of sarcasm, reflecting, perhaps, his resentment that so many unkind remarks should have appeared recently about the Dewey buildup.

In this connection Willkie's own testimony is revealing. He was

ROOSEVELT HALTS SALE OF TORPEDO BOATS TO BRITISH

He Acts After Attorney General Advises Him That Deal for 20 Craft Violates 1917 Law.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—President Roosevelt called a halt today on negotiations for sale of 20 swift "mosquito boats" to the British.

A White Houes statement said the President had decided to stop the negotiations as soon as he had received an informal opinion from Attorney-General Robert H. Jackson that transfer of the motored torpedo boats by an American builder to a belligerent Government apparently was prohibited by an act of 1917.

Arrangements had been made, tentatively, under which 20 motor torpedo vessels being built by the Electric Boat Co., for the United States Navy would have been retained by the builder for sale to the British Government, with the United States taking delivery later on improved vessels of a similar type.

STORY OF BELGIAN TREACHERY WHICH CAUSED COLLAPSE OF FRENCH ARMY

Uncensored Account of Desertions on First Day of Invasion, Failure to Blow Up Bridges Over Albert Canal.

By M. W. FODOR
Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch, Copyright, 1940.

NEW YORK, June 24.—This is the story of the debacle which I tried in vain for five weeks to tell. The rigidity of the censorship in Belgium, France and Portugal — through which I traveled for that five weeks, prevented me.

It is a sad and gruesome story, a story of the breakdown of one of the finest armies in the world—the army of France. I shall tell it as I observed it from the advantageously situated Belgian watchtower.

The breakdown of the French army was mainly caused by the early, but complete collapse of the Belgian army and by the treason, inefficiency and graft in France. The military villains of the tragedy are King Leopold III, his aid-de-camp, Lieutenant-General J. Van Overstraten, and the commander of the French Ninth Corps, Gen. Andre Georges Corap, who, according to persistent rumors, already has obtained his punishment—he is said to have been shot.

The places of the tragedy were the Dutch and Belgian Limbourgs, Brabant and the Ardennes part of Belgian Luxembourg. The fatal river was the Meuse.

Lost on First Day.

The truth is that already, on May 10—the first day of the totalitarian war—the fate of France was decided because the Northeastern Belgian army on the Albert Canal suffered a defeat which was comparable only to the defeat of the Italians at Caporetto in the last war. The rest was indirectly and directly due to King Leopold of the Belgians, who constantly and persistently refused to conclude military arrangements between his country and Britain and France, though without such a military arrangement efficient help for the Belgians was impossible.

When this correspondent, on May 11, drove through the eastern sections of Brussels, he found the streets full of Belgian soldiers in full equipment, soldiers who had already deserted the front—on the opening day of the war—and were spreading impossible rumors in Brussels, thus completely demoraliz-

NAVY, COASTLINE, DEFENSES TO BE GIVEN UP UNDER HITLER DICTATE

British Say Armistice Makes France Virtually Passive Ally of Germany — to Deal With De Gaulle Committee.

The text of the British version of the German-French armistice terms appears on page 2A.

LONDON, June 24 (AP). — France will be stripped of its defenses and its coastline and reduced to a land-locked third of its former territory as the reported price of armistice with Germany and Italy.

Adolf Hitler's terms, as published by the British Government, compel the French to surrender more than half their country to German occupation; to give up arms, munitions, fleet and planes to the Nazis; to demobilize all armed forces except those needed to maintain order; and to bear the cost of the German occupation and Nazi administration of the occupied territories.

Area to Be Occupied.

Germany will occupy area, including Paris, north and west of the following line: Geneva-Dole, Chalon-sur-Saone, Paray-le-Monial, Moulins, Bourges, Vierzon, thence to 20 kilometers east of Tours, thence south parallel to Angouleme railway to Mont de Marsan and St. Jean de Pied de Port.

The occupation of more than half of France by German troops does not necessarily mean that Germany will retain all of that land in the future. The part to be retained by Germany will be determined at a subsequent conferenc to adopt a treaty of peace.

A British spokesman said the German terms made France virtually a passive ally of Germany in its impending attack on Britain. The British Government announced it could "no longer regard the Bordeaux government (of Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain) as the government of an independent country."

Henceforth, the British declared, they will deal with a French National Committee, announced here by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, "in all matters concerning the prosecution

Spain Waives Visa Formalities To Let Americans Out of France

MADRID, June 24 (AP).—Spanish action in waiving visa formalities opened the way today to 500 or 1000 Americans to flee the war zone by coming from Southern France into Spain on their way to the United States.

The first of these refugees is expected to start over the frontier today. Special trains will take them to the Bay of Biscay port of Bilbao, where they will wait to find out whether an American vessel will be sent there or to Lisbon to pick them up.

Many Americans meanwhile reached the Portuguese capital aboard the United States destroyer Herbert.

Thirteen of the Americans landed by the warship were from Algiers; 37 of them came from Casablanca.

Some Americans and hundreds of British citizens were at the Portuguese border station of Vilar Formoso, waiting for visas to enter Portugal from Spain. A city of tents grew there as result of permission granted the British Ambassador to erect shelters for the refugees until they can be admitted.

J. H. Morgan, E. T. Crain and Charles Gilbert of the United States Embassy in Madrid and Vice-Consul David Smythe from Bilbao are in charge of Americans at the border.

Britons, Americans and other foreigners continued to stream into Spain.

Britain's most distinguished war wanderer, the Duke of Windsor, former King Edward VIII, reached Madrid with his wife, American-born, formerly Wallis Warfield. The Duke's equerry said they probably would go to England, though their plans were tentative. He said the Duchess was not going to the United States. Sir Samuel Hoare, British Ambassador to Madrid, and Lady Hoare called upon the Windsors half an hour after their arrival at a Madrid hotel and announced the visitors would be their luncheon guests today.

GERMAN-ITALIAN DRIVE ON FRENCH ALPINE FORCES

Simultaneous Attack Is Launched Against Front and Rear—Heavy Gunfire Along Border.

CHANCY, Swiss-French Frontier, June 24 (AP).—The Germans and the Italians launched simultaneous offensives today against the front and rear of the French Alpine army.

The Germans, moving from the north and east, attacked the powerful L'Ecluse fort east of Bellegarde, where a garrison of about 1000 was stationed just outside the Savoyan border.

South of Bellegarde the Germans also attacked in the Grenoble area, drawing many French troops from the front where the Italians increased their pressure on the high Alpine passes.

German tanks and armored cars were reported to have entered the famous French lake resort of Aix les Bains, between the Alps and the Jura, late this afternoon.

Stiff Resistance by Forts.

French Alpine forces were weakened both in morale by the armistice negotiations and in number by the movement of many reserves toward Mediterranean ports, where they hoped to get transportation to North Africa to continue the fight. The garrisons of French forts high in the Alps, however, met the attacks with fierce resistance.

German motorized columns had succeeded in forcing a crossing to the east bank of the Rhone south of the Bellegarde fortress and west of the village of Fragny, which is about eight miles south of the western tip of Switzerland.

Guns rumbled last night along the Alpine frontier south of Annecy, which is about 17 miles south of the Swiss border. There French engineers dynamited all bridges between them and the German motorized forces on the Rhone who now have reached the mountainous region of the lower Jura Mountains and the foothills of the Alps.

Many French Alpine troops facing the Italian frontier were report-

HITLER ORDERS GERMANS TO FLY FLAGS; THANKS GOD FOR HIS VICTORY

BERLIN, June 24 (AP).

ADOLF HITLER in a proclamation to the German people tonight thanked God for his victory over France and ordered flags to be flown in the German Reich for 10 days, and bells to be rung for seven days.

The text of the proclamation follows:

"German people: Your soldiers in barely six weeks in a heroic fight against a brave enemy have brought to an end the war in the west. Their deeds will go down in history as the most glorious victory of all times.

"In humility we thank God for his blessing.

"I order the display of flags in the Reich for 10 days and the ringing of bells for seven.

Signed,
ADOLF HITLER."

Divine services have been ordered by the French Government in Bordeaux for Tuesday morning in connection with the cessation of hostilities, the German radio reported from Geneva tonight. The services will be attended by all members of the Marshal Petain Government and by President Lebrun.

TRUCE SIGNED, FIGHTING TO BE HALTED AT 5:35 P. M.

Terms of Rome Agreement Not Immediately Announced — Armistice With Axis Powers Effective Automatically.

BERLIN, June 24 (AP). — The German high command announced tonight it had ordered cessation of hostilities in France and that arms be downed on both sides at 1:35 a. m. Tuesday (5:35 p. m. today, St. Louis time.)

ROME, June 24 (AP).—France's envoys signed Italy's armistice terms late today, making effective the German-French armistice pact for ending hostilities in France and leaving Britain alone to fight the combined forces of the axis Powers.

Hostilities in France are to cease at 1:35 a. m., Tuesday (5:45 p. m. today, St. Louis time.)

The signatures of the French delegates, on orders from their Government at Bordeaux, were affixed at 7:15 p. m. (11:15 a. m., St. Louis time.)

The German-French armistice signed Saturday in Compiegne Forest, in France, provided that fighting was to end six hours after the German high command was notified that France had formally accepted Italy's terms.

Such notification was sent at 7:35 p. m. (11:35 a. m., St. Louis time) to the Germans.

FRENCH 'FREE TO CHOOSE' PARIS FOR CAPITAL UNDER GERMAN ARMISTICE TERMS

LONDON, June 24 (AP).

THE French Government can have Paris back for its capital, according to terms of the French-German armistice disclosed by an authoritative British source last night.

Paris is in the region occupied by Germany, but, said one of the terms of the armistice, the French Government is "free to choose for itself the seat of government in non-occupied territory or even to transfer it to Paris if desired."

If Paris were chosen, this armistice article added, Germany "will allow the necessary facilities for administration from Paris of both occupied and unoccupied territory."

BRITISH BROKE PROMISES, FRENCH MINISTER CHARGES

PLEDGED TO SEND 26 DIVISIONS LAST FALL BUT LET MEN OF 28 STAY IDLE

500,000 Jobless in England While Ally Had Men of 48 in Army, Official Says —Asks U. S. to "Understand."

BORDEAUX, June 24 (AP). — A member of the French Government, in an appeal for understanding in the United States, declared today that France's decision to seek peace with Germany and Italy was taken with full independence of action.

The statement disavowed all former members of the Government who fled the country and urged Frenchmen not to continue resistance by forming a factional government in London which, it said, would only create dissension.

This apparently was in reference to the French National Committee, whose formation in England was announced last night by Gen. Charles de Gaulle, former Under-Secretary of War in Premier Reynaud's Cabinet.

British Stand "Unjust."

The statement attacked "the present British failure to understand," saying that when the French first advised the British they would have to seek an armistice Prime Minister Churchill told Paul Reynaud, then Premier, that Britain "would understand."

The Government indicated the change in Britain's attitude was due partly to French former Minister of the Interior Georges Mandel, who tried to make Britain insist that France must carry on at all costs.

In a seven-page explanation, the member of the Government said: "We ask our friends in America to try to understand France's immense sadness. We do not seek to hide the errors of our country.

"We regret that certain members of the British Government criticise us unjustly. We wish our English friends to respect our sadness and examine their own conscience."

The Minister asserted that Britain, before the war, had promised to send into France 26 divisions (about 390,000 men) during the first month's hostilities. Instead, he said, while France kept men 48 years old under arms, Britain had not yet mobilized men of 28.

He said that last March a French newspaper delegation went to England and found proof that the English war effort was "insufficient."

British Complacence.

The English, the Minister added, carried on a "traditional" form of warfare. On the eve of the great German offensive, he asserted, Britain still appeared to be unruffled, relying on its navy and air force and carrying on a "business as usual" policy with half a million jobless men still on its hands.

The French spokesman said "the most dramatic meeting ever held by the French Government" was June 12 at Chateau de Gange near Tours. There Gen. Maxime Weygand, the Allied field commander, explained to the Ministers the grave military situation, and the majority opinion was that with or without an armistice France could not escape total occupation.

A request was then sent to Prime Minister Churchill to come to France for consultation.

The French Cabinet met again at 3 o'clock the following morning, "pacing the gardens sadly in small groups" while awaiting Churchill for two hours.

At 5 a. m. former Premier Reynaud and Mandel arrived and said they had seen Churchill, who sent word that he had been obliged to return to England without seeing the entire Cabinet.

Churchill's Promise.

Reynaud, the spokesman said, declared that Churchill told him the British Government would continue to give France maximum aid, but that if events forced France into an armistice he (Churchill) and Lord Halifax and Lord Beaverbrook were in accord that "England in no case would do anything to harm an ally in difficulty, and would understand the situation."

The decision to ask for an armistice was delayed 24 hours, this Minister said, to await President Roosevelt's reply to a French appeal and to permit a fuller explanation of the situation to the English.

Certain members of the Cabinet, notably Mandel, who, the spokesman said, "had received no authorization from the Government," attempted to induce the British Government to disavow Churchill's promise that England would "understand."

Mandel was represented as having urged England to take a "much more imperative attitude" to force France to continue fighting.

The Government, the Minister said, felt it was its duty to remain in France "and share the fate of all Frenchmen." He added:

"It is therefore in full independence that the Government has taken its decisions, and it has definitely disapproved any removals abroad."

No reproaches or menaces, he asserted, could alter this determination.

"We have lived through hours of glory with England," he said. "Today we ask her to receive only with the greatest reserve any Frenchmen our country has disavowed and wishes to forget. We ask her not to make London a nest of agitation by politicians and separatists. Our foreign policy will not be dictated by England, Germany or Italy. It will be only French."

BRITISH VERSION OF NAZI PEACE TERMS TO FRANCE

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—The following is a summary of the French-German armistice as issued last night by the British Ministry of Information:

Article 1. Immediate cessation of hostilities. French troops already surrounded to lay down arms.

Article 2. For security of German interests, territory north and west of the following line to be occupied: Geneva-Dole, Chalton-Sur-Saone, Paray le Monial, Moulins, Bourges, Vierzon, thence to 20 kilometers east of Tours, thense south parallel to Angouleme railway to Mont de Marsan and St. Jean de Pied de Port.

The areas not yet occupied in this territory to be occupied immediately on conclusion of the present convention.

Article 3. In occupied area Germany to have all rights of occupying power excluding local administration; the French Government to afford all necessary facilities. Germany will reduce to a minimum occupation of Western coast after cessation of hostilities with Great Britain.

French Government to be free to choose for itself the seat of government in non-occupied territory, or even to transfer it to Paris if desired. In the latter event, Germany will allow the necessary facilities for administration from Paris of both occupied and unoccupied territory.

Troops to Lay Down Arms.

Article 4. French naval, military and air forces are to be demobilized and disarmed within a period to be decided, with the exception of troops necessary for maintaining order. Size and armament of the latter are to be decided by Germany and Italy, respectively. French armed forces in occupied territory are to be brought back into unoccupied territory and demobilized.

These troops will previously have laid own their arms and material at places where they are at the moment of the armistice.

Article 5. As a guarantee, Germany may demand surrender in good condition of all artillery, tanks, anti-tank weapons, service aircraft, infantry armament, tractors and munitions in territory not to be occupied. Germany will decide the extent of these deliveries.

Article 6. All arms and war material remaining in unoccupied territory which are not left for use of French authorized forces are to be put in store under German or Italian control. Manufacture of new war material in non-occupied territory is to stop immediately.

Article 7. Land and coast defenses with armaments, etc., in occupied territory are to be handed over in good condition. All plans of fortifications, particulars of mines, barrages, etc., to be handed over.

Fleet to Be Demobolized.

Article 8. French fleet, except that part left free for safeguard of French interests in the colonial empire shall be collected in ports to be specified, demobilized and disarmed under German or Italian control.

The German Government solemnly declares that it has no intention of using for its own purposes during the war the French fleet stationed in ports under German control except those units necessary for coast surveillance and mine sweping.

Except for that part (to be determined) of the fleet destined for protection of colonial interests, all ships outside French territorial waters must be recalled to France.

Article 9. All information about naval mines and defenses to be furnished. Mine sweeping to be carried on by the French forces.

Article 10. The French Government is not to undertake any hostile action with remaining armed forces. Members of French forces are to be prevented from leaving French soil. No material is to be conveyed to Great Britain. No Frenchman is to serve against Germany in the service of other Powers.

Article 11. No French merchant shipping is to leave harbor. Resumption of commercial traffic is subject to previous authorization of German and Italian Governments. Merchant ships outside France are to be recalled, or if that is not possible, they are to go to neutral ports.

No Aircraft to Leave Ground.

Article 12. No French aircraft is to leave the ground. Aerodromes are to be placed under German or Italian control. All foreign aircraft in unoccupied territory are to be handed over to German authorities.

Article 13. All establishments and military tools and stocks in occupied territory are to be handed over intact. Ports, permanent fortifications and naval building yards are to be left in their present state and not destroyed or damaged. The same is to apply to all means of communication, particularly railways, roads, canals, telephones, telegraphs, navigational and coast lighting marks. Material for repairs are to be made available.

Article 14. All wireless transmitting stations in French territory are to stop.

German-Italian Freight.

Article 15. The French Government is to facilitate transport of merchandise between Germany and Italy across unoccupied territory.

Article 16. The French Government is to repatriate the population to occupied territory.

Article 17. The French Government is to prevent transfer of valuables and stocks from occupied to non-occupied territory or abroad.

Article 18. The cost of maintenance of German occupying troops is to be paid by France.

Article 19. All German prisoners of war are to be released. The French Government is to hand over all German subjects indicated by German Government who are in France or French overseas territory.

Article 20. All French prisoners of war in German hands are to remain so until the conclusion of peace.

Article 21. Provides for safeguard of material handed over.

Article 22. The German armistice commission will carry out the armistice and will co-ordinate it with the Franco-Italian armistice.

Article 23. The armistice will enter into force as soon as the French Government have concluded a similar agreement with the Italian Government.

Cessation of hostilities will occur six hours after the Italian Government notify of its conclusion. The German Government will announce this by wireless.

Article 24. The present armistice is valid until conclusion of a peace treaty and can be denounced at any moment if the French Government do not fulfill their obligations.

NAZI TROOPS BEGIN MOVING ARMISTICE CAR TO BERLIN

Historic Railway Coach in Compiegne Forest to Be Put on Trailer, Towed to Nearest Tracks.

BERLIN, June 24 (AP). — A labor battalion has begun work on transferring from Compeigne Forest to Berlin the historic railway car in which France signed the armistice terms Saturday as Germany did in 1918.

The car, ordered removed to Berlin by Adolf Hitler as a war trophy, must be loaded on a trailer and towed to the nearest railway by tractors.

NAZIS SAY BRITISH BOMBERS KILLED 3 FRENCH CAPTIVES

Three Others Reported Wounded at War Prisoners' Camp in Air Raid Near Hamburg.

BERLIN, June 24 (AP). — The Nazi news agency said today British bomers killed three French prisoners of war and wounded three other inmates of a camp near Hamburg last night.

The High Command's communique, issued earlier, said that "several bombs fell on a prison camp on the Baltic Coast, killing and injuring a number of Frenchmen."

It was not clear whether the two incidents were the same.

By agreement between the British and Italian governments an axchange of passengers will be made at this neutral port.

ITALIANS REPORT SEVERAL FRENCH FORTS CAPTURED

Advance From Mont Blanc to Sea Claimed — Allied Submarine Said to Have Been Sunk.

ROME, June 24 (AP).—The Italian high command announced today that its troops were pushing ahead into France from Mont Blanc to the sea and threatening to smash through the French line. A communique said several forts had been captured.

Italian submarine chasers sank an Allied submarine in the Tyrrhenian Sea, the high command reported.

"Despite strong enemy fortifications in high mountains (the Alps), and strong enemy resistance as well as bad weather conditions, our offensive could not be held by the enemy and our troops gained notable successes," the communique said. "A series of forts were taken: Briancon, Isere, Tiriere and others.

"The advance of Italian troops is being continued on all fronts, our troops threatening him from the rear.

Planes Raid Enemy Bases.

"Italian aviation carried out intense activity. The bases of Malta and the arsenal of Bizerte were bombed. Two Italian planes failed to return.

"In North Africa the bases of Mersa and Matruh were attacked and British formations of troops and tanks were bombed. All our planes returned to their bases.

"In East Africa the bases of Jibuti and Berbera and enemy troops at Kenya were successfully attacked. Enemy raids on Massowa, Assab and Diredawa were driven off.

"Further raids were carried out in Macaaca. two buildings destroyed and several fires started. Active reconnaissance took place on other fronts.

Enemy Flyers Bomb Palermo.

"Yesterday afternoon enemy planes bombed Palermo without damage to military objectives, but 25 persons were killed and 153 injured. One enemy plane was brought down by anti-aircraft gunfire."

The high command announced that 20 persons had been killed and almost two score injured in an enemy air raid Saturday on the Sicilian port of Trapani but denied any damage to military objectives.

It also reported that Italian planes had bombed the British naval base at Alexandria "effectively" Saturday.

In North Africa, the high command said, "action has turned in our favor" after "intense activity by our air force against armored cars and enemy formations."

British Report Seven Italian Submarines Have Been Sunk.

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—The Admiralty announced today that an Italian submarine had been destroyed.

The submarine was destroyed by British naval forces east of Suez, it was said. This would mean in the Red Sea or the Indian Ocean.

Seven Italian submarines now have been "disposed of," the communique said.

The Admiralty announced the loss, of the British naval yacht Campeador, from which 20 men are believed to have been lost.

Heavy French-Italian Artillery Fire Heard at Monte Carlo.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, June 24 (AP).—Cannon are booming from the Alps to the Riviera shore with the Italians finally having started heavy action against the French.

The rumble of Italian big guns began Saturday and was audible at Mentone, Cap Martin, Monte Carlo, Roquebrune and Monaco. Immediately the French mountain batteries replied.

Fifty Americans are staying at Monte Carlo. Twenty of those returned Friday from Cannes, considering that the armistice negotiations have made the situation safer.

Series of Raids on Malta; Five Civilians Wounded.

CAIRO, June 24 (AP).—Five civilians were wounded in a series of air raids on the British naval base at Malta by a large force of Italian bombers escorted by fighter planes, a Royal Air Force communique reported today.

The communique said little damage was done by the aircraft, which included fighter planes as well as bombers. One bomber was shot down in flames.

Meanwhile, British Somali irregulars and camel corps patrols made raids across the desert frontiers of Ethiopia and Italian Somaliland. At some points there were skirmishes, the British reported, and native troops fled from two outposts.

From bases along the Mediterranean, in Egypt, East Africa and along the Red Sea, British fighting planes and bombers roared out to continue pounding Italian troops, supply and naval targets. One plane was credited with participating in the capture of an Italian submarine.

Heavy bombs were dropped on supply centers in Ethiopia, and at Diredawa, on the railway from Addis Ababa to Jibuti, an Italian airdrome was attacked. One plane on the field was reported splintered and another damaged.

France Makes Peace With Italy

day at a brief session after which the French retired to study them and communicate with Bordeaux.

Since France already had accepted the German terms, the speedy conclusion of the negotiations with Italy was not a surprise.

The armistice was signed while Italian and German troops were launching an offensive against French Alpine troops from front and rear.

Italian Communique.

The Government issued the following communique:

"The French-Italian armistice was signed at 7:15 p. m. Italian summer time on June 24 in the outskirts of Rome.

"Marshal Pietro Badoglio, chief of the general staff of the Italian armed forces, signed for Italy. Gen. Chares Huntziger signed for France. (He also signed the Compiegne armistice with Germany.)

"At 7:35 p. m. the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Count Galeazzo Ciano, informed the Reich Government of the signing.

"Consequently hostilities will cease at 1:35 a. m. Italian summer time tomorrow, June 25, 1940."

The signing took place in a large salon on the ground floor of the villa after a four-hour discussion in French. Italian delegates sat at one end of a long table and the French at the other.

Arrival of French.

The French arriver yesterday from Munich in three German planes. The terms of the armistice were read to them at Villa Inchesa in a ceremony that lasted only 20 minutes. Premier Mussolini was not present.

A company of carabinieri in war uniforms was drawn up outside the villa when the French arrived, escorted by motorcycle troopers from their suburban villas. The carabinieri saluted.

The French were received by Andrea Geisei Cliesia de Vagliasco, chief ceremonial officers, and other Foreign Ministry officials. The Italian plenipotentiaries greeted them with the Fascist salute.

All sat down and Count Ciano, announced that Marshal Badoglio would deliver the armistice terms.

The Marshal rose and spoke briefly. Then, turning to Gen. Mario Roatta, army assistant chief of staff, he asked him to read the conditions.

Gen. Huntziger formally acknowledged that he and his companions had taken note of the conditions and would transmit the terms to their Government for a decision to be given at the next meeting.

They were then escorted to their automobiles and returned to their villas while Count Ciano sped to Rome to see Mussolini. Concluding meetings were held today after the French had talked by telephone to Bordeaux.

(In Geneva Fascist sources said they understood Italy had demanded the right to military occupation of France's entire Mediterranean coast for the duration of the war with England and later a semi-independent buffer state would be formed at Nice, Savoy and part of Dauphine.)

The Italian representatives were Ciano, Marshal Badoglio, Admiral Domenico Cavagnari, naval chief of staff; Gen. Francisco Pricoli, chief of the air force, and Gen. Roatta.

The French delegates were, besides Gen. Huntziger, Leon Noel, former Ambassador to Poland; Rear Admiral Maurice le Luc, and Aviation Gen. Jean Bergeret.

ALL-DAY SESSION BY FRENCH CABINET

BORDEALX, June 24 (AP).—Vanquished France bowed tonight to Italy's armistice demands ending its battle against the axis Powers and leaving England to carry on alone the struggle.

The Cabinet after al-day meetings in this German-encircled emergency capital ordered its peace emissaries in Italy to sign with the Fascist Government. Six hours after Italy informs Germany of the French capitaulation the "cease fire" order goes out to remnants of the French army still carrying on against its conquerors.

The Cabinet's decision came after a series of meetings presided over by President Albert Lebrun. The armistice terms were not disclosed.

Final Meeting at 5:30 P. M.

At its final meeting at 5:30 p. m. (10:30 a. m. St. Louis time) the Cabinet directed Gen. Charles Huntziger, ranking envoy of the four-man French delegation meeting with the Italians near Rome, to sign the agreement.

On receipt of notice that the order has ben carried out, Marshal Henri Philippe Petain will direct his forcer to suspend fighting. This was the procedure stipulated in the French-German armistice reached in Compiegne forest Saturday among Adolf Hitler's representatives and the same French armistice commission.

France bowed out of the picture as a belligerent after nine months and 21 days. Most of her country was overrun.

It was reported the French Government would move (here four words were censored) to a point in the area (here seven words censored) where it could remain until final peace terms are negotiated (here five lines censored).

The German armistice terms allow the Government to move to any point in the German-occupied area, even to Paris if it desires, remain there until final peace terms are negotiated.

British-French Split.

The last links with Britain, meanwhile, apparently were severed by the departure of British Ambassador Sir Ronald Hugh Campbell and the subsequent broadcast announcement from London that Britain could no longer recognize the French Government at Bordeaux.

(British sources said today that Britain still was maintaining diplomatic connections with the Bordeaux Government through the French Ambassador in London.)

The London broadcast announcement was received shortly after Premier Petain had issued a sharp reply to a statement by British Prime Minister Churchill expressing "grief and amazement" that France had accepted Germany's terms.

Petain declared Churchill is not the judge of France's best interests and "even less can ne judge French honor."

Even as Petain spoke the remnants of the French army fought to hold their shattered defense lines against Germans advancing on the north and Italians attacking on the south.

Bordeaux "Safety Zone."

Gen. Maxime Weygand, commander of the French forces, said Adolf Hitler had promised that the German armies would remain 10 miles outside of Bordeaux—present seat of the French Government—pending the outcome of armistice negotiations.

A line of white flags north and east of Bordeaux marked the "safety zone," and Weygand said he had telegraphed the German high command a description of its location.

The Government announced, meanwhile, that Gen. Charles de Gaulle had been dismissed from the army and from his post as Undersecretary of War because of his rerecent broadcast from London criticising the French Government for its conduct of the latter days of the war.

(De Gaulle last night in another broadcast announced the formation of a "French National Committee" in England to continue the fight against Germany and Italy.)

The Government also announced that Pierre Laval, veteran of a half-dozen Cabinet posts since 1925, had been named Vice-Premier. Laval was co-author with Sir Samuel Hoare, then British Foreign Minister, of the so-called Hoare-Laval plan to halt the Italian-Ethiopian war by granting Italy territorial concessions in Ethiopia. A storm of criticism ended the plan and cost Hoare his office.

American Ambulance Corps.

Thirty of 80 ambulances of the American volunteer ambulance Corps in France have been taken from Bordeaux to Hossegor, near the Bay of Biscay port of Biarritz, just above the Spanish frontier. Drivers said they probably would remain there until they learn the terms of the Italian armistice.

Dr. James V. Sparks, in command of the corps, said contact with 50 other ambulances had been lost during the German advances. He listed 25 to 40 American volunteers with the corps as unaccounted for, but said many probably would join the main group later.

Word of the signing of an armistice with Germany brought a reaction of relief to thousands in Bordeaux, but their burden still weighed heavily.

The problem of refugees is still great and to this will be added the work of rehabilitation and the trek back to shell-plowed fields, empty barns and ruined homes.

The Bordeaux newspaper Le Petite Gironde lamented "the past 20 years of mistakes" and said the French Government failed to carry to completion a definite policy toward Germany.

"Our error was in never choosing between the alternatives of agreement or fighting," the newspaper said. "With the occupation of the Ruhr (by Germany) we attempted a policy of coercion. Under pressure of our allies we abandoned it before it might have returned the results we expected of it.

"With Briand (former Premier Aristide Briand who died in 1932) we attempted a policy of reconciliation and understanding. Briand never found in Parliament the majority which would have permitted him to realize his aims."

The Paris newspaper Figaro, now published in Bordeaux, said:

"This is the cruel hour which measures our faults . . . France has fallen in a battle in which she was seeking no material advantages. She cannot be extinguished by defeat if she fulfills to the full extent of her strength her obligations to civilization."

The French news agency Havas said France must learn from "the lesson of lost battles" and look to the future.

"Along with financial and economic realignment which will require years of uninterrupted effort," Havas said, "it will be necessary to work for moral realignment which, without doubt, is the most urgent. All this must be done in a difficult atmosphere, but even that should reinforce our wishes."

PETAIN DECLARES CHURCHILL IS NOT JUDGE OF FRANCE

Premier Expresses 'Sorrowful Amazement' in Speech Protesting Against Briton's Statement.

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—Premier Marshal Petain of France in a broadcast heard in London last night, expressed "sorrowful amazement" at Prime Minister Churchill's statement on the British Government's "grief and amazement" at France's acceptance of Germany's armistice terms.

"Mr. Churchill must know that our faith in ourselves has not wavered," Petain said. "We can understand his anguish, but we cannot pass over his speech without protesting."

Petain said Churchill was competent to judge the affairs of his own country but not to judge those of France, "much less of French honor." "Our flag is intact," he added.

"Mr. Churchill must learn," Petain said, "that France has neither husbanded her blood nor her efforts. She knows she merits the respect of the world and it is through herself first of all that France expects to be reborn."

"For the present," he went on, "the French are certain to show greater grandeur in avowing their defeat than in pursuing vain and illusory projects. For the future they know their destiny is in their courage and their perseverance."

In an apparent reference to the British Government's appeal to all Frenchmen to rally behind the British in the fight against Germany, Petain said:

"No one can divide France while she suffers. Mr. Churchill must know that our faith in ourselves has not wavered."

The Marshal said the French peasant had seen his land devastated, but "our Fatherland," he added, "remains untouched so long as we have faith in it."

BRITISH BAR ANY EXPORTS TO FRANCE AND CORSICA

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—The British Government prohibited today the export of all classes of goods to French territories in Europe, including Corsica.

FRANK J. BOEHM GOES TO TRIAL ON PERJURY CHARGE

Jury Being Picked in Case of Former Union Electric Officer Accused in SEC Inquiry.

POLITICIANS ON LIST OF U. S. WITNESSES

Evidence Expected to Be Developed on Company's Political Practices—Continuance Denied.

The trial of Frank J. Boehm, former executive vice-president of Union Electric Co. of Missouri, on perjury indictment began today in the court of United States District Judge George H. Moore, after continuance sought by Boehm's counsel was denied by Judge Moore.

A plea of not guilty was entered for Boehm by John S. Leahy, one of his attorneys. Leahy asked for continuance on the ground that a lawsuit in which he is a party was scheduled to be resumed in Circuit Court today and he would have to represent himself there since his counsel was ill. Judge Moore ruled this was not sufficient reason for a continuance.

Selection of the jury started with a panel of 50 veniremen. It was expected this and other preliminaries would take several hours.

Since the charges against Boehm are based on his alleged denials of knowledge of the company's political slush funds and contributions to candidates and the padding of expense accounts by certain of its officers and employes, the trial is expected to produce testimony about the company's widespread political activities over a period of several years. The large number of witnesses include officeholders and other politicians.

Five Counts.

The indictment contains five counts, each charging that on a particular appearance as a witness before officers of the Securities and Exchange Commission Boehm testified falsely on matters material to the commission's investigation of Union Electric Co. political activities and business practices which had been instituted on Nov. 9, 1938.

A motion to quash the venire on the ground it was not properly drawn, filed by Walter E. Gallagher of Boehm's counsel, was overruled. In addition to Leahy and Gallagher, defense counsel incldued John Sirica of Washington, a former Assistant District Attorney for the District of Columbia.

Fifteen of the veniremen were excused by Judge Moore. Twenty-seven of the remaining 35 were from St. Louis or St. Louis County. Maximum penalty on conviction, on each count, is imprisonment for five years and a fine of $2000.

Examination by Blanton.

United States District Attorney Harry C. Blanton, who is directing the prosecution, examined the veniremen as to their qualifications. The fourth man, Robert S. Blake, of North Central avenue, Clayton, was dismissed for cause when he said he was prejudiced against the Securities and Exchange Commission, being of the opinion that it was tyrannical in its enforcement methods.

When a panel of 28 qualified veniremen has been obtained the final jury will be selected by permitting the defense to strike off 10 and the Government six. At Blanton's request the Court provided for two alternate jurors to lessen the chance of the trial being interrupted by illness or unavoidable absence of jurors.

At the noon recess 14 veniremen had been examined and 12 were retained on the panel. The second to be excused for cause was W. J. Bisbin of Overland, district superintendent of the Western Electric Co., who said that since his company had business dealings with Union Electric he thought he should not serve.

The indictment sets out that Boehm was a sworn witness before officers of the SEC on Dec. 1938, and on Jan. 16, Feb. 18, July 10 and July 11, 1939.

Details of Charges.

Boehm is charged with having testified:

That he had no knowledge of the padding of expense accounts by officers or employes of Union Electric Co., when in fact he knew that the accounts of George K. Miltenberger, George W. Welsh, George P. May, Eugene Kropp, Albert C. Laun and others were padded.

That he had not padded his own expense account, when in fact it contained amounts which had not been expended in behalf of the company and items described as expenditures for purposes other than they had actually been made for.

That he had no knowledge of a slush fund, when in fact he knew such a fund was derived from secret rebates and kickbacks from attorneys, supply houses and others with whom the company had business dealings, and himself controlled the fund and made contributions from it to political candidates.

Laun, who also was a vice-president and the ace lobbyist of Union Electric Co., several weeks ago entered a plea of no contest on a perjury indictment and was sentenced by United States District Judge Davis to a year and a day in the Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary and was fined $4500.

Laun in City Jail.

He was taken to prison but recently was returned to the St. Louis City jail. It is expected he will be a Government witness in the Boehm trial.

Disclosures heretofore published in the Post-Dispatch have accounted for a slush fund of more than $300,000 collected by Union Electric officials from 1930 to 1939 through padded expense accounts, secret rebates in business transactions and kickbacks from lawyers.

Boehm and Laun were removed as vice-presidents of the company in May, 1939, as a result of early disclosures of the company's political activities. At the same time, Louis H. Egan was removed as president. All three were continued on the company payroll until early this year when further disclosures caused them to be dismissed.

Boehm's salary was $42,000 a year, Egan's $60,000 and Laun's about $16,000.

CHANGES IN BUS ROUTES EFFECTIVE NEXT MONDAY

Service Between Brentwood, Richmond Heights and Maplewood to Be Shifted.

Changes in routes, effective next Monday, of busses operating between Brentwood, Richmond Heights and Maplewood, were announced today by the St. Louis County Bus Co. Following a more direct route, busses from Maplewood will run west from Dale and Bellevue avenues to Hanley road and south to Brentwood, returning by the same route.

Residents of the Folk avenue area in Maplewood will be served by the Manchester-Valley Park line which, between Hanley road and Big Bend boulevard, will be shifted north to Folk avenue, eastbound busses turning off Manchester road into Hanley, then north to Folk, east to Big Bend, south to Manchester and east to the Maplewood city limits loop. The same route will be used in returning.

Busses on the same line in the Webster Groves area will be rerouted to go south on Laclede Station road to Jackson avenue, then west to Edgar road and thence to Park road, picking up the present route there over Lockwood and Gore avenues.

DEADLINE SET FOR VOTERS NOT ON ROLLS TO REGISTER

Next Monday in County, July 22 in City Last Days for Qualifying for Primary.

St. Louis County voters not on Election Board rolls under the permanent registration system have until next Monday to register to vote in the primary election Aug. 6. The dead line in St. Louis is July 22.

Registered voters who have moved since the last election have until July 16 in the county and July 31 in the city to notify the respective election boards of their new addresses. This can be done by mail. Letters should include the old and new addresses and signature of the voter.

The city and county board offices are open regularly from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily and from 9 a. m. to noon on Saturdays. The county office, at Clayton Courthouse, will remain open until 9 p. m. next Thursday and Friday. The city office, at 208 South Twelfth boulevard, will remain open Saturdays until 5 p. m. until close of registration.

RELIEF SESSION PRIOR TO AUG. 1, MAYOR SAYS

Assued by Governor of Special Legislative Call on Aid to Needy, He Asserts.

Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann said today that he had been assured by Gov. Lloyd C. Stark that the Governor would call a special session of the State Legislature before Aug. 1 to consider the State's pressing relief problem.

The Mayor made his announcement at a meeting in his office of members of the St. Louis Advisory Committee of the State Social Security Commission, State Senators and representatives from St. Louis, and city department heads. They had been called together by the Mayor to discuss what would be done after the State relief funds are exhausted at the end of July.

There is $262,000 of the original $6,500,000 relief appropriation left to take care of the State's relief needs for July. The allotment for June was $271,000, of which St. Louis got $110,000.

City's Needs Put at $700,000.

Hubert Harris, administrator in St. Louis for the Social Security Commission, said at least $700,000 in relief funds would be required by St. Louis for the five months from Aug. 1 to the end of the year. Even if all employables now on the relief rolls are given jobs, he said, there still would be 5000 families in need of relief.

The total relief money needed by the State for the remainder of the year was estimated by Representative Maurice Schechter at $1,250,000.

Food Stamp Bill Passed.

The bill appropriating $200,000 to establish a food stamp plan in St. Louis under which surplus commodities will be distributed to needy families was passed without a dissenting vote by the Board of Aldermen before the board adjourned for the summer. The measure carries an emergency clause and will be effective when it is signed by the Mayor.

Mayor Dickmann announced receipt of a telegram from Congressman John J. Cochran assuring him that agents of the AAA would make a survey here to determine the best methods of putting the food stamp plan into operation.

12,003-BL. OIL FLOW IN DAY REPORTED FOR ILLINOIS WELL

Largest Initial Output Recorded in State Claimed for Centralia Field Producer.

CENTRALIA, Ill., June 24 (AP). —An officer of the Gulf Refining Co. announced today that its No. 5 Felton, a well in the Centralia field, flowed 12,003 barrels of oil in 24 hours, greatest initial production in Illinois oil history.

The well, three and a half miles northwest of here, is producing from the Devonian lime at 2905 feet.

The largest 24-hour output of a single well previously reported was 10,800 barrels, produced by McBride's No. 8 Carson, in the same field. This well flowed at the rate of nearly 15,000 barrels a day last week, but the test was for only six hours.

HUNTER WOUNDS HIMSELF

John H. Marz, a filling station operator, accidentally shot himself in the right thigh yesterday when hunting squirrels on a farm near St. Charles. He was attempting to get a jammed shell out of his rifle, when it exploded.

Marz, who lives at 5218 North Broadway, was taken to Christian Hospital.

ROOSEVELT SIGNS BILL FOR WORK ON NEW CANAL LOCKS

$222,000,000 Measure Also Provides $68,000,000 for River and Harbor Projects.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—President Roosevelt signed today the $222,718,717 War Department civil functions bill, which includes $15,000,000 for starting work on a third set of Panama Canal locks.

Contract authorizations of $99,000,000 in connection with the locks also are included. War Department plans call for bomb-proof construction.

The total will finance non-military work of the department, including $68,009,110 for rivers and harbors and $70,000,000 for flood control.

The President returned today from a week-end visit at Hyde Park, N. Y., to take up national defense problems and other factors affected by Adolf Hitler's peace terms to France.

In two conferences, one with state and military officials and one with Chairman Norman Davis of the Red Cross, the President was to discuss refugee matters.

While Roosevelt's engagement list started today with an appointment for Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia of New York, Early said it had no bearing on reports that LaGuardia might succeed Secretary Perkins as head of the Labor Department.

Hitler's terms, as released through the British Ministry of Information, were shown to Roosevelt last night shortly after he left Hyde Park, N. Y.

Reporters submitted them to him through Secretary William D. Hassett, who brought back this word: "He read every line; but there is no comment."

Of paramount concern to the United States was what might be done with French possessions in the Western Hemisphere. On that point the London dispatches offered no enlightenment.

The White House has referred to the State Department "several hundred" telegrams and letters suggesting that the United States take over the French merchant marine, navy, or some possessions as payments for the French World War debt.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said he had no information on reports a libel might be filed against the French liner Normandie for dockage charges in New York harbor.

Chairman James L. Fly of the Federal Communications Commission said that plans had been made for a defense communications committee to "cope with any eventualities" in the field.

Fly said the committee, probably including representatives of the War, Navy and State Departments, the FCC and the communications industry, might be appointed in a presidential executive order this week.

FIVE WOMEN AND MAN HURT IN HEAD-ON AUTO CRASH

Two Suffer Skull Injuries in Collision on Highway 66 at Halls Ferry Road.

Five young women and a man were injured in a head-on collision of automobiles last night on United States Highway 66 near Halls Ferry road. The accident occurred when a southbound machine driven by A. J. Kulongoski, 3946A Lexington avenue, hit the back of another automobile, then collided with a northbound car, driven by Mrs. Robert Cummings of Miamisburg, O.

Most seriously injured were Miss Ruth Suttman and her cousin, Miss Rita Suttman, both of Miamisburg, who suffered skull injuries and were taken to St. Louis County Hospital. Mrs. Cummings and a third passenger in her car, Miss Laura Clark of Miamisburg, were treated at the hospital for minor injuries. Kulongoski was taken to City Hospital and later to Missouri Pacific Hospital, suffering a skull injury. Miss Irene Studt, 3910 Sullivan avenue, who was riding with him, suffered lacerations.

WITNESS ADMITS BEING STRAW MAN OF DICKMANN CO.

Charles C. Oheim on Stand Says He Acted in That Capacity for Firm for Six Years.

Charles C. Oheim, alleged straw man for the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co. in its transactions in real estate of the closed Kirkwood Trust Co., acknowledged on the witness stand today that he had never acquired real estate from the company for himself and that he had acted as straw man for the company in various transactions for six years.

Oheim, a printing salesman, said he received fees from the Dickmann company ranging from $2 to $10 for acting as straw party. He did not say what his fee was in the Kirkwood trust transaction.

His testimony was given in trial of the State's accounting suit for recovery of about $8837 in profits and commissions alleged to have been made by the company in secret straw-party purchases of real estate of the bank, for which it was the State's selling agent.

O. H. Moberly, president of the Jefferson Bank & Trust Co., who was State Finance Commissioner in 1937, testified he had not known Cheim was a straw man and that the Dickmann company was the actual purchaser.

Clyde Cope of counsel for the State Finance Department told Circuit Judge Eugene L. Padberg in his opening statement the State expected to prove that neither Oscar H. Wibbing, who was special deputy Finance Commissioner in charge of liquidating the bank, nor anyone else connected with the Finance Department knew that the Dickmann company, not Oheim, was the real buyer of the eight properties.

N. Murry Edwards, representing the company, told the court that Wibbing himself had asked Max Weinberg, an independent real estate salesman who had a desk in the Dickmann office and operated under the Dickmann license, to bid on the properties.

There were no profits, Edwards asserted. He said that the company had been compelled to take back second deeds of trust on two of the properties and that there had been defaults in three second deeds.

The State contends that the Dickmann company wrongfully took a 5 per cent c ommission on sale of the real estate to itself, the commission being $937.50 on the sale price of $18,750 to Oheim as purchaser of record in March, 1937. In addition, the State contends, the Dickmann company made a profit on the resale of the properties.

SHAPLEIGH CO. WILL MOVE TO SIMMONS CO. QUARTERS

Hardware Firm Will Vacate Two Buildings, Warehouse in Shift to 900 Spruce St.

Shapleigh Hardware Co., which recently purchased Simmons Hardware Co. for $2,712,497, will move shortly to quarters of the Simmons company at 900 Spruce street, part of the Cupples Station properties of Washington University.

The Shapleigh company now has under lease an eight-story building on the north side of Washington avenue from Third to Fourth street, a five-story building at the southeast corner of Third and Washington and a warehouse at Main and Ashley streets. These buildings will be vacated.

L. E. Crandall, president of Simmons Hardware Co, has been named a vice-president of Shapleigh. Burton F. Connelly, a member of the Shapleigh board of directors, has been appointed assistant secretary. Some of the Simmons employes will be employed by the Shapleigh company.

REYNAUD AIDS SAID TO HAVE CARRIED GOLD TO SPAIN

'Secret' Document Reported With Valuables Deposited in Bank.

IRUN, Spain, June 24 (AP). — Usually reliable sources said today that three secretaries of former Premier Paul Reynaud of France, admitted to Spain by special permit, were carrying gold worth several million francs and certain "secret" documents.

The permits provided that the three would have to report to police. They were searched by frontier guards.

The gold, in bars and coins, and bonds were deposited along with the documents in a Spanish bank, pending decisions by the governments of Spain and France, the informants said.

There was no official verification of the report.

4 HURT WHEN BUS HITS HOUSE

Four passengers on a Lindenwood bus were injured slightly at 7 o'clock last night when the machine jumped the curb, knocked down a tree and struck the front porch at the home of Arthur Whitmey, 3181 Watson road. The injured were treated at City Hospital and taken home.

Andrew Null, 7004 Southwest avenue, the driver, told police he lost control of the bus. He was booked for careless driving and destruction of property. The damage, including a broken sidewalk, was not estimated.

YOUTH ROBS MANAGER TAKING $1366 TO BANK

Holds Up Howards Cleaners Executivee on Street, Gets Package of Bills.

John Bradshaw, office manager for Howards Cleaners, was robbed of $1366 in company funds by an armed man at 2 p. m. today when he was on his way from the company's main foifce and plant at 2515 North Grand boulevard to the Lindell Trust Co. at Grand and St. Louis avenue.

The robber, about 21 years old, approached Bradshaw from behind, displayed a revolver, and said: "Give me that package under your arm." Bradshaw, who was carrying the money wrapped in brown paper, turned it over.

The robber stepped into the street car and got into an automobile which was being driven slowly southward in Grand.

Mrs. Ida Schuler Estate $77,309.

The estate of Mrs. Ida Schuler, 3839 Cleveland avenue, widow of John G. Schuler, insurance broker, was valued at $77,309 in an inventory filed in Probate Court today. Assets include $58,945 in bonds, $7138 in cash, $4592 in stocks, $3000 in notes and the residence, appraised at $3100. Mrs. Schuler died May 21, leaving the bulk of her estate to a friend, Miss Adele D. Brant, after making specific bequests totaling $22,000 to relatives and charities.

LARRY M'DANIEL EXPECTED TO QUIT CITY EXCISE POST

Candidate for Democratic Nomination for Governor—Resignation Urged by Papers.

Announcement of the resignation of Lawrence McDaniel, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, from the office of City Excise Commissioner, is expected soon, the Post-Dispatch learned today.

McDaniel, when asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter today as to the prospect of his resignation, declined to make any statement for publication.

As the Excise Commissionership is an appointive city office, its holder would submit his resignation to Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann, who appointed him. Mayor Dickmann is treasurer of McDaniel's campaign committee.

McDaniel is now on his official vacation, which he is spending in campaigning. He has headquarters at Hotel Jefferson, adjoining the rooms of the Democratic City Committee. He has said previously that he did not wish to resign, as he feared that he would be placed at a disadvantage in his campaign thereby. Many voters, he said, do not wish to vote for an "ex."

The Post-Dispatch and other newspapers have pointed out editorially that the duties of the Excise Commissioner, having supervision over city saloon licenses nad local enforcement of liquor laws, are incompatible with the position of a candidate, particularly a candidate for the office of Governor.

McDaniel is opposed by State Senator Allen McReynolds of Carthage and Circuit Judge Fred J. Frankenhoff of St. Joseph in the primary Aug. 6.

DEWEY WORKERS GETTING FEW PASSES TO CONVENTION FLOOR

Candidate's Break With New York Committeeman, Who Controls Credentials, Is Cause.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP). —How to get an "adequate" number of their workers into the Republican convention hall was one of the major problems today confronting Thomas E. Dewey of New York, presidential aspirant, and his campaign managers.

As a result of Dewey's break with Kenneth Simpson, New York National Committeeman, Dewey's workers were virtually without badges and other credentials which would admit them to the convention floor. Simpson controlled the credentials for the New York delegation.

Dewey's lieutenants managed to obtain through the National Committee a few sergeant-at-arms badges and some general admission tickets, the latter for today's session only.

"We also have 10 tickets good for the full week," one Dewey spokesman said, "but that's rather inadequate for a presidential candidate, don't you think?"

ROME AIM TO CUT FRENCH COLONIES OFF FROM BRITAIN

Also Trying to Isolate Turkey and Other Countries Which Might Help in Mediterranean.

ITALY USES TACT TOWARD FRANCE

Confident England Has Little Chance of Organizing Separatist Move in Morocco and Syria.

By JOHN T. WHITAKER.

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1940.

ROME, June 24. — In imposing peace terms on France today, Premier Mussolini enjoys the greatest triumph in 17 years of Fascism and the expectation that, by reason of these conditions, he and Reichfuehrer Hitler will shortly be able to dismember the British Empire.

For, while Hitler occupies the north of France, thus assuring an arsenal and bases against England, the Axis allies take over the French navy, according to the reported armistice terms, and bid for control of France's African Empire.

Italy is concentrating its diplomacy toward the isolation of the French colonies and the neutralization of Egypt, Turkey, Greece and Rumania—the countries on which Great Britain's war efforts in the Mediterranean depend.

About Face by Stalin.

The strength of the Axis is reflected in the quick about face of Josef V. Stalin. The Russian dictator, after bidding for Bessarabia and attempting negotiations with Turkey, has had to deny any such intentions and to toe the mark for Hitler—the surest sign to the Italians that the Soviet recognizes Britain's plight.

The Italians, confident in this moment of Axis triumph, feel that Britain has little chance of organizing a separatist movement by French patriots who would continue the struggle in Morocco and Syria. The Italians, moreover, are displaying remarkable tact toward French sensibilities and create a deliberate contrast with Prime Minister Churchill's condemnation. Having fought no real battle with the French, the Italians spared them every unnecessary humiliation in the discussion and signing of the armistice here.

Instead of the dramatic railway car in the forest of Compiegne, the French were given a secluded villa 20 miles from Rome and their rendezvous took place with both the public and the press shut out.

The Germans confronted the French with Hitler in person, but at 7:30 o'clock last night, the Italian terms were handed the mission by Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italy's foreign minister; Marshal Pietro Badoglio, commander-in-chief of the Italian forces and the chiefs of the general staffs of the army, navy and air forces. Mussolini was not present.

Irony for Badoglio.

The occasion must have been grimly ironical to Marshal Badoglio, as the aged soldier began the reading of the terms, grew breathless and handed the paper to an assistant chief of staff to finish. In the World War, Badoglio was in command of an Italian army brigaded in France with French troops. He holds many French decorations for his gallantry as an ally.

While the French plenipotentiaries were arriving in three German transport planes yesterday, escorted by German officers, the Italians began the confiscation of French Government property: The beautiful Villa Medici and its gardens were the first spoils of war.

The French Academy, founded by Louis XIV, has been housed in the Villa Medici since 1666. Standing above the famous Spanish steps, the villa is surrounded by the most beautiful gardens in Rome and commands a view of the whole city.

U. S. Embassy Surrenders Villa.

The villa and other French property had been entrusted to the American Embassy by the French Government, but when the Italians notified the Americans formally of the sequestration, no protest could be made since Italy, as most countries, never signed the special protocol of The Hague agreement of 1907. David Williamson, first secretary of the American Embassy, who has been in charge of French interests, broke the seals and surrendered the Villa Medici to the Governor of Rome and officials of the Foreign Office at noon yesterday.

It is believed that this is the first step in the recovery of other properties of great beauty and historical value which have long been in possession of the French. The French Embassy, for instance, has been housed in the Palazzo Farnese. Built by Michelangelo, it is an example of Renaissance architecture at its best. Its walls are covered with tapestries by Rubens and other art treasures and many critics have felt that it is the most beautiful building, not merely in Rome, but in the world.

G. O. P. HALL HALF-FILLED, LITTLE CHEERING AT OPENING

CONVENTION SETS UP COMMITTEES IN 46 MINUTES, QUITS TILL NIGHT

Preliminary Work Finished Quickly—Brief Demonstrations for Landon, Gov. James and Senator Bridges.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP).—Moving at a swift pace, the Republican national convention disposed of preliminary routine in a 46-minute session today and headed for the real work of picking a candidate for the presidency.

Demonstrations were few in the convention hall. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, the 1936 nominee, got some cheers; so did Gov. Arthur James of Pennsylvania and Senator Bridges of New Hampshire. The last two are candidates.

In rapid fire order, the convention gave formal vestments to credentials, rules, permanent organization and platform committees. Then the delegates trooped back downtown, where the talk of Wendell Willkie of New York for the nomination was going full blast.

Opening Delayed 43 Minutes.

Opening of the convention was delayed 43 minutes while delegates and spectators found their seats. After National Chairman John D. M. Hamilton finally rapped the assembly to order, all joined in singing "America," led by a Negro baritone. The galleries were less than half-filled.

The assemblage remained standing while the Rev. Albert Joseph McCartney, pastor of the Covenant First Presbyterian Church of Washington, D. C., prayed that a "spirit of charity" preside over the convention and that it be dedicated "anew upon the altar of our nation's welfare."

Mayor Robert E. Lamberton welcomed the convention to Philadelphia. He told the delegates that "from a political viewpoint," they would "be among friends."

"The city," Lamberton said, "has not elected a Democratic Mayor within my memory and Pennsylvania in that time has elected a Democratic Governor but once."

Formalities Hastened.

The convention rushed through the routine formalities of approving the temporary roll of delegates and electing temporary officers, including Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, as temporary chairman and keynote speaker. Stassen's keynote address will be heard at tonight's session.

One by one, Hamilton recognized a series of delegates to offer the routine motions creating the various standing committees—on credentials, permanent organization, rules and order of business, and resolutions.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, tall, smiling broadly, attired in black, offered one. Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire became the first candidate whose name was mentioned in the convention when he was called to his feet to offer another.

When a recess was taken at 11:29 a. m., until tonight's session when the keynote address will be heard, the horseshoe-shaped galleries still were only half filled.

Call for Order.

The first gavel crack came at 10:17 a. m. Chairman Hamilton ordered delegates to be seated and instructed the sergeant at arms to clear the aisles. Few paid any attention. Looking over the confused scene, Hamilton laid down the gavel and marched back to find a seat. This was 17 minutes after the scheduled opening time.

The big hall was filled with the noise of delegates pushing through crowded aisles to find marked seats by state standards. Many simply stood and talked. A band from a stand in a niche high up near the roof drew down splashes of music. Few gallery seats were filled and many whole sections of the gallery tiers held no spectators.

Some of the delegates wore red carnations, the Taft emblem. Supporters of Dewey, Willkie and a half-dozen other aspirants, also were early arrivals.

Landon was given an ovation by the Oklahoma delegation as he walked up the aisle to the Kansas section. One delegate shouted: "You're liable to be the nominee before we get out of here."

Along with Dewey, Willkie, and Taft buttons were evidences of support for Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, Gov. James, Frank Gannett of New York, Senator Bridges and several "favorite sons."

Candidates on Hand.

Like no convention in recent history, all the candidates involved in the voting were on the scene.

Among the groups are the workers for another potential candidate, former President Herbert Hoover. A long list of men who between 1928 and 1932 were closely associated with Hoover moved among and talked with the delegates.

The former President will address the convention Tuesday night, and those who have had advance peeks at his speech say much of it is devoted to foreign policy.

Candidates' Comment.

Willkie's rivals, including Senator Robert A. Taft and Thomas E. Dewey of New York, showed no discouragement, however. Taft headquarters conceded there was some shift of sentiment among the delegates, but contended that any Willkie gains were at Dewey's expense.

The ruddy and smiling young Dewey, however, was far from ready to admit this. Commenting on the Willkie boom, Dewey said he had 'difficulty finding out that it's been largely translated into delegates." He told reporters that a check of all delegations showed that more than 400 votes would go to him on the first ballot, and that he would lead his nearest opponent by 100 votes at a minimum. He predicted his nomination on the second or third ballot.

Questioned concerning a "stop-Willkie" movement by eight Republican Congressmen, Willkie merely beamed and said: "Everything is fine."

While the convention was in session, former Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, called on Wentings of Delaware, called on Willkie downtown and afterward told reporters the utilities executive would have "100 or more" votes on the first ballot. He said three of Delaware's six delegates would be Willkie's on the first.

Taft headquarters made public a statement attributed to Samuel E. Boys of Plymouth, Ind., a convention delegate, asserting that Willkie "won't suit a lot of Republicans."

Boys, a Plymouth newspaper editor, was quoted as saying ina message to "hundreds of Republicans throughout Indiana" that Willkie has "two important handicaps which the other aspirants do not have."

Boys was quoted as declaring that "(1) he was a Democrat up until two years ago, which won't suit a lot of Republicans; and (2) he is a utility man and the people have a strong feeling against utility men."

Seating Contests.

Taft forces were reported to have decided to contest in the Credentials Committee the National Committtee's recent action tentatively seating Florida and South Carolina delegations. They were backing the South Carolina delegation headed by "Tieless Joe" Tolbert.

At the Vandenburg headquarters strategists reported they were depending on second choice votes to put their candidate out in front for the nomination. They said that "if and when" other leading nominees began to slip Vandenburg was counting on his friendship with them to increase his strength.

Edwin F. Jaeckle, chairman of the New York State Republican Committee, predicted in a statement that Dewey "will not only lead on the first ballot, but will be nominated in short order."

At a press conference yesterday, Taft said he had talked with delegates from "half the states," and found "the prospect very encouraging." He had been "holding" his strength, he added, and had "lost no primary strength." However, as to "secondary strength" among delegations with which he is second choice, he could not say.

"Whispering" Campaigns.

Bridges held a press conference at which he brought into the open a subject about which there had been much private talk. Two or three candidates were circulating "vicious stories" about their opponents, he said, "campaigns of innuendoes" were on which would "hurt the party and the country." Two or three of the stories involved, he said, fell within the category of slander. He declined to elaborate, or to name names, but one of his campaign leaders said that most of the "bitterness" of which Bridges spoke was directed at Willkie.

In a radio speech last night National Chairman Hamilton said "the time has come when we must swap horses."

"Under the New Deal we have somehow lived through seven years of profligacy, waste, bureaucracy, partican politics, defiance of the Constitution and the shocking ineptitude of those in high places," he said.

"As a result of this ineptitude, the nation finds itself as totally unprepared for its military defense in a world aflame, as it has been left totally unprepared industrially and economically."

G.O.P. Convention Opens; Willkie Gaining Support

volvement in foreign wars, committed the party to a strong national defense program, but it was reported to include advocacy of continued aid, within the bounds of international law and American neutrality statute, to those countries which resist aggression.

The subcommittee argued that war-making and warlike attitudes should be assumed and exercised by Congress, rather than the President; and only when necessary to defend the integrity, vital interests and territory of this nation against such dangers as threaten its existence, independence or security.

It denounced the present state of unpreparedness and said the third-term tradition should be maintained as a bulwark against dictatorships.

Last week some political observers felt that Willkie's pro-Ally stand was too close to that of President Roosevelt and that the convention would insist on an isolationist plank. The tentative plank is flexible and broad enough for any of the dozen candidates whose names will go before the convention.

Gov. Baldwin Aids Willkie.

Willkie, the colorful public utility executive, obtained timely support last night when he arranged for Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin, Connecticut's "favorite son," to be one of his floor managers. By this deal Willkie got Connecticut's 16 votes.

A new Willkie invasion of another candidate's camp developed today when a bloc of 14 favorable to Willkie developed in the big Pennsylvania delegation of 72 which was pledged to Gov. Arthur James.

The fresh Willkie support developed when Frank J. Harris of Pittsburgh, leader of the Western Pennsylvania group, said 14 delegates with whom Willkie had breakfast probably would swing from James to Willkie after the first or second ballot.

The bewilderment of the convention is directly attributable to the European war.

For almost two years Dr. Glenn Frank and 200 representative Republicans worked on a "program for a dynamic America," which was to be the "Bible" of the convention and the presidential and vice-presidential nominees it selected. This program was predicated on the assumption that domestic issues would dominate the forthcoming campaign.

The Nazi invasion of Denmark, Norway, Holland and Belgium and the surrender of the Bordeaux Government in France completely changed the picture.

Dewey, the youthful racket-buster of New York, captured the imagination of the out-of-power Republicans, who looked upon him as a candidate who could make an effective campaign against Roosevelt and the New Deal. At one time he rated 72 per cent of the Republican choices for the presidential nomination in the so-called polls of political opinion. Meanwhile, Senator Taft went about the practical business of rounding up delegates in the Solid South and in those states not committed to "favorite sons."

But Willkie, a political unknown a year ago and a registered Democrat until 1936, came up from behind in an unprecedented wave of popular enthusiasm, which can only be described as a political miracle. The sweep has continued into the convention and among the delegates and has the former political leaders, such as remain, completely baffled. Old-timers like former Representative Bertrand Snell of New York and former Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania are going around hotel lobbies asking each other what this Willkie movement means.

"Willkie has the 'spark,'" Snell observes, "but can the spark be made to last until November?"

The politicians are not worried about what may happen after November. They want to win the election.

The continuation of the Willkie boom into the convention can be explained by the lack of real leaders and the absence of intense enthusiasm for the other candidates. House Minority Leader Joe Martin of Massachusetts, who will be permanent chairman of the convention and himself a possible compromise presidential candidate, declares that no person controls as many as five votes. This, of course, is an exaggeration, but nobody, not even an outstanding candidate, can swing any considerable block of delegates, as at past conventions.

New York and Pennsylvania, the two largest delegations, are split wide open, and it is an axiom of practical politics that a leader must be able to control his own state before he can speak for other delegations.

The old-fashioned Republican politicos don't especially care for Willkie. They want a lifelong Republican, who plays the game according to the old rules. They are also afraid that a man who goes up fast in popular acclaim will come down fast. But they also want a winner in November. Dewey and his speeches has become a little shopworn and Taft, while "solid," has aroused little to-the-end-of-the-road enthusiasm.

It will take 501 of the 1000 votes to nominate, and while Willkie is coming up fast, a three-man race can run into a deadlock with the leading candidates each averaging around 300 votes with Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan retaining about 100. The third and fourth ballots appear to be the ones to watch, as they may determine whether Willkie can keep up his present momentum.

STARK-FOR-VICE PRESIDENT PROPOSAL IN NEW MEXICO

Former Missourian Trying to Swing Democratic Delegation to Governor.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 24 (AP). — Ingram B. Pickett, State safety director and former Missourian, yesterday announced plans for a movement to swing the New Mexico delegation to the Democratic national convention to Gov. Lloyd Stark of Missouri for vice-president.

"It is apparent," said Pickett, "that President Roosevelt will run for a third term. Stark would be an ideal running mate. I have received favorable response from Democratic leaders to the movement to have New Mexico support Stark."

Of the proposal, Benjamin D. Luchini, State Democratic chairman, asserted:

"Gov. Stark of Missouri with his military experience and background, and being Governor of a Middle Western State, naturally would be favorably looked upon in New Mexico."

The New Mexico delegation is uninstructed, but State leaders have frequently advocated a third term for Roosevelt. Pickett urged that Stark would be "a natural choice" in the event of Thomas E. Dewey's nomination for President or vice-president on the Republican ticket, because of Stark's record in smashing the Pendergast machine in Missouri, as compared to Dewey's racket-busting record.

20 OF MISSOURI'S 30 VOTES LIKELY TO SWING TO WILLKIE

BREAK EXPECTED AFTER PLEDGES TO DEWEY AND TAFT ARE KEPT

Delegation Organizes at Caucus — It Will Be Divided Fairly Evenly Among 3 Candidates on First Ballot.

By CURTIS A. BETTS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—The Wendell Willkie blitzkrieg has struck the Missouri delegation to the Republican national convention, making it probable that at least 20 of the 30 votes can be taken to Willkie any time his managers consider the time is opportune to make a showing of real strength.

On the first ballot, it now appears, the principal part of the delegation will be divided fairly equally between Thomas E. Dewey, United States Senator Robert A. Taft, and Willkie, the three having about eight votes each, though the Willkie managers may prefer to have only three or four Missouri votes on the first ballot and then call on the others on future ballots to show a gradual growth of strength, or possibly to demand all that are available to make a sudden build-up.

United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and former President Herbert Hoover are expected to have two or three votes each on the ballot.

Pledges to Dewey and Taft.

The full Willkie strength in Missouri would not be possible on the first, or probably the second ballot, because of commitments some delegates have made to Dewey and to Taft, but with those obligations paid these Willkie votes will be ready for him.

Several Missouri delegates who arrived yesterday reported that polls they had made in their rural communities indicated that the Willkie appeal had by no means been limited to the banker and business man, but had impressed the farmer and the mine run of Republicans as well.

It was reported that Albert Kreamalmyer of Steelville, a delegate from the Eighth District, had taken a poll of the delegates from that district to the Republican State convention, and that 90 per cent of them had expressed a desire that he vote for the nomination of Willkie.

Questionnaire by Queeny.

Edgar M. Queeny of St. Louis, a delegate at large and an active Willkie supporter, sent a questionnaire to every person in Missouri who had contributed $25 or more to the Republican State Committee within the last year, asking them to state their preferences on a ballot which included virtually everybody who had been mentioned for the nomination.

The questionnaires were sent to about 800 persons. When the replies were tabulated Friday answers had been received from 526. Of these, 420 expressed a preference for Willkie, and of the rest everyone named Willkie as second choice. The second man to Willkie was Dewey with 28 votes. The others were Vandenberg with 25, Hoover with 24, Taft with 24, Gannett with 3, Martin with 1 and James with 1.

Every Missouri delegate has received more than 100 letters from Missouri business men urging support of Willkie. This barrage, some of it reaching the delegates before they left their homes and some of it after they reached Philadelphia, has had an effect in Willkie's favor, though some delegates have complained they objected to the "pressure," and did not want to be "pushed around." Many of the writers of these letters said they were Democrats and unquestionably the letters have produced an impression that Willkie, if nominated, would command a strong support from Democrats in the election.

Claims 16 for Willkie.

Most active in the Missouri delegation for Willkie is Louis E. Miller of St. Louis, who is in constant contact with the Willkie managers. Miller, asserting that he was making an extremely conservative estimate, said today that Willkie had at least 16 votes in the delegation. Warrren Flynn of University City, a Dewey leader, made no estimate of the Dewey strength, but said that in the early balloting Dewey, in his opinion, would have a substantial lead over Taft, expected to be the second candidate in Missouri strength at the start of the balloting.

Grover C. Dalton of Poplar Bluff, former chairman of the Republican State Committee, was elected chairman of the delegation at a caucus this morning. Harry Scott of Montgomery City was made the Missouri member of the Credentials Committee, Edward L. Schenfler of Kansas City the member of the Committee on Rules and Order of Business, and G. L. Zwick of St. Joseph of the Committee on Permanent Organization.

William F. Phares of Maryville was chosen for the committee to notify the Presidential nominee, and Don C. McVey of Trenton on the committee to notify the Vice-Presidential nominee.

T. H. B. Dunnegan of Bolivar was made secretary of the delegation.

The State convention's selection of Barak T. Mattingly, St. Louis, and Mrs. Victor T. Remley, Liberty, as national committeeman and national committeewoman was ratified.

asked whether, if he had it all to do over again, he would time the publicity speech-making barrage the same way. "Just one difference," said Willkie, "I'd wait a week later before starting." This shrewd appraiser of public opinion knows that the Willkie wave has begun to curl around the edges a little bit this past week. Too much Willkie. That always brings a reaction.

He kids about the slogan that too-ardent admirers out Oregon way wanted to use here at the convention, "Wake up with Willkie." The idea was to put a hundred pretty girls on the streets of Philadelphia passing out buttons with this slogan on them. But older and wiser heads decided that maybe the more conservative woman delegates would think there was something sly in this.

Strong Music, With or Without Robeson.

BEFORE young Gov. Stassen of Minnesota gives his keynote speech tonight, the delegates are going to hear a song called "Ballad for Americans." It is strong stuff, a little too heady, you would think, for a Republican convention. The music was written by Earl Robinson, the words by John La Touche.

The song was to have been part of "Sing for Your Supper," a WPA revue, until Republicans and conservative Democrats killed the Federal theater project. Then Paul Robeson sang it on the radio and caused a national sensation. The Republicans wanted to get Robeson to sing it here but they heard he was a Communist and changed their minds.

"Ballad for Americans" is a stirring chant about this country and the convictions that made it. Robinson and La Touche have written another song about Joe Hill, the I. W. W. ballad maker, and if the Republicans had known about it they probably would have been scared away from "Ballad for Americans." The Hill song has these lines:

"Every year the party he made says Lincoln's theirs."
"No, sir; for if Old Abe were alive right now, to the man on the bench and the man on the plow, he'd say . . ."

Then the song quotes from Lincoln's second inaugural in which he told the people that if they didn't like their Government, they could amend the Constitution and change it, or he told them they could overthrow it by revolution. Those words of the patron saint of the Republican party are engraved on the wall of the memorial to him in Washington. But under the alien registration bill with its new peacetime sedition provisions, which Congress approved Saturday, they may have to be chiseled out.

Putting the Blame Where It Belongs.

A GO-GETTING young delegate from Houston, Joe Ingraham, has had special visiting cards printed for the convention. On one side is his name and on the other side is this legend:

"Just how long can the American republic last? Not any longer than Mr. Roosevelt, if the argument that Mr. Roosevelt is indispensible is true. If he is in fact the only man in America capable of filling the office of President, the republic naturally must cease to exist when Mr. Roosevelt is finally called to his last reward. Perhaps the republic ought to perish if at the end of 150 years it is capable of producing only one man who is capable of directing its destinies."

If all the arrangements for this convention are not finally completed for the first important session tonight, the blame will fall, indirectly, on the Republican City Council here. Because the council killed a $19,000,000 public housing program, the electricians, carpenters and plumbers who were working on the hall felt compelled to demonstrate last Thursday and Friday. They hammered furiously over the week end to make up for it but there was still some doubt whether the tiers of special seats and the soft drink stands would all be in place.

The Sulphurous and Mysterious Colonel.

THE mystery man of this convention is Col. Carl L. Estes, a son of Texas, suh, a Democrat by birth and later environment, but a power in the Republican party in Pennsylvania. Estes is right hand man to Joseph N. Pew Jr., the G. O. P.'s principal angel. Through his oil interest in Texas, Estes became friendly with Pew, whose Sun Oil Co. is a very profitable family business. The passion they discovered they held in common was an unmitigated loathing for that man in the White House.

There are various estimates of Estes' influence in the party in the state. His detractors say that the Colonel is merely tolerated by Pew because he can cuss out Roosevelt with such fine Southern fervor, adding sulphurous touches that would not occur to a stolid Northerner. When Gov. James was inaugurated the first time the G. O. P. in Pennsylvania had a chance to crow. Col. Estes occupied the second most important place in the parade. And ever since he has divided his time between Harrisburg and Philadelphia, moving with the air of a man with a great mission.

No one questions Joe Pew's power. He has Pennsylvania's 72 delegates tucked away in his vest pocket and every candidate looks respectful merely at the thought of Pew. But possibly in the light of a certain incident in the Bellevue-Stratford lobby this should be amended slightly.

Col. Estes was involved. A horrid rumor reached the Colonel that one of the Pennsylvania delegates, Senator Frank J. Harris, a young whippersnapper, had gone over to the Willkie camp and was trying to take with him eight or 10 of his colleagues from Western Pennsylvania.

The Colonel first accosted Harris in the language of diplomacy. Had he deserted Gov. James? Surely there could be no truth in this outrageous report. Harris' reply was on the belligerent side. In fact, he is said to have called the Colonel a Texas steer, fighting words in the cow country. Witnesses are divided on whether they came actually to fisticuffs or whether the Colonel made an honorable and dignified retreat.

Shopping Service, Also, for Taft.

THE Taft managers have devised an insidious appeal calculated to sway the most strong-minded delegates. They have rented a hotel ballroom, set up bridge tables, provided a bridge expert, a style revnue and a shopping service. All to keep the delegates' wives happy. They figure that with the little woman contented and off her feet, she'll put in the right word at the right time for that nice Mr. Taft.

The foreign policy plank as finally agreed upon is guaranteed to give offense to no one. The Republican party is against war, Hitler and the common cold. The party is going on record in favor of aid for those nations "continuing to resist aggressors." This ambiguous language must satisfy troubles souls who want to aid the Allies. The platform drafters fought shy of anything more specific.

Add to Signs-of-the-Times Department: The Kansas delegation is planning a COCKTAIL party for Willkie. Carry Nation must be turning in her grave like a pinwheel.

Late Boies Penrose's Hostess Carries On.

THE house in which the late Boies Penrose, boss of the Pennsylvania and President-maker by self-appointment, ate, drank and made very merry indeed is said to be still open to more select members of the public. The same ornament of the gay 'nineties presides over this establishment, according to legend. If she is a little touched by time, she nevertheless has her memories. A movement is reported among certain delegates with a sentimental feeling for the past to put a bronze plaque, fittingly inscribed on this now historic house.

G.O.P. HOPEFULS DROP DIGNITY TO FIGHT FOR VOTES

Presidential Aspirants, Usually in Background, Now in Forefront of Scramble.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP).—The old political maxim that "he who stays away can make more hay" was ignored today by 10 candidates for the Republican presidential nomination.

In contrast with former years, when most hopefuls remained in the background waiting to "receive the call," the current flock of aspirants is on hand, fighting for delegates.

Party leaders have an easy explanation of the personal visits. Not in years have so many delegates been uncommitted to a candidate. Thirty-seven states with more than a majority of the 1000 convention votes sent delegations uninstructed until they hold their state caucuses.

As one leader put it, this was simply a case of coming here for self-protection or letting your opponent "gather in the gravy."

The 10 candidates, each of whom either has announced his candidacy or has some delegates pledged to him, are:

Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire; Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas; District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York; Frank E. Gannett, New York newspaper publisher; Gov. Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania; Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon; Hanford MacNider of Iowa; Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio; Senator Arthur V. Vandenberg of Michigan, and Wendell L. Willkie of New York.

CONGRESSIONAL GROUP CONDUCTS FIGHT ON WILLKIE

Eight Republicans in House Sign Statement Opposing Former Democrat, at 'Informal Caucus.'

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP).—Representative Frank B. Keefe of Wisconsin said today that a meeting of "about 40" Republican members of the United States House of Representatives "one after another unequivocally expressed" opposition to the nomination of Wendell Willkie for President.

After the meting, a statement was issued over the signature of eight members, including Keefe, saying that the convention would be called "to name a man whose personal views and public statements are such that he can run effectively on a platform in harmony with the Republican record in Congress." Willkie is a former Democrat.

An announcement accompanying the statement said that "it was understood" that discussion at the meeting "centered on the unavailability of Willkie."

The release asserted that "Republican members of Congress from over two-thirds of the states with Republican Representatives in Congress" attended the session, described as "an informal caucus."

Keefe said that the statement signed by the eight House members would be transmitted to every delegate to the convention. The signers are:

Roy C. Woodruff, Michigan; Harold Knutson, Minnesota; Keefe, Karl E. Mundt, South Dakota; Cliff Clevenger, Ohio; Stephen Bolles, Wisconsin; Earl R. Lewis, Ohio; George W. Gillie, Indiana.

The statement said:

"The Republican party will win in November if it selects from its ranks a leader with a past record of consistent support for Republican policies and principles and whose recognized position and recent pronouncements are a guarantee to the American people that he will not lead the nation into a foreign war."

G.O.P. GROUP APPROVES RULE: 1000 VOTES OR NO DELEGATES

Convention to Get Proposal Governing Districts, Which Will Affect South in Future.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP).—The Republican convention's Rules Committee unanimously approved today a proposal to deny any delegates in future conventions to congressional districts which fail to poll 1000 votes in the previous presidential or state-wide elections for Congress and Governor.

Despite contentions that the change in rules would curtail Southern representation by about 75 delegates, representatives of several of the states most affected—Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and North Carolina—vigorously urged its adoption. Arthur M. Curtis, national committeeman from Missouri, said such a proposal had been under consideration for 25 years and that former Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware finally hit upon an agreement amendment.

Tom Burke of Billings, Mont., was named chairman of the Rules Committee. The convention itself must pass on the proposal rule.

PREPAREDNESS IS UP TO G.O.P., PEPPER SAYS

Tells Republican Delegates It Can Be Accomplished Only by Their Party.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP).—Former Senator George Wharton Pepper of Pennsylvania tolda gathering of Republican convention delegates in Independence Hall today that "adequate preparedness can be accomplished only by the Republican party.' '

Pepper spoke at a patriotic meeting held in the historic hall where the Constitution of the United States was drawn up 153 years ago.

"What the implications of national defense may be no man can foresee," he said. 'Aid to Great Britain and France (or to Great Britain alone) may easily prove to be not merely an office of friendship but a measure of self-preservation.

"The circumstances that war has been declared by Canada, our good neighbor, against both Germany and Italy, makes it timely for us to reaffirm the Monroe Doctrine and, if necessary, to fight for its vindication.

"But whatever happens we must be prepared; and adequate preparedness can be accomplished only by the Republican party. The failure of the Democratic administration in time of peace is a poor passport to public confidence in time of peril. That administration has poured out money like water; we must not allow it to do the like with the blood of our sons."

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE OFFERS AID TO 'FAVORITE SON' CAPPER

"Landon Put Himself in My Hands and Look What Happened to Him."

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP).—Asked for comment on Republican convention issues, Senator Arthur Capper, for whom the Kansas delegation will cast a "favorite son" vote, threw up his hands in mock bewilderment.

"I don't know anything about this candidate business," he smiled.

Just then William Allen White, the Emporia (Kan.) editor, appeared.

"I need some help, Bill," called Capper.

"I'll take care of them for you," said White with a smile. "Just put yourself in my hands. Alf Landon did that in 1936 and look what happened to him."

MRS. TAFT GIVES HER VIEWS TO REPORTERS AT CONVENTION

Wife of G. O. P. Candidate Favors Aid to Allies, Opposes Compulsory Military Training.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP).—Mrs. Robert A. Taft set the pace for politically active wives of Republican presidential contenders yesterday by calling the first feminine press conference of the convention and discussing a variety of topics from gardening to girl soldiers.

The wife of the Ohio Senator, fashionably attired in a black silk frock with white pique collar and cuffs, took her place at a table at one end of a crowded room and said: "Come on with your questions. I'll try to answer them."

In answer to questions she expressed belief that women should take a more active part in politics, said she considered compulsory military training in peace time "very undemocratic" and declared that in foreign affairs she was "not an extreme isolationist."

::I'm for aid to the Allies short—very short—of war," she added.

G. O. P. TO PROMISE MORE FARM RELIEF THAN DEMOCRATS

Plank Advocating Price and Income 'Parity' and Pledging a Better Job, Virtually Agreed On.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP).—Republican platform drafters virtually decided today on an agricultural plank pledging a continuation of efforts toward price and income "parity" prices for farmers, but promising to do a better job than the Roosevelt administration.

The tentative plank promises continuation of subsidies to farmers, which this year will total more than $750,000,000, until farm prices reach a level which would make cash benefits unnecessary.

The goal set forth in the plank would be as large share of the national income for agriculture as in the four-year period before the 1914-18 war. Most economists agree that incomes of farm and non-farm groups were on a "parity" or equality basis then.

The platform drafters would add that the Democrats had failed to restore farm prices to this parity level despite the $3,000,000,000 paid out on farm subsidies since 1933.

The tentative plank promises to eliminate what its drafters termed "regimenting" phases of the present farm program. Greater freedom in planting and marketing crops would be proposed for farmers.

Republican farm leaders said they recognized that the European war had complicated the farm surplus problem by virtually closing continental European markets. They appeared disposed to favor programs for disposal of surpluses at home and abroad under relief distribution and export bounty plans.

Although differences of opinion prevail within the party, the platform writers leaned toward a declaration that the administration's reciprocal trade agreements program had failed in its objective of reopening foreign markets for American farm products, but instead had permitted foreign products to compete in the home market.

Make Hair Grow while the sun shines

"It is a well known phenomenon that in the summer the growth of hair is more rapid," says Dr. Arnold Lorand, Vienna Dermatologist.

THAT Hair grows faster in the summer than at any other season is an established scientific fact. You can take advantage of this seasonal peculiarity by starting Thomas' hair and scalp treatment at once.

Your hair will respond more quickly to this famous proved method of treatment now than at any other time. Within an unusually short time your dandruff should disappear, abnormal hairfall stop and normal hair growth should be stimulated. Call at the Thomas' office and talk your problem over with the expert in charge. He will gladly examine your scalp without charge or obligation and frankly tell you what Thomas' treatment can do for you. Come in today.

G. O. P. TO PROMISE MORE FARM RELIEF THAN DEMOCRATS

The tentative plank promises to eliminate what its drafters termed "regimenting" phases of the present farm program. Greater freedom in planting and marketing crops would be proposed for farmers.

Republican farm leaders said they recognized that the European war had complicated the farm surplus problem by virtually closing continental European markets. They appeared disposed to favor programs for disposal of surpluses at home and abroad under relief distribution and export bounty plans.

Although differences of opinion prevail within the party, the platform writers leaned toward a declaration that the administration's reciprocal trade agreements program had failed in its objective of reopening foreign markets for American farm products, but instead had permitted foreign products to compete in the home market.

NEW GRAND JURY INVESTIGATION OF O'MALLEY DEAL

Judge Otis Asks Jurors to Decide if 'Fraud Was Perpetrated on This Court.'

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 24 (AP).—A Federal grand jury was instructed today to investigate the compromise of the $9,000,000 Missouri fire insurance rate scandal to determine if there should be indictments charging obstruction of justice in connection with the settlement in 1935.

U. S. District Judge Merrill E. Otis mentioned the names of Tom Pendergast, R. Emmet O'Malley, former State Insurance Superintendent, and A. L. McCormack, St. Louis insurance executive, in the instructions. He asked the new jury to determine if "fraud was perpetrated on this Federal court."

A three-Judge United States Court last May 20 ordered steps taken to cite Pendergast, O'Malley, McCormack and possibly "others" for contempt in connection with the insurance case and ordered the matter be investigated by the grand jury. Judge Kimbrough Stone of th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered Richard K. Phelps, Acting District Attorney, to prepare contempt of court citations.

Phelps has been studying the law and plans to report soon to the three-judge court composed of Judges Stone, Otis and Albert L. Reeves which has reopened the insurance case.

Federal authorities charged $440,000 was paid on behalf of the insurance companies to settle the case. Pendergast and O'Malley have served prison terms for evading taxes on this payment. No charges have been filed against McCormack.

Judge Otis outlined briefly the history of the insurance deal to give 80 per cent of the $9,000,000 in impounded premiums to the insurance companies and return 20 per cent to policyholders. The companies had to pay legal costs out of their share. Since the case has been reopened the money has been returned to the court.

The Judge said the jury was not to be hindered by any statute limitations.

"The statutes do not bar the prosecution of any of the offenses I have submitted to you for your consideration," he said.

WAYMAN SAYS WELFARE ASS'N GAVE NO MONEY TO M'DANIEL

City Counselor Replies to Forrest Donnell's Question About City Employes' Group.

No money has been or will be contributed by the Public Employes' Welfare Association, an organization of city employes, to the campaign of Excise Commissioner Lawrence McDaniel for the Democratic nomination for Governor, City Counselor Edgar H. Wayman, head of the association, told reporters today.

Wayman's statement was in reply to a speech last Thursday by Forrest C. Donnell, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, who declared the public was entitled to know whether the association was assisting McDaniel's race. He challenged Wayman's assertion that the affairs of the employes' organization were "none of the public's business."

Asserting that no contributions were being made by the association to "any candidate's campaign," Wayman repeated that the association was made up of members who joined voluntarily and added, "Its bank account is just as personal as Donnell's own bank account." As told last week, city employes are being asked to contribute to McDaniel's campaign. Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann is chairman of the campaign Finance Committee.

Consulate-General Says Passage Home Will Be $650, Reports Hundreds Making Inquiries.

JERUSALEM, June 24 (AP).—The United States Consulate-General announced today it would arrange for an American ship to call at Basra to carry Americans home if a sufficient number desired to go. Basra, in Iraq, is at the head of the Persian Gulf.

The passage would be $650. The Consulate-General reported it was receiving hundreds of inquiries.

GEN. HERTZOG DEMANDS THAT SOUTH AFRICA MAKE PEACE

Calls on Supporters to Protest Against Declaration of War With Italy.

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, June 24 (AP).—Gen. J. B. M. Hertzog and Dr. D. F. Malan, opposition leaders, asked their supporters today to protest against South Africa's declaration of war against Italy and to demand the nation's immediate withdrawal from the war.

FIRE LAID TO LIGHTNING

Swimming Pool Locker Room Damaged; Fireman Hurt.

Fire, thought to have been caused by lightning, did $400 damage to the frame locker room at the Sauter Park swimming pool, 8000 South Broadway, yesterday morning. An employe said there was a flash of lightning immediately before the fire.

Fireman Alfred Ammon, Engine Co. No. 34, was burned on the hands, face and body when blazing timbers fell on him.

French Possessions 20 Times Size of the Mother Country

Empire, Second Only to Britain's, Scattered About World's Continents and Most of Seas—Rich in Raw Materials.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 24. — French possessions scattered throughout the world occupy areas 20 times the size of France itself, the National Geographic Society pointed out today in a special war bulletin describing the far-flung territories.

"France's foreign domain is second only to that of Great Britain," the bulletin said. "Like the British Empire, although little more than one-third the area of that colossus, French colonies and dependencies are scattered about the world's contients and most of its seas.

"France itself occupies an area of more than 200,000 square miles; abroad, the tricolor flies over an empire more than 20 times the size of the mother country, including almost 65,000,000 people of many races, creeds and cultures. The administration of the colonies has been directed by the Ministry of Colonies. Most have enjoyed some measure of self-government; the older ones have been directly represented in the French Parliament.

Like Index to Gazetteer.

"To France—short of many raw materials at home—her overseas possessions have presented a tremendous reservoir of economic wealth, much of it still untapped, as well as markets in which to sell French factory-made goods.

"The roll call of French possessions and dependencies around the globe reads like the index to a gazetteer. In Northern, Central and Western Africa are Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia (sources of wines, minerals, animal products, grains and other farm goods); French Equatorial Africa, Senegal, French Guinea, the Ivory Coast, Dahomey, French Sudan, Mauritania, Niger and Dakar (producing timber and wood products, oils and oil seeds, ivory, gold and other metals, fruits, ground nuts, cocoa, coffee, gum and cotton). French Somaliland is a small patch of land on the east coast of Africa which holds Djibouti, the best port for Italy's Ethiopian hinterland.

"In Northern South America is rich, sultry and undeveloped French Guiana. Such Oriental tongue-twisters as Pondichery, Karikal, Chandernagor, Mahe and Yanaon are French specks on the map of India. French Indo-China, made up of Cochin-China, Annam, Cambodia, Tonking and Laos, plus Kwangchowan, leased from China, are other Asiatic possessions. Indo-China, with its teeming population, has especially rich and varied raw material resources, and exports rice, rubber, fish, coal, cattle and hides, corn, pepper, zinc and tin ore.

Many Island Possessions.

"To all these far-flung continental regions must also be added a French island empire that dots open water from Corsica in the Mediterranean and New Caledonia, the Loyalty Islands, the New Hebrides (shared with Great Britain), the Marquezas; Tuamotu, Society and Touboual Islands in the South Pacific, to St. Pierre and Miquelon in the North Atlantic and sugar-producing Martinique, Guadeloupe and a few smaller islands in the Caribbean.

"Madagascar, off the coast of Southeast Africa, is something more than an ocean 'dot' of French territory. Bigger than France itself, and the world's fourth largest island, it covers an area of some 240,000 square miles, with more than 3,000,000 inhabitants. Madagascar exports coffee, hides, canned meats, vanilla, sugar, spices, vegetable fibers and minerals. Within a few hundred miles of Madagascar are Reunion and a few other scattered French islands.

"Under mandate are the Levant states of Syria and Lebanon, and Togo and the Cameroons (portions of former German colonies), under the bulge of the great West Africa shoulder.

"In the French colonial empire are found most of the earth's products needed to carry on modern industry or warfare. During the present war, her colonies have contributed to France thousands of soldiers and workers, together with vast quantities of supplies."

DIES' AID SAYS NAZI INQUIRY WILL 'SET OFF BOMBSHELL'

Hearings on "Fifth Column" Activities to Begin Shortly at Austin, Tex.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—Members of the Dies Committee were on their way today to Austin, Tex., where committee officials said they would begin hearings shortly in connection with Nazi "fifth column" activities which would "set off a bombshell."

Robert Stripling, committee secretary, said the hearings would show interference with phases of the national defense program. He declined to divulge details, however.

Chairman Dies and Representative Dempsey (Dem.), members of the committee, were on their way to Texas, and Stripling said he and other officials would go there tomorrow.

Other committee members planned to confer with investigators in the field during the current week's congressional recess. Representative Mason (Rep.), Illinois, was to visit Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland, and Representative Voorhis (Dem.), California, to check on investigations in San Francisco, Seattle and Portland, Ore.

'DEMOCRACIES MUST MOVE WITH TRAFFIC OR BE RUN OVER'

Attorney-General Jackson Speaks at Memorial Services for Late Robert La Follette Sr.

MADISON, Wis., June 24 (AP).—"The democracies of the world need something more than victory to survive," United States Attorney-General Robert Jackson asserted at a fifteenth annual memorial service for the late Senator Robert M. La Follette Sr., Wisconsin Progressive, yesterday.

"Only 20 years ago they had victory in full measure," he added. "In less than a generation its fruits have vanished and they are fighting for their very existence."

Jackson said a representative democracy could not afford to stand still but must "move with the traffic or be run over."

SENTRY AT HONOLULU KILLS SOLDIER WHO FAILS TO HALT

Maryland Man Shot When He Does Not Stop After Three Challenges.

HONOLULU, June 24 (AP). — Army officials report that Private Anthony di Salco shot and fatally wounded Private Herbert E. Crouse, 22 years old, of Dundalk, Md., last night after Crouse did not heed an order to halt at Fort Barrette.

Crouse received four blood transfusions.

Officials said two soldiers corroborated Di Salco's statement he challenged Crouse three times before he fired.

EGYPT SELECTING NEW CABINET TO SUPPORT BRITAIN

King and Party Leaders Making Choice — Policy as to Italian Air Attacks to Be Formulated.

CAIRO, June 24 (AP).—King Farouk and party leaders met in Abdin Palace today to discuss a new Cabinet while political circles emphasized that, whatever the composition of the new government, its keynote would be loyal adherence to Egypt's treaty with Great Britain.

The King accepted the resignation of Premier Ali Pasha Maher and other Cabinet members yesterday when Government leaders assembled to consider forming a national union government and shape a policy to meet Italian air attacks on Egypt.

Serafino Mazzolini, Italian Minister to Egypt, and his staff, left Cairo yesterday on a special train for Turkey. Their passports were handed them June 13 when the Egyptian Government broke off diplomatic relations with Italy.

Egypt, which has a military alliance with Britain, has not yet declared war on Italy in spite of the rupture of diplomatic relations.

RUSSIA RESTORES MILITARY SALUTE IN ITS RED ARMY

Abandons "False Democracy" System Which Barred It to Further Strengthen Discipline.

MOSCOW, June 24 (AP).—The Soviet army has abandoned the "false democracy" system which barred military salute, the army newspaper Red Star reports.

"Further strengthening of Soviet military discipline and also the increase in authority of the army chiefs," were given as the reasons for restoring the salute.

The paper declared that in "bourgeoise armies, especially in Tsarist Russia, the military salute was converted into a humiliating worship of caste." However, it added, Red Army officers are not members of a closed caste.

WIDOW OF DR. HILL GETS $5000 ON CLAIM

By Stipulation, Mrs. Coachman Gives Up Dower Rights in Certain Properties.

Settlement of a lawsuit in which a Circuit Judge had upheld the dower right of Mrs. Minette K. Hill Coachman to a one-third interest in real estate formerly owned by her first husband, the late Dr. William Preston Hill, was disclosed today by the filing of a stipulation agreeing that the judgment be set aside. It is understood that Mrs. Coachman received about $5000.

About 90 pieces of real estate are subject to similar dower claims, according to Mrs. Coachman's attorney, Harvey B. Cox, who has estimated the value of these properties at more than $400,000. She has filed suits to establish her dower interest in 28 of the properties and has given notice of dower claim against most of the others. A rule of thumb for calculating lump sum worth of dower interest is to value it at two-ninths of the income the claimant would receive during her life expectancy.

In the settlement, it was learned, Mrs. Coachman relinquished all claims against the real estate at 3549½ and 3561½ Olive street, and executed a quit-claim deed to the present owner, the Bushnell-Pommer Realty Co., against which the judgment was entered in April, 1939, by Circuit Judge William S. Connor. The judgment merely upheld her dower right and it remained for the Court to determine value of her one-third interest.

Although the real estate company was the only defendant in Mrs. Coachman's suit, she gave releases also to two intermediate owners of the Olive street property, the Lafayette-South Side Bank and Trust Co. and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chasson. Had the judgment been reduced to monetary value and collected, the real estate company might have proceeded in law against the intermediate owners.

Mrs. Coachman contended that Dr. Hill, to whom she was married in 1913 when she was 19 years old and he was 55, failed to obtain her signature to deeds in which he transferred title to the property. The real estate company contended it was an innocent purchaser for value, that Dr. Hill had represented her as his adopted daughter and that it was not generally known she was his wife. She is the wife now of R. Albert Coachman, City Market Master at Soulard Market. Dr. Hill died in 1931.

Nazis to Occupy Half Of Conquered France

of the war so long as that committee continues to represent all French elements resolved to fight the common enemy."

On the other hand, informed diplomatic sources said that, although Gen. de Gaulle continued to have the fullest support of the British Government, Britain is maintaining diplomatic relations with the French Government in Bordeaux and with the French Ambassador, Charles Corbin, who remains in London.

The same sources, however, said that Sir Ronald Hugh Campbell, British Ambassador to France, had left aboard a British warship since the overrunning of France by the Germans "had put his person in danger."

Fight On, De Gaulle Says.

Gen. de Gaulle said in an interview tonight that he was convinced "all parts of the French empire will go on fighting."

"I have reason to think that the French fleet will not surrender to the enemy," Gen. de Gaulle added.

He said there was "no doubt" former Premier Reynaud of France would be a member of the French National Committee and that if the French colonial empire responded as expected the committee would attempt to form a government somewhere on French soil. That government would continue to be represented in London.

The composition of the National Committee, he said, awaited the arrival of "certain important personalities."

Gen. De Gaulle said he had received no official information of the French Cabinet decision dismissing him from his post, but declared "whatever happens it will not change my positions."

The Evening Star, Liberal newspaper, said it was being strongly urged in "influential quarters" that full British nationality be offered at once to all units of the French army, navy, air force and merchant marine.

De Gaulle's headquarters reported today it was receiving a constant stream of Frenchmen from all walks of life and there was a flood of telephone calls and cable messages backing his stand.

The French Embassy declined to comment on his status.

At his headquarters Gen. de Gaulle wore the uniform of the French army. With him were a number of uniformed French officers, several wearing medals and ribbons.

De Gaulle said the committee was formed in full agreement with the British Government.

De Gaulle Statement.

"The armistice accepted by the Government in Bordeaux delivers to our enemy our arms, our airplanes, our gold, our future," Gen. de Gaulle said. "This capitulation has enslaved France completely and placed the Government of Bordeaux under the immediate and direct dependency of the Germans and Italians.

"An independent government no longer exists on French territorial soil, capable of safeguarding the interests of France and of the French people. On the other hand, our political institutions are not in a state to function by their own will."

From all parts of the French colonial empire came assurance of support, a British statement said. In Syria, Gen. Eugene Mittelhauser, French Commander-in-Chief, proclaimed his armies' readiness to continue the fight. In Tunis, Indo-China, Morocco, Senegal, the Cameroon and Jibuti there were similar declarations.

(In the British possession of Trinidad the French Consul announced all Frenchmen in the British West Indies would continue support of the Allied cause regardless of orders from Bordeaux.)

But for France itself, Britain saw in the Nazi terms "complete capitulation"—accepted, said the Government statement, "in contravention of agreements solemnly made between the Allied Governments" and placing Marshal Petain's Government in "a state of complete subjection to the enemy and deprived of all liberty and all right to represent free French citizens."

Speculation on Fleet.

British observers, analyzing the German armistice terms, were concerned chiefly with the fate of the French fleet, second largest of any European navy and fourth ranking in the world. Strong units of this fleet joined the British at Alexandria shortly before Italy's entry into the war.

David Scott, former Paris correspondent of the London News Chronicle, declared "on good authority" that in the last few days "safe" officers or political agents have supplanted French commanding officers known to be determined to keep their warships from Nazi hands.

"The Nazis certainly have taken care in their armistice terms to see that the French fleet, the bulk of which joined the French-British squadron at Alexandria, is not transferred to the British flag," said Scott. "They will blackmail the weak Petain Government on this point.

The armistice states that Germany "has no intention of using for its own purposes during the war the French fleet stationed in ports under German control."

Its terms, prelude to a wider European peace which one British informant said "Germany has no intention of discussing at the present stage," permit the French to establish their Government at any point they choose, even Paris.

Other Provisions.

But on penalty of cessation of the armistice if the French do not "fulfill their obligations," they demand:

Occupation by Nazi troops of all territory north and west of the line running from Geneva through Tours and then south to the Spanish-French border;

Demobilization and disarmament of all land, sea and air forces except for a limited force needed to maintain order;

Internment of the French fleet, except for units left free to "safeguard" French colonial interests, with recall of all ships outside French territorial waters; discontinuance of French merchant shipping, with ships outside France to be recalled or ordered to neutral ports;

Surrender in good condition of land and coast defenses in German-occupied territory; surrender on demand of all artillery, tanks, other armament, aircraft and munitions;

Release of all German prisoners of war, with French prisoners of war remaining in German hands until conclusion of a final peace; surrender of all German subjects indicated by the German Government who are in France or French colonies;

Grounding of all French planes and surrender of foreign planes in unoccupied territory; handing over in good condition of railways, roads and communication systems; cessation of operation of all wireless sending stations in French territory.

An appeal to crews of the French merchant fleet to "make for British home or dominion ports" was broadcast from London last night by the International Federation of Seamen's Unions.

(French Line officials in New York declined comment on the fate of their company's ships. The 83,423-ton Normandie, the line's flagship, is the only French ship in New York harbor. The 30-000-ton Pasteur sailed a week ago with a cargo of gun equipment and ammunition.)

British Statement.

The British Government issued this statement on the French-German armistice:

"The signature of the armistice by the French Government brings to an end the organized resistance of the French forces at home. In the French colonial empire, however, there are encouraging signs that a more robust spirit prevails.

"In Syria, Gen. Mitelhauser, the French Commander-in-Chief, has proclaimed the determination of the French forces to fight on.

"In Indo-China the Governor-General has declared that he will not lower his flag. In Tunis the resident general is firm in his intention to continue the struggle.

"In Morocco, Senegal, the Cameroons and Jibuti, assurances of loyal support have been received from the military or civil authorities.

"His Majesty's Government are prepared to make financial arrangements to enable the French Colonial Empire to play its part. As stated by the Prime Minister, the British aim is the complete restoration of the metropolitan and overseas territory of France."

British political circles interpreted the French-German armistice as meaning that if any French colony, or single unit of the French fleet refused to obey German orders, Germany could denounce the entire pact.

Article 24 says:

"The present armistice is valid until conclusion of a peace treaty and can be denounced at any moment if the French Government do not fulfill their obligations."

Observers added that once France is disarmed, Germany could impose whatever harsher terms it wished, and added that this was the same technique Germany used in taking Czecho-Slovakia.

FEDERAL SPENDING FOR COMING YEAR TOTALS 14 BILLION

Appropriations by Congress, Including $5,000,000,000 for Defense, Set Peace-Time Record.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—The recessed Congress left the country a bill of $14,539,970,627 today for operating the Federal Government—including the rearmament program—during the next year.

This record expenditure for times of peace was indicated to be the sum which the legislators have appropriated so far this session. All regular appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1, including a sizable amount that may be spent at once, were disposed of before Congress recessed Saturday night for the Republican convention with the understanding that it would reconvene a week from today.

The figure included $5,082,210,080 provided for defense purposes after President Roosevelt asked for immediate expansion of armaments.

Contract Authorizations.

In addition to the cash total, which is still unofficial because hard-pressed committee clerks were unable to keep up with the swift-moving House and Senate, was $795,508,373 in contract authorizations—mostly for defense—and $125,000,000 in lending authority. Contract authorizations are permission for Government departments and agencies to enter into contracts which will be financed by later appropriations.

Included in the cash total was $3,975,524,448 estimated by President Roosevelt as the amount of "permanent" or automatic appropriations needed to meet the interest on the national debt, to retire a part of the debt and to meet obligations to certain trust funds.

Roosevelt's total budget request amounted to $14,142,342,415, or $397,628,212 less than Congress voted. Most of the difference was accounted for by last-minute increases for defense.

The indicated 1940-41 total was $1,091,941,891 greater than the amount appropriated at the last session of Congress.

Table of Appropriations.

Here are the latest figures for the 1940-41 cash appropriations:

Emergency deficiency, $251,822,528.

Urgent deficiency, $57,541,300.

Independent offices, $1,120,243,528.

Treasury-Postoffice, $1,032,801,095.

Farm, $918,528,418.

State, Commerce, Justice, $107,149,000.

Navy, $1,308,171,138.

War Department (non-military), $222,718,717.

First deficiency, $92,035,409.

Interior, $135,383,330.

Legislative, $23,671,220.

Labor-Social Security, $1,023,282,690.

Army, $1,498,853,222.

District of Columbia, $48,756,080.

Relief, $1,157,711,357.

Supplemental defense, $1,479,777,147.

Second deficiency, $86,000,000.

Total, $10,564,446,179.

Permanent (estimated), $3,975,524,448.

Grand total, $14,539,970,627.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation received authority to lend the Farm Security Administration $125,000,000 for rural rehabilitation loans.

WILSON ESTATE PAYS STATE $167,907 INHERITANCE TAX

JEFFERSON CITY, June 24 (AP).—The State Treasurer's office received today $167,907 inheritance tax on the estate of the late Sarah L. Glasgow Wilson of Clayton—representing a partial payment of the $292,546 assessed against the $3,821,969 estate.

Mrs. Wilson, widow of Newton R. Wilson, mining engineer, died in 1938 at her home, 4 Brentmoor park. Her will left $78,800 to charities and individuals and the residue of her estate in trust for four nephews and four nieces, with Washington University the ultimate beneficiary of part of the trust.

$3000-a-Year Family's U. S. Taxes Nearly Doubled by Arms Program

Mr. Citizen, Who Has Wife and One Small Child and Earns This Amount, Finds Annual Increase From $27 to $49.70.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—Mr. Citizen, who has a wife and one small child and earns $3000 a year, figured today that he would nearly have to double his Federal tax payments so that Uncle Sam could buy airplanes and other defense equipment.

Congress has tacked on an extra 10 per cent here and there, with a few variations, but when Mr. Citizen got out his pencil he found it added up unexpectedly. He calculated that his annual Federal tax bill had been boosted from $27 to $49.70. This is the way he reached that figure:

He has never paid Federal income tax heretofore, but since Congress cut the exemption for a married man from $2500 to $2000 and added a 10 per cent super-tax to former tax schedules, he calculates he will have to pay $13.20 next March.

The Citizens go to a neighborhood theater and pay 35 cents each, except for the child, who gets in free. Under the old 40-cent exemption to the admissions tax, there were no extras for the Treasury, but now all admissions of more than 20 cents will be taxed at roughly 10 per cent, and the Citizens will pay about $4 tax in the next year on their weekly show.

Tax on Whisky and Beer.

Mr. Citizen figures he will buy three gallons of whisky and a barrel of beer a year, for himself and friends. The Federal whisky tax, at this rate, used to cost him about $7 a year ($2.25 a gallon of 100 proof), but next year it will be more than $8 ($3 a gallon of 100 proof).

His barrel of beer (about 300 bottles) formerly was taxed $5 and now it is $6.

Mr. Citizen drives about 10,000 miles a year, using 500 gallons of gasoline. The Government used to take 1 cent a gallon, or $5. Now it wants 1½ cents a gallon, or $7.50.

The old radio having worn out, Mr. Citizen also is going to buy a $100 radio, on which the tax was $10 but is now $11.

Mr. Citizen could have figured some more increases, because Congress boosted by 10 per cent most of its other excise taxes, like those on automobiles, tires, oil, club dues, some toilet preparations, and refrigerators.

How much more he will pay in tobacco taxes depends on whether he is a cigarette smoker and, if so, the number of packs he uses. Congress increased the cigarette levy ½ cent a pack, or 25 cents a 1000, leaving other tobacco taxes unchanged.

Mr. Citizen is not the average American—his income is too large, for one thing, and some people may say he drinks too much—but he is typical of a considerable group of taxpayers.

Income Tax Increases.

The steepest increases were made in income taxes. Besides the cut from $2500 to $2000 in the married man's exemption, the single man's exemption was reduced from $1000 to $800. Surtax rates were hiked on incomes up to $100,000, and then a 10 per cent super-tax was added to all other income taxes. The super-tax also applies to corporations, whose rates were boosted a flat 1 per cent in each income category.

Thus, while a married man with one minor child and a $3000 income will find his Federal income tax jumped from nothing to $13.20, if his income were $14,400 the tax would rise from $807 to $1080. And if his income were $52,400, it would soar from $9335 to $14,927.

Here are comparisons for a single man without dependents: On a $1500 income, increase from $14 to $24; on $3000 income, from $68 to $83; on $12,800 income, from $846 to $1087; and on $50,800 income, from $9454 to $14,934.

Corporation tax comparisons on different net income levels: $5000 income, increased from $625 to $742; $15,000 income, increased from $2100 to $2475; $22,000 income, increased from $3520 to $4114; $100,000 income, increased from $18,000 to $20,900.

The increased income taxes, applying on income received during the current calendar year, are payable next year. Most of the other increases, including those on tobacco and liquor, beome effective July 1, 1940.

DANISH SHIP IN U. S. PORT IN IRONICAL QUANDARY

Put Into San Pedro to Escape Nazis, Stays for Fear of Capture by British.

SAN PEDRO, Cal., June 24 (AP).—The Danish freighter Nordpol has been here for two months, victim of an ironical situation: It came here to avoid seizure by Nazi prize crews, and now, since Denmark is a German protectorate, cannot put to sea for fear of confiscation by the British.

The captain and his wife and their year-old son and the mate and his bride and the crew of 34 hardy Danes are virtually prisoners on their own craft.

The ship put into port here in April on an urgent message to seek a neutral harbor.

NAVY TO LET CONTRACT FOR 68 MORE VESSELS

$750,000,000 Orders to Be Placed When Bill Is Signed; Edison Quits Today.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—Secretary of the Navy Edison announced today that the navy was ready to let contracts for 68 additional vessels costing $750,000,000 as soon as the President signed a bill permitting the President to authorize the negotiation of contracts without competitive bidding. Edison's press conference today was his last before retiring to make the race for Governor of New Jersey.

The 68 new ships will be in addition to 23, costing $350,000,000, for which contracts recently were let.

Included in the 68, Edison said, will be three aircraft carriers, four heavy cruisers, nine light cruisers 30 destroyers and 22 submarines.

The retiring Secretary also announced that the navy had plans for immediate strengthening of the superstructures of 29 ships against the possibility of air attack.

Edison will retire today. Col. Frank Knox, Chicago newspaper publisher, has been nominated by the President to succeed him.

Edison expressed the opinion that industry "could absorb" the proposed 70 per cent increase in the navy, but said that shipbuilding facilities "absolutely" would have to be expanded.

Manufacture of armor plate, he declared, would be a "bottleneck" in ship construction, but added that it would not be a "serious one."

He said pressure had been brought on the navy to sell 111 World War destroyers, but that none had been sold while 76 had been recommissioned.

Discussing the recent resale to the manufacturer of 20 new torpedo boats and submarine chasers for sale to Great Britain, Edison said "we haven't sold a great deal of surplus." He added that the navy did not consider that it had any surplus combatant vessels.

GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON SAYS—

Leaders in Administration Incapable of Efficiently Organizing Resources of Country for War.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

THERE is a grave danger of this country going completely haywire under the pressure of war. It is true that the grossest neglect of defense in our history and the most reckless impairment of our credit and industrial efficiency have left us in a most defenseless posture. Although very weak, due to these deficiencies, we have roved the world like a lamb rampant, slapping down the ears of every ferocious animal in the menagerie—lions and tigers as well as jackals—until we haven't a friend on earth.

Perhaps the most cockeyed impertinence on record is that the authors of all this incompetence and danger insist that they must be perpetuated in a third term for President Roosevelt.

I am accused of constant scolding. I don't want to be a scold. I examine myself about that "in the night season." I can't think that my kind of preachment is wrong in this crisis. If I can't think it is wrong I ought not to stop it—scold or no scold.

Leadership Lacking.

Why do I feel so confident? Well, I sat at the center of both industrial and manpower mobilization in the first World War. It is a strange result but the fact is that, although Scharnhorst and Stein invented the German idea of the "nation in arms," to overthrow Napoleon and change the face of war, and, although Kaiser Wilhelm's was almost as complete a dictatorship as Adolf Hitler's, it was not German autocracy but American democracy that taught the world the terrible modern lesson of total war.

This is no time for perfumed niceties. The cold fact is that without the full naval, military and economic strength of this country, mobilized and organized for war the first time in the modern sense, the Germans had total victory in the bag in early 1918. Then something happened. The M. P.'s didn't win that war. American resources and organization—both economic and military—did it.

But they were masterfully organized and used by efficient and experienced men who believed, almost as a religion, in both our economic and political system. This administration is allergic to both that kind of man and belief. Hopkins, Perkins, Wallace, Morgenthau—I hate to scold them—but do I have to represent that such incompetents are fit to manage this great country against an enemy who has shown himself so fiendishly clever in applying the very lesson that competent Americans taught him and Germany in 1918?

President's CCC Remark.

The President recently suggested that it would be a good thing for members of his press conference to go to a Civilian Conservation Corps camp. Are they going to be concentration camps? For Mark Sullivan, he is reported to have told other newshawks that he had a pardon "written out in blank." Sullivan is frequently critical but always gentle. I wonder about my "pardon in blank." If, as and when it can be done, I shall be boiled in oil.

So, should I shut up? If I do, I shall write myself down as gutless as a kippered herring and as simple as a snipe. There has been no move of this administration that to me seemed right that I have not rushed out to defend until my fan mail groand with accusations of being a water carrier on two shoulders. I have for years been insisting that it do what it is now making awkward attempts to do. This column began suggesting that it call "Bill" Knudsen two and a half years ago—but not in the capacity in which he is now being wasted.

Just now I think many of the directions in which we are going are wrong and dangerous. I would like to forget to say so and to break the too strident pace of this column by writing a piece about the "bees and the rabbits and their sweet engaging habits," but solar systems and universes are being too rapidly re-oriented. If not doing so is "scolding," I intend to apologize—and do it some more.

U. S. SHIFTS ENVOY BIDDLE FROM BORDEAUX TO LONDON

"Contact Man" With French to Resume Polish Mission; Bullitt Remains as Ambassador.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull announced today that Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Ambassador to Poland and the Government's chief contact with the French Government at Bordeaux, had been directed to go to London and resume his duties as representative to the exiled Polish Government.

Hull said that William C. Bullitt, who is in German-occupied Paris, would remain as Ambassador to France.

He would not discuss whether the United States might recognize a new French national committee set up in London to carry on French resistance, instead of the Petain Government at Bordeaux.

Biddle has been functioning as the Ambassador to the French Government since it fled from Paris. Ambassador Bullitt with several members of the embassy staff have been cut off from direct contact with the State Department since the German occupation of Paris.

BRITISH IN DAYLIGHT RAIDS ON DUTCH, GERMAN AIRPORTS

English Admit Losing 3 Planes; Night Bombing of Munitions Plants in Ruhr.

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—The British Air Ministry announced tonight new attacks on railway junctions and airdromes in Holland and Germany.

The communique said:

"Yesterday daylight attacks were made by our bombers on railway junctions and airdromes in Holland and Germany.

"Three of our aircraft are missing.

"Last night attacks were continued on military objectives in Germany. These included munitions factories, marshalling yards and railway junctions in Mecklenburg, the Ruhr and the Rhineland. Heavy damage was done. Our aircraft returned safely."

Loos was dragged about 20 feet. He is in St. John's Hospital.

RUSSIA RESUMES DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH YUGOSLAVIA

Names Envoy to Country After Trade Negotiations Are Brought to Favorable Conclusion.

MOSCOW, June 24 (AP).—The Soviet Government, following favorable conclusion of economic negotiations, has resumed normal diplomatic relations today with Yugoslavia.

It announced Victor Plotnikov as Minister to Yugoslavia. Milan Gavrilovich is the new Yugoslav Minister to Russia.

BRITISH, FRENCH CONSULS JOIN IN APPEAL FOR RED CROSS AID

Foreign Representatives Here Tell of Needs in Invaded Nation and in England.

An appeal for continued support of the Red Cross War Relief campaign was made yesterday in a United Charities radio program on Station KWK by the French and British consuls in St. Louis.

"Peace in France will not lessen the suffering among my people," said French Consular Agent Hugues Brussel. "Factories have been destroyed and stocks burned. The soil of North and Central France will bear no crops this year. Perhaps 10,000,000 people have fled to the south of France. They are destitute in the extreme."

Hugh Charles McClelland, British Consul, said there was need in England for many medical supplies for the wounded and for refugees.

The East St. Louis chapter of the American Red Cross has raised $7121 of its quota of $8000 in the fund campaign, it was announced yesterday by Charles M. Horner, chairman of the drive.

Who Would Rather "Putter in the Garden" Than "Putter in the Kitchen"

See This

ELECTRIC ROASTER DEMONSTRATION
Tomorrow—Tuesday, June 25—2 P. M. in the Union Electric Kitchen, 12th and Locust Sts.

Perhaps you would like to devote time to a garden . . . or maybe you have many other pastimes you would like to pursue . . . but for the cooking job that always holds you close to the kitchen you have never been able to give them the time they need. Then here's what to do: attend this demonstration tomorrow and see what quick work an electric roaster makes of the cooking tasks. See how it can cook a complete meal while you are shopping, or resting, or enjoying that hobby you've always promised yourself you'd look into.

"Food that will cook without watching" that's the theme of the demonstration tomorrow. And it can be your theme for cooking from now on when you have an electric roaster. Don't forget, you can watch the demonstration in cool comfort in the air conditioned kitchen.

NESCO Electric Roaster

Nesco's Famous Lid Opening Dial is only one of the many features of this roaster that's designed to give you more convenient, care-free cooking electrically. It's an 18 qt. capacity roaster, heavily insulated. Automatic heat control from 150 to 500 degrees with off position. Three porcelain enamel pans, bake rack, cookie sheet, and full length cord. Glistening white baked enamel finish, black trim, black plastic handles and dials.

"TO INCREASE VALUE IS TO ENRICH LIFE"

Look for the wall chart before you buy and ✓ Know what you're paying;
✓ Know what you're getting;
✓ See the value in the car;
✓ See all items in the price.

HOW do you judge the "deal" you make when you buy a new car—by what you get for your old car, or by the value you receive for the actual money difference paid out?

If you put trade-in allowance first—be careful of what the trade calls a "pack."

A "pack" is an extra amount slipped into the final delivered price quoted you to allow the dealer to "up" his used-car allowances. It makes you think you're driving a better bargain—but you may find you actually pay out even more in the end. The dealer who "packs" may give you more for the old car—but he asks more for the new one!

So the smart way to buy is to judge value by the new-car price, not simply the trade-in allowance.

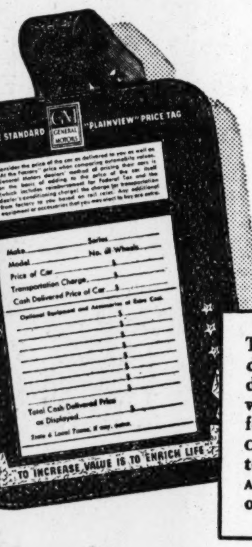
Get itemized delivered prices such as we General Motors dealers give you on our "plainview" price chart and price tag.

They show the charge for the car itself; the charge for transportation, based on rail rates; our charge for any extra equipment or accessories you may elect to buy.

Subtract our trade-in allowance, and you have the money difference the new car costs you. That's the real measure of the "deal" you have made.

Thus our "plainview" pricing helps you protect yourself against "packed" prices. You buy on value instead of trade-in allowances that may be artificially inflated.

Why not drop in and learn more about how it works?



This is the standard price tag used by General Motors dealers to show what makes up the prices of new cars delivered to customers. "PRICE OF CAR" means the price we charge for the car itself, including reimbursement for Federal Tax and conditioning—"TRANSPORTATION CHARGE" means a charge for transportation from factory to you, based on rail rates—"OPTIONAL EQUIPMENT AND ACCESSORIES" means the charge for any extra equipment or accessories you elect to buy.

NAZI COAST DRIVE REACHES MOUTH OF GIRONDE RIVER

Shipbuilding Center of St. Nazaire Taken — Push South of Lyon Toward Grenoble Resisted.

BERLIN, June 24. — Getting poised to battle Britain singly, Germany sent troops crashing deeper into France today.

The high command acknowledged some French units still were putting up a stiff fight, but said that Nazis were pushing on toward Grenoble, about 55 miles southeast of Lyon, and Chambery, 50 miles east and a little south of Lyon.

Extending their grip on French coast vantage points, the Germans moved to the mouth of the Gironde River, a little more than 50 miles northwest of Bordeaux, and claimed La Rochelle and Rochefort.

Surrender of French troops surrounded on the Donon River in the Vosges Mountains was announced by the high command.

More than 22,000 prisoners were reported captured.

The high command communique said:

"Surrounded enemy forces on the Donon River in the Vosges laid down their arms at noon today. Over 22,000 prisoners, among them one commanding general of an army corps, three division commanders, and about 1000 officers and 12 entire artillery units, including six motorized, fell into our hands in tremendous booty."

Admiral Inspects Bases.

As a part of Nazi preparation for war on Britain, DNB, official German news agency, reported, Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, commander-in-chief of the German navy has inspected naval units and naval facilities of the Dutch, Belgian and Northern French coasts, "to convince himself of their readiness for action and availability against England."

A German U-boat reported the sinking of 23,500 registered tons of shipping, the high command said.

Authorized sources declined comment on reports of the British version of armistice demands made on France, reiterating only that Germany was bound to insure that France could not possibly give Britain any further military aid.

The high command earlier announced the capture of St. Nazaire, great French shipbuilding center at the mouth of the Loire, with "enormous booty." The high command communique failed, however, to mention two 35,000-ton battleships, the Jean Bart and the Gascogne, which have been under construction at St. Nazaire.

Fighting in Alsace-Lorraine was reported ended with the capture of more than 500,000 prisoners, including the commanders of the Third, Fifth and Eighth French armies. The high command also announced capture of the Fort of Mutzig, described as the strongest fortification in the Strasbourg region, and said scattered groups in the Vosges were being mopped up.

Three Ships Reported Sunk.

Geman flyers were credited with sinking two transports, one of 10,000, and the other of 4000 tons, off the French coast. A Nazi submarine was reported to have sunk a 16,090-ton Allied tanker in convoy.

Official quarters followed with interest but without comment the British repudiation of the Bordeaux Government and news that a French "National Committee" was being established in London under Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

DNB published, a Rome dispatch saying that Gen. de Gaulle had been expelled from the French army by Premier Petain's Bordeaux Government and commented:

"This was the only thing that could be done in view of such traitorous action."

British Pushed Out.

German editors asserted that with French capitulation, England now faces a continent from which its political influence has been excluded.

Authorities would say nothing concerning reports that Germany contemplated taking the initiative in an economic reorganization permanently excluding or limiting English economic enterprise on the continent.

The well-informed Frankfurter Zeitung, however, commented that "the pattern of European war economy" already indicates tendencies which may be carried over into peace.

The German Red Cross was reported exerting itself to meet a serious food shortage in Belgium, which previously imported much of its food by sea, now closed off by the British blockade.

British bombing planes, in a daylight attack June 21, destroyed the vacated Netherlands naval hospital at Den Helder, DNB, official German news agency, reported today.

The agency said numerous civilians were injured and one workman was killed by the bombs. All patients had been removed from the hospital a short time before the attack, DNB said.

Text of Communique.

The text of the high command communique:

"The Atlantic coast was occupied as far as the mouth of the Gironde. La Rochelle and Rochefort were taken.

"Further east the region north of Poitiers was reached. Among the tremendous amount of steadily growing booty a big store, with artillery munitions, fell into our hands here.

"In Alsace-Lorraine a number of scattered enemy groups surrendered and additional fortifications of the Maginot line were taken.

"Southeast of Lyon our troops are breaking through enemy resistance to advance toward Grenoble and Chambery. During the night of June 23-24 our speedboats off Dungeness sank an armed English steamer of 3500 tons and another of 5000 tons.

West Germany Bombed.

"One U-boat reported sinking 23,500 tons of shipping. The activity of the air force was limited to North Sea reconnaissance. German chasers bagged two British fighting planes at Calais. Of about nine British airplanes which in the afternoon attempted to enter The Netherlands, six were shot down by chasers and anti-aircraft fire.

"Under the protection of heavy clouds, two or three of seven planes penetrated as far as Westphalia, where they bombed the cottages of the little village of Wieschenroefen and machine-gunned the tenants.

"Two civilians were severely injured and four others slightly wounded. During the night the enemy continued flights into Northern and Western Germany.

"Bombs dropped at many places on non-military targets caused material damage, killed a number of people and injured civilians. Several bombs fell on a prisoners' camp on the Baltic coast, killing and injuring a number of Frenchmen.

"In fights south of Toul in the course of the night of June 21-22, First Lieutenant Klote of an infantry regiment, accompanied by two group leaders and 20 men of his company, by dauntless and energetic action, forced three infantry and two artillery regiments to surrender and disarm."

APPEAL FOR U. S. SHIPS TO TAKE SPANISH REFUGEES FROM FRANCE TO MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, June 24 (AP). INDALECIO PRIETO, who was Minister of Defense in the Spanish Republican Government, appealed yesterday to President Roosevelt to permit American ships to bring to Mexico Spanish Republicans now in France.

Prieto said the armistice between France and Germany would place the Spanish refugees in a dangerous position, with a return to Falangist Spain as the only alternative to submitting to Nazi control.

He declared President Cardenas had agreed to admit into Mexico all the Spanish refugees who could be brought here.

PARACHUTE JUMPER KILLED

MENASHA, Wis., June 24 (AP).—William Reck, a parachute jumper, fell from an airplane to his death before a crowd of several hundred persons at the Waverly Beach Amusement Park north of here late yesterday when his parachute failed to open.

Reck, 31 years old, formerly of Appleton, Wis., struck at the edge of a lagoon after a fall of more than 1000 feet. He made the scheduled leap from an airplane which took off from the Appleton Airport.

WOMAN PASSENGER NAVIGATES FREIGHTER ON LONG VOYAGE

Captain Allows Mrs. Mary P. Converse to Indulge Hobby; Calls Her "Fourth Officer."

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24 (AP).—Mrs. Mary P. Converse, 67 years old, Boston grandmother and world traveler, arrived yesterday from New York aboard the freighter F. J. Luckenbach, and Capt. E. J. Sweeny said she had navigated the entire voyage by way of the Panama Canal.

A seaman's life has been Mrs. Converse's hobby for years. She holds coastwise navigation papers, a license to pilot 17-ton yachts, and hopes soon to be a registered third mate.

"My 'fourth' officer is all right," said Capt. Sweeney. "I guess she sailed long before I ever did. She's a good seaman and a good navigator. I'll class her as professional any day."

Nazi Flag on U. S. Skyscraper.

EIGHT FIRMS FACE U. S. CHARGES OF ROCK WOOL TRUST

General Insulating & Mfg. Co. of St. Louis to Be Accused of Part in Building Monopoly.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—The Justice Department has announced a complaint will be filed today in United States District Court at Chicago charging eight companies with misusing patent privileges in an attempt to acquire a monopoly in the mineral wool industry.

The department said that these corporations would be named: Johns-Manville Corporation, New York, Eagle-Picher Lead Co., Cincinnati, O., and General Insulating Manufacturing Co., St. Louis, the largest manufacturers of mineral wool; Johns-Manville Sales Corporation, Eagle-Picher Sales Co., United States Gypsum Co., Chicago; the Barrett Co. of New York, large distributors of mineral wool, and Slayter & Co., Chicago, a company engaged solely in holding patents for a method of blowing insulating material into the walls of structures.

Mineral wool, composed of interlaced resilient mineral fibers, has non-heat-conducting and fire-resisting properties and is used largely for insulating residences and industrial buildings. About $10,500,000 of it was sold in 1939.

The Justice Department said that Attorney-General Jackson authorized filing of the complaint as a result of evidence gathered during the nation-wide investigation of the building industry. An equity suit was decided upon, rather than criminal action, the statement added, in the hope of getting an early court decision on the question of control of unpatented products used in conjunction with patented processes.

The complaint will charge, the department said, that there was a conspiracy to monopolize and restrain trade in granulated mineral wool, a type which is blown pneumatically into the air spaces between walls, through licenses for use of the method. The statement added that the department would ask cancellation of the license agreements and an injunction against further restraint of trade.

Lawyer for St. Louis Firm Says NRA Encouraged Co-operation.

Officers of the General Insulating and Manufacturing Co. are Charles J. Cella, president; A. D. Cella, vice-president, and John G. Cella, secretary. The firm has offices at 705 Olive street, a sales department at 2814 Locust street and a plant at Alexandria, Ind.

William H. Killoren, attorney for the Cella interests in other matters, said he understood the suit involved the use of a patented blower for insulating homes with rock wool. The blower is leased to the insulating firms, Killoren said, under an agreement which requires their consent before it can be used by other companies. The attorney added that the insulating firms had been "encouraged to get together under the NRA."

PILOT WHO HERDED WILD HORSES WITH PLANE DIES

Floyd Hanson Succumbs to Spinal Malady After 23-Month Illness.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., June 24 (AP).—The body of Floyd Hanson, 35 years old, former commercial airplane pilot who became an aerial cowboy, was sent today to his desert home in Nevada. Ill for 23 months with a rare spinal malady, Hanson died at a sanitarium here Saturday night.

Hanson, once an instructor at Dycer Airport, Los Angeles, conceived the idea of herding wild horses by airplane. He would maneuver to get the horses between the plane and corral, then make a power dive with a siren shrieking. The horses were frightened into the corral. Hanson soon found a steady demand by ranchers for his services.

War Reporter Back in U. S. Tells of Belgian Treachery

ing the civilian population. This retreat was inglorious, but some excuses can be found for the Belgian soldiers (though not for the King).

The debacle of the Belgian army started with treason on the Meuse and on the Albert canal. Near Maastricht, two bridges on the Meuse were not blown up. One other bridge, on the Albert Canal, 30 miles northwest, remained standing too.

German Bribes.

Belgium official accounts asserted that German bombs killed the officers who were to press the button on the electric ignition of the fuse, but it was German bribes not German bombs, which were the real causes for the fatal blunder which left these bridges standing. Thus two road bridges and one railroad bridge were left for the invading German army. It made full use of this opportunity.

Immediately, motorcycle detachments with machine guns and flamethrowers in their sidecars, pushed over the open bridges at 60 miles an hour and succeeded in no time in reaching important strategic points 100 miles behind the Belgian lines.

Thus by noon of May 10, the Belgian front from Hasselt to Maaseyck gave way. In the Ardennes, the Belgian Alpine Chasseurs were still holding out. And now the German air force stepped in. Using 2,000 planes—300 coming in returning waves to bomb—the German flyers discharged their deadly cargo over the Belgian forces. The Belgians had no air force of any account to counteract the effect of this terror. Nor were there any anti-aircraft guns to speak of. Under these circumstances, the Germans became masters of Belgian Luxembourg on the third day of the totalitarian war.

It was just in this province of the Ardennes region where French troops came to the help of the Belgians. Yet aerial bombardment was only preparation for the main attack. In this war air bombing took over the role of the artillery barrage. It is my opinion, after personal observations, that this aerial bombing preparation for attack is not comparable, in practical effect, to the exact and deadly German artillery barrage.

Bombs, Then Tanks.

But so much has been said, written and believed about aerial warfare that the random but continued bombing of the Germans shook the morale of the Belgian troops. And at this juncture hundreds of heavy German tanks, accompanied by flame-throwers and other devices, attacked the Belgian forces and obliterated the barbed wire defenses. This was followed by the equally deadly "blitz" weapon—the motorcycle corps.

German youth and the German army for years were trained to the wildest cross-country exercises on motorcycles and, once the barbed wire fences were gone, these motorcyclists dashed, at 60 miles an hour, cross country, penetrating deep into Belgian territory between two pill boxes. Now the tanks got behind the pillboxes and annihilated them from their vulnerable rear. The Ardennes line thus being rolled up, the Germans concentrated on the upper reaches of the Meuse. both in France and in Belgium.

In Belgium there were 12 sluices on the Meuse and the motorcyclists used the narrow top planks of these sluices to make their dash across the river. Once across they established a bridgehead which enabled them to construct pontoon bridges. In some parts of the Meuse district the Germans used old trucks driven into the river to make a basis for the passage of heavy tanks.

And now, on top of the collapse of Belgian defenses, came treason, near Sedan, where French troops "forgot" to blow up six bridges.

It seems incredible, but rumors persistently alleged that German gold or bribes in high French quarters was the cause of this debacle.

French Delay.

Here, on the Meuse, the French broke down in every way. It had always been asserted that between Namur and Givet the French would be able to man the Belgian positions in two days. But due to bad organization, it took six days for French help to reach the Belgian Meuse, by which time the Belgian resistance was completely broken.

On the fourth day of the war in the West, the two fortresses of Namur and Louvain were exposed to such heavy aerial bombardments that both cities were almost completely destroyed. When the French finally reached Namur, and the British Louvain, there was no place left for storage or depots.

Anybody who, in the first three days of this totalitarian war, saw Belgian resistance crumbling, realized that it was useless to give help to Belgium. Without a previous military arrangement with the Belgians, England and France were unable to give effective military assistance.

When I saw the excellently equipped British army passing through Brussels toward Louvain, I knew it was walking into a death trap. Three Belgian divisions were already completely demoralized and scattered on May 10 and they were back at Brussels and Antwerp.

Attempts to reorganize them on the Cinquantenaire exhibition grounds in Brussels proved vain. A first-class French general staff should have realized this and should have decided not to send help to Belgium but to await the German attack on the Belgian-French frontier where the Allies had strong positions. But probably political considerations caused help to be sent.

Thus it was that the breach at Sedan became a trap for the French-British expeditionary force in Flanders.

GERMAN-ITALIAN DRIVE ON FENCH ALPINE FORCES

ed to be heading toward Toulon in an effort to make their way to North Africa and continue the war from there. About 150,000 troops removed from the Maginot line also were reported on their way to Mediterranean ports, but whether they planned to remain in France or embark for Africa was uncertain.

(Observers in the Balearic Islands, in the Mediterranean midway between France and North Africa, noted a southward stream of French planes, presumably bound for Tunisia.)

French sources at the Swiss frontier said units of Alpine troops already had arrived at Toulon and were waiting for transportation to North African ports.

ITALIANS THROWN BACK, FRENCH SAY

BORDEAUX, June 24 (AP). — The French high command said today that Italian attacks in the Alps had been thrown back with "serious losses."

The high command reported "lively fighting" in the environs of St. Etienne, 31 miles southwest of Lyon, as the Germans continued to drive southward through France.

Another German column, advancing along the Rhone Valley, was said to have reached the region of Culoz, 30 miles southwest of Geneva and 48 miles east of Lyon.

The text of the communique follows:

"In the West no important events.

"In the center lively fighting took place in the environs of St. Etienne.

"In the southeast the Germans succeeded in advancing in the region of Culoz in a southerly direction.

"In the Alps, Italian attacks were renewed but were broken by our advance posts and nowhere breached our line of resistance. The enemy suffered serious losses."

In a brief communique last night the high command said that "on the whole the situation is without change except along the Atlantic coast, where the Germans are continuing their advance in the direction of Rochefort, Saintes and Cognac."

British and Poles Reported Embarking at St. Jean de Luz.

IRUN, Spain (at the French-Spanish Frontier), June 24 (AP).—Reports reached here today that Polish troops had taken fortified positions north of Bayonne, France, some five miles north of here, to protect the embarkation of British and Polish troops at nearby St. Jean de Luz.

There was no confirmation of these reports from French sources.

Italian Landing Party of 200 Reported Captured by French.

NICE, June 23 (AP).—A force of 200 Italians attempting a landing under cover of naval guns at Menton, France, on the Mediterranean 10 miles northeast of here, were reported today to have been surrounded and captured by the French.

WPA CHIEFS CONVENE IN CITY TOMORROW

Harrington Here for Annual 3-Day Conference With State and Regional Officials.

The annual three-day national conference of Works Progress Administration officials will open tomorrow at Hotel Jefferson. About 100 State administrators and regional directors are expected to attend.

Col. Francis C. Harrington, national WPA administrator, arrived here today from Washington to serve as chairman at the conference. Sessions will be private.

Problems confronting the WPA and recent trends in types of employment and training offered by the various projects will be considered in round-table discussions, it was learned.

The meeting last year was at Chicago.

SOCIAL SECURITY CHIEF TO CHECK UP ON 'LUGS'

Haworth Orders Staff to Report Attempts to Collect Political Contributions.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 24.—All employes of the State Social Security Commission were instructed today by George I. Haworth, Administrator for the commission, to make reports on attempts to "lug" them for contributions to campaign funds of political candidates.

Haworth asked employes to report who had attempted to collect the contributions and the amounts. All employes have been notified they are not obligated to make any political fund contributions, under both Federal and State regulations governing the department.

John T. Harding of Kansas City, chairman of the commission, announced yesterday the commission would make an inquiry at its next meeting into attempts to compel commission employes to contribute to candidates for office.

This action followed disclosure that backers of Excise Commissioner Lawrence McDaniel of St. Louis, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, were attempting to collect campaign funds from state employes, including workers in the Social Security Department, which is under the merit system.

Letters received by some Social Security employes from the Knox County chairman of the McDaniel organization, State Representative Paul K. Gibbons of Edina, informed them that contributions to the McDaniel fund would be "job insurance," and refusal might prove a handicap.

Even minor employes with small salaries have not been overlooked in the solicitation of funds. Haworth said a young woman from Shelby County, who is employed in the Social Security Department in a minor clerical job at a salary of $90 a month, had been told by collectors for the Shelby County McDaniel organization that she had been assessed a contribution of $10.

Inquiry disclosed that employes in some of the other state departments, from counties in the First Congressional District, had received letters or verbal requests for contributions to the McDaniel fund, ranging up to $50.

Milligan Challenges Stark to Call for Campaign Inquiry Report.

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 24 (AP).—A suggestion that Gov. Lloyd C. Stark and Maurice M. Milligan join in requesting that reports of the recent Senate Campaign Committee Investigation in Missouri be made public came yesterday from Milligan's senatorial campaign headquarters here.

Milligan, Stark and Senator Harry S. Truman are contestants for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from Missouri.

The letter said that since Gov. Stark questions the "honesty and fairness of the investigation," the Governor will doubtless desire to join in a demand that the information be made public, "thus the people of Missouri will understand."

'GREAT BODY' OF POLISH ARMY REPORTED LANDING IN BRITAIN

Troops Taken From France Will Continue Fight, Premier in Exile Says.

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorsky, Prime Minister of the Polish Government in exile, announced in a broadcast tonight that "the great body of our armies, safely back from France, is landing on the shores of Great Britain."

The General did not disclose the size of the Polish force, but pledged it to "continue the fight, shoulder to shoulder with the powerful British Empire, for a free and independent Poland."

Five Radio Operators Walk Out in Sympathy With U. S. Union.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP). — A labor dispute between RCA Communications, Inc., and the CIO American Communications Association spread today to Honolulu, where five radio telegraph operators started a sympathetic "walkout," the union announced.

Company officers said trans-Pacific message traffic was not affected by the Honolulu stoppages. The union said in a statement that 800 employes were "locked out" in New York and San Francisco. The company contended the workers were on strike.

TURKEY, IRAQ CONSIDER THREAT TO OIL FIELDS

Conference Scheduled on Possible Italian Attack on Mosul Area Via Syria.

ANKARA, Turkey, June 24 (AP).—A group of Iraq Government officials, headed by Foreign Minister Nuri Said, was expected here today for discussion of Turkish aid in protecting the Mosul oil fields in Northern Iraq.

Iraq and Turkey both are concerned over reports that Italy may attempt to occupy French-mandated Syria, which would leave the oil fields open to attack and would be regarded by the Turks virtually as threatening as a direct attack.

Amid unconfirmed reports that Turkey already had appealed to Germany to help maintain the status quo in Syria, there was a growing impression that it would be ready to realign its policy with that of the Nazis provided it could get assurance Germany would not seek retaliation for Turkey's mutual assistance pacts with France and Britain.

(Soviet officials in Moscow denied reports that Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu was expected in Moscow and said no Turkish-Soviet conferences were scheduled. Such conferences had been suggested as a part of Turkish reinforcement of relations with many countries following France's defeat.)

NEW ESTONIAN GOVERNMENT WILL DISSOLVE PARLIAMENT

First Step Under Pacts With Russia; Normal International Relations Called Objective.

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—The new Estonian Government, formed after Russian troops entered the country last week, announced yesterday its intention of cultivating normal relations with all states, Reuters (British news agency) reported from Tallinn.

First steps to insure execution of pacts with Russia will include:

1. Dissolution of Parliament.
2. Dismissal of "dishonest state employes."
3. Guaranteeing of rights of minorities, and bettering of conditions of workers.

The new Home Secretary, M. Maxim, described as a former building trades worker, was quoted as saying the police force would be reorganized and that all disturbances would be put down "by force." Estonian flags were reported flying side by side with red banners throughout the country, whose frontiers were said to have been closed.

SERIOUS SHORTAGE OF FOOD IN BELGIUM

Rural Regions Particularly Hard Hit; German Red Cross Giving Some Aid.

BERLIN, June 24 (AP).—A serious food shortage in Belgium, particularly in the rural regions, was reported yesterday by observers in Brussels watching the little kingdom try to adjust itself to German occupation.

The German Red Cross, financed domestically and from abroad, was reported attempting to forestall a critical situation and German relief was said to be reaching Belgium in increasing quantities.

Belgium, which previously imported much food by sea, now is closed off by the British blockade and in the confusion of the war appears unable to adjust itself to the purely continental economy in time to replace fully the supplies formerly brought by ships.

The Red Cross in the country districts in distributing bread, biscuits, condensed milk and canned foods. Sugar, butter, eggs and cured meat generally are scarce. Clothing is less urgently needed.

The food problem is bound up with the refugee question. Thousands of Belgian residents left their homes before the swift German thrust and great quantities of food were reported destroyed to prevent the supplies from falling into German hands.

The Germans, however, appropriated food stored in unoccupied houses, on the ground that the owners had departed for an extensive stay in France and such food should be preserved.

Consequently, when thousands of fugitives went home, they found their stocks of foodstuffs largely vanished — and shopkeepers explained helplessly that the usual supplies from overseas had been cut off abruptly.

The situation is worse in the country districts because, for reasons the Belgians are unable to understand fully, fewer city dwellers had left their homes.

MY LINENS WERE TATTERED-AND SO WERE MY NERVES

"I couldn't imagine why my linens frayed out so fast.

"Whenever I got ahead on household expenses . . . bang!—the money went right out again for sheets or towels.

"A neighbor put me wise: I was ruining my linens myself with a harsh bleach. She also told me about Purex, the new-type bleach that treats cottons and linens gently.

"Purex has made a wonderful difference. It keeps my linens snowy and free from stains—yet they last and last!"

HARSH bleaches cause tattered fabrics like this. The fibres are weakened—at first invisibly; then fraying occurs along folds. You buy replacements much too soon—a needless expense.

PUREX treats cottons and linens gently because made by the exclusive Intrafil Process, which removes impurities. Has full bleaching strength—yet fabrics last! A big money saving. Use Purex as directed. At your grocer's.

FRENCH, BRITISH CONSULATES HIT IN CHUNGKING RAID

Former Destroyed, English Embassy Struck — 100 Planes Inflict Heavy Damage.

CHUNGKING, China, June 24 (AP).—The French Consulate was demolished and the British Embassy and British Consulate were damaged today during a Japanese air raid. Seven Chinese employes of the British and French consulates were killed, but no Europeans were hurt.

Damage to the downtown area was heavy. Thousands of houses were demolished or badly damaged.

Nearly 100 Japanese warplanes attacking in three waves laid waste two districts within Chungking and a large area along the Yangtze River.

By FRANK SMOTHERS

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1940.

SHANGHAI, June 24.—A new threat to the cause of Chinese resistance grew today as a result of Japanese pressure on Great Britain, over the week end, to close the vital Burma road supply route to Chungking.

Simultaneously, with the declaration in Tokyo that the Government is seeking to block war supplies for Chinese armies by the Burma route, the high command of the Japanese expeditionary forces in South China announced in Canton that Japanese forces had started operations in the area north of Hongkong.

In Hongkong, British military authorities said the Japanese previously had announced the intention to the British to occupy "certain areas adjacent to the colony for the purpose of cleaning up Chinese guerrillas." There was no undue cause for alarm, the explanation by the British military added.

Nevertheless, both there and in Shanghai, forebodings mounted today that one of the purposes of the Japanese military operations so near Hongkong is to raise the military threat to the existence of the crown colony in order to try to win British agreement to cut the traffic from Burma to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's armies.

Japanese Explanation.

Confidence in the Japanese motives was not improved by an inspired Domei (Japanese) News Agency dispatch from Canton Saturday asserting that operations north of Hongkong, were designed to blockade the area and end "profiteering" by British merchants in Hongkong who had "taken advantage of the absence of Japanese troops in that area."

It is believed that the Japanese are unlikely to attempt to seize Hongkong at this juncture.

If the British should yield to Japanese pressure to close the Burma road, the blow to China would be severe. The Burma road is one of two major routes remaining open for war supplies for Chiang's armies in the interior, following the capitulation of France, last week, to Japanese demands for the virtual closing of the Indo-China route to Chungking.

Should the British close the Burma road, the only remaining major route from abroad—save by air—to centers of Chinese resistance would be the Russian overland route by way of Lanchow. To what extent a great Soviet effort could make it counterbalance the loss of the Indo-China and Burma routes is a complicated question.

Chinese Leaders Firm.

Leaders of the Chinese Government, since the victory of Germany over France and its implications for the Far East, have not diminished in the least their resolute declaration that free China is going to carry on resistance against Japan. They have stated in the recent past that they have war supplies for a long period. Recent visitors to Chungking have been impressed with the production of light arms within China. Nevertheless, the cutting off of the Indo-China-Yunnan route for gasoline and trucks and other supplies was a serious blow. The cutting off of the Burma road would be more serious.

One of its probable results, in so far as the logic of geography indicates, would be to force the Chinese Government to turn increasingly to Moscow for support. It already is turning more and more to America. In this connection the plane trip of former Finance Minister Dr. T. V. Soong to America is attracting widespread attention. America in the Chinese view, can help by increasing the scope of embargoes as they apply to Japan, by advancing funds to China, and—as long as the Burma road is open—by sending supplies over that route. If the Burma road is cut American supplies, if any, would seem to be forced through Russian territory en route to China. The existing, additional "Ningpo route" from China's east coast, is of minor importance and can be cut by the Japanese if they wish.

Peace Sentiment Claimed.

With the wish obviously father to the thought the Japanese—anxious to get the wearing war in China finished and their hands free for action elsewhere—are accompanying their bombings in Chungking and efforts to cut off foreign supplies with claims that "peace sentiment" is growing among part of the Chungking Government. Such propaganda appears flimsy to date.

The exact scope of the French

U. S. PLEDGES AID TO SOUTH AMERICA IN CURBING ALIENS

Minister to Uruguay Says Washington Opposes Threats to Nations From Without or Within.

MONTEVIDEO, June 24 (AP).—Government circles considered Uruguay's drive against potential "fifth columnists" strengthened today by United States Minister Edwin C. Wilson's announcement that aid of the United States is at the disposal of other American nations to crush any threat to their liberty from without or within.

Observers said Wilson's speech yesterday was likely to have a marked effect on the handling by the Uruguayan Congress of the Nazi situation.

A "Fifth Column" Investigating Committee, which already has caused the arrest of nine Germans as suspects in pro-Nazi plots, was to make new recommendations to Congress today.

One Uruguayan Government leader said:

"Without strong outside support it appeared we would have to whitewash the investigation and back down in the face of German successes in Europe and the possibility that we would have to depend on them for our economic security in the future.

"The Wilson announcement that the entire strength of the United States is ready to co-operate pushes far into the background the threat of German retaliation in case drastic action is taken against the Nazis."

Wilson, speaking at a luncheon given by Foreign Minister Alberto Guani for officers of the U. S. S. Quincy, said, "it is the intention and the avowed policy of my government to co-operate fully, wherever such co-operation is desired, with all other American governments in crushing any activities arising from non-American sources which might imperil our political and economic freedom."

Mexico Pledges Full Support in Case U. S. Is Invaded.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—The full support of Mexico should the United States be invaded was pledged yesterday by Dr. Francisco Najera, Mexican Ambassador to Washington.

"Any attack on America by a non-American nation concerns the entire continent," he told reporters. "If the United States is invaded, we will stand by it."

He asserted subversive activity in his country had been nipped in the bud.

MORE JOBS FOR YOUTH URGED BY MANUFACTURERS' HEAD

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—Industry is urged by H. W. Prentis Jr., president of the National Association of Manufacturers, "to provide employment opportunities for American youth so that this commencement season may be truly a commencement" for thousands of young graduates.

Prentis, writing in the association's weekly news letter, says national defense requirements will necessitate considerable expansion of industrial operations and asks that each company survey its personnel with a view to finding "if it is not possible to start more young people at work in private enterprise."

Prentis announces the appointment of a special subcommitte to study the problem.

6TH INFANTRY SEEKS RECRUITS

90 More to Be Enlisted for Jefferson Barracks Regiment.

The Sixth Infantry, Jefferson Barracks, has been allowed 90 more recruits under the defense program, it was announced today. Enlistments are being received at Room 921, New Federal Building.

Vacancies for 100 enlistments are open for the Field Artillery at Camp Ord, Cal., the recruiting office announced.

agreement relative to supplies to China is not clear, but the Japanese version is humiliating. Tokyo not only says that Charles Arsene-Henry, French Ambassador, promised a cessation of traffic "in a wide range of materials, including everything which may be of military value to Chungking," but that the Ambassador did not object to the Japanese project of sending examiners to Indo-China ports to inspect shipments destined for Chungking.

Despite this, the Japanese military authoritites in South China have followed with charges that the French Consul-General in Hongkong is "insincere" for allegedly having asserted that war materials, as such, had not been transported from Indo-China to Chungking.

With Japanese officers in Canton issuing threats and extremists in Tokyo demanding the occupation of Indo-China, the sudden military operations adjacent to the Hongkong boundary re-emphasize the danger that if Japan moves on Indo-China it may simultaneously attack Hongkong, which is extremely vulnerable.

These developments in the south have thrown a cloud over the satisfaction felt by some Britons in the Tientsin compromise with the Japanese which led to the lifting, only four days ago, of the year-old blockade on the British and French concessions.

Cards Are Rained Out; Bowman Is A Casualty

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 24. — With Bob Bowman lost to the team for two weeks because of a spike wound, the Cardinals had a day of rest here today when the first game of their series with the Giants was postponed because of rain.

Bowman was spiked after pitching to two batters in the opener of a doubleheader the Redbirds lost to the Boston Bees at Boston yesterday, 7-5, and 10-5.

Bowman ran over to cover first when Sisti bunted to Johnny Mize and the two players arrived almost simultaneously. Sisti's spikes cut a tendon below the right ankle, inflicting a gash two and a half inches long. Bowman was carried from the field to the clubhouse where four stitches were taken to close the wound. After the game he was advised to leave for home and will not be able to pitch for at least two weeks.

Seven Cardinal pitchers went to the mound in the fruitless attempt to stop the Bees. The Bees banged out 12 hits in each game. Gene Moore, who wasn't good enough to qualify for an outfield berth in Brooklyn in a field of 15 candidates, almost licked the Cardinals single-handed.

In the first game he banked out four consecutive singles and in the second game he hit a home run, two doubles and drew a base on balls. His home run in the seventh inning of the nightcap broke up a 5-5 tie, but the Bees added four more superfluous runs in the eighth, after which the game was called on account of the Sunday law.

Manuel Salvo, making his first appearance for the Bees in the opener, restricted the Cardinals to six hits, two of which were home runs by Ernie Koy and Johnny Mize in the fourth inning. Salvo also issued six walks.

Carl Doyle, who relieved Bowman in the first inning, went along very well until after he doubled, scoring Orengo and Marion to dissolve a 3-3 tie. It looked as if the former Brooklyn pitcher had won his own game, but he could not stand prosperity and the Bees came back in their half of the inning to score four runs on four hits, two passes and an error.

In the second game the Cards opened the scoring in the second inning. Two were out when Pepper Martin, who was playing right field because of southpaw pitching, hit a home run over the right field fence.

But the Bees scored four in the fourth. Sisti doubled, Moore walked and after Ross had been called out on strikes and West fouled out, Al Glossop doubled off the left field

Bucky Walters, ace Cincinnati pitcher, bends over Billy Jurges, Giant shortstop, after the New York player had been hit in the head by one of Walters' pitched efforts yesterday. Ernie Lombardi is at the left and Mickey Witek at the right. Jurges suffered a concussion, but no fracture in the accident.

Ted Williams, Red Sox outfielder, under the X-ray machine at a Cleveland hospital to determine the extent of his injuries following a collision with Roger Cramer in yesterday's game. Williams and Cramer came together in chasing a fly ball.

Jurges Suffered No Fracture When Hit By Walters' Pitch

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—Polyclinic Hospital officials said that Billy Jurges, New York Giant shortstop who was felled by a ball thrown by Pitcher Bucky Walters of Cincinnati, "suffered a concussion, but X-rays show no evidence of any fracture."

The infielder will be kept in the hospital, as is usual in such cases, for a 24-hour period after the nausea and dizziness that accompany a concussion have passed.

Jurges was hit on the back of the head in the seventh inning of the first game of yesterday's doubleheader. He regained consciousness in the clubhouse, where he was carried on a stretcher, long enough to tell the apologetic Walters, "That's all right, Bucky, forget it."

The "beaning" was the second here in a week. Last Tuesday Joe Medwick of the Brooklyn Dodgers was hit by one of Bob Bowman's high, hard ones during the St. Louis series.

Williams Knocked Out.

CLEVELAND, June 24 (AP).—Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox slugging outfielder, was knocked unconscious in a collision in the first game of yesterday's doubleheader with the Cleveland Indians and forced to leave the lineup.

Revived on the field after a few minutes, he was able to walk to the dugout and club officials immediately sent him to Lakeside Hospital for examination. Teammates said he was badly shaken up but apparently not hurt seriously.

The collision occurred in the eighth inning as Williams, playing in left instead of right field as usual, went after Ray Mack's long fly ball. Centerfielder Roger Cramer, not noticing Williams' signal for the catch, also started for it and the two crashed together. Cramer was able to recover the ball and throw it in, but his teammate sank to the ground.

Dom DiMaggio replaced Williams in the Sox lineup but Cramer, after five minutes' delay, was able to resume play.

WRAY'S COLUMN

NEW YORK, June 24.

Larry MacPhail Views With Alarm.

THE man who gave us the floodlights now wants to turn on the dimmers . . . That's Larry MacPhail, of course . . . He's the guy who started the major leagues off on a night-game tangent . . . And now he's fearful where it may lead.

In between hoisting some high-proof and departing for the race track, Larry imparted to this writer the information that the Browns were making a mistake in scheduling 14 night games.

"I'll never approve more than seven night games," he said. "More would destroy the novelty . . . Interest would die out . . . And of course it would hurt daylight attendance . . . And that's the backbone of the game.

"You may not know it, but Sam Breadon of the Cardinals also wanted to play 14 night games, like the Browns . . . But the National League rule requires a unanimous vote and I voted against it . . . I will continue to vote against an extension of night baseball beyond seven games."

Griff Reversed Himself Twice.

HOW did that view fit in with the views of other magnates like Clark Griffith, who once advocated still further extension of night baseball? we inquired.

"Well, it doesn't seem to matter about Griff," he answered. "He reversed himself twice on this subject, and still hasn't got night baseball in his park . . . What happens to the Browns' 14 games will be interesting to all of us . . . But I'll still be sold on the idea that baseball is a daylight game primarily . . . It must live or die on that basis."

LARRY MacPHAIL

Griffith once advocated 30 night games for each major league club. . . . Then he balked on the cost of installing the lights. . . . and Washington still has no night baseball. . . . Still, the American League, once unalterably opposed to the floodlights, now is taking the contrary stand and is favoring extension of night baseball. . . . Even 14 games is not the limit in the American.

The fact that night baseball meets popular approval—and working conditions—seems to answer MacPhail's seven-game limit argument. Many of the minor leagues have adopted a six nights a week schedule. . . . Seventy per cent of many minor league schedules are after dark. . . . This represents an increase from an original two nights a week in the minors to five or six. . . . and they even play night doubleheaders.

Perhaps a few big-time towns can stand daylight play regularly. . . . But economic conditions more and more point to night baseball as a requirement for keeping out of the red.

However, we hope an extension of night baseball will not become imperative. . . . After all it is a daylight game. . . . And while a night spectacle occasionally is interesting, it is abnormal. . . . And, with the advent of the five-day work week for employed persons, perhaps

HITS BY BERARDINO AND M'QUINN SCORE TWO RUNS IN FIRST

By Herman Wecke

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, June 24.—Elden Auker, submarine right-hander, who was batted off the hill by the Senators in last Saturday's game, pitched for the Browns in the first of the series of three with the Athletics this afternoon. He drew Johnny Babich, rescued from the minors by Connie Mack, as his opponent.

The clubs will meet in a game tomorrow night with Vernon Kennedy and Nelson Potter as the probable pitchers.

Fewer than 500 were in the stands when play began.

The umpires were Summers, Quinn and Pipgras.

Yesterday, in a doubleheader, the Browns broke even with the Washington Senators. They lost the opener, 12 to 5, and won a seven-inning nightcap by a 3-2 count.

The game:

FIRST INNING — ATHLETICS—Heffner tossed out Brancato. Moses singled to center. McCoy hit into a double play, Heffner to Berardino to McQuinn.

RBOWNS—McCoy threw out Cullenbine. Radclif walked. McQuinn doubled to right, Radcliff stopping at third. McCoy threw out Clift, Radcliff scoring. Judnich walked. Berardino singled to center, scoring McQuinn and putting Judnich on third. Heffner was called out on strikes. TWO RUNS.

SECOND — ATHLETICS—Johnson flied to Judnich. Siebert was out, McQuinn, unassisted. Hayes singled to center. Chapman popped to Berardino.

BROWNS—Swift flied to Moses. Auker singled to center. Cullenbine flied to Chapman. Radcliff singled to right, sending Auker to third. McQuinn was intentionally passed, filling the bases. Clift popped to Brancato.

THIRD—ATHLETICS—Rubeling flied to Judnich. Babich flied to Cullenbine. Berardino threw out Brancato.

BROWNS—Judnich hit on top of the right field pavilion for his eighth home run of the season. Berardino doubled to center. Heffner struck out. Swift popped to Rubeling. Brancato threw out Auker. ONE RUN.

FOURTH—ATHLETICS — Heffner threw out Moses. Berardino threw out McCoy. Johnson struck out.

Rain Fails to Stop Kopcha in Hill Climb

Rain put the 60-degree angle 212-foot hill at Ozark Cliff in dangerous condition yesterday but that failed to keep Steve Kopcha from climbing to the top of it on his motorcycle in seven seconds.

Kopcha was the only one to make it, however, and officials postponed the novice championships because of the bad conditions.

The successful climb gave Kopcha victory in the 45-cubic-inch district championship event. Art Badgett won the open unlimited event and Mike Verderber was first in the 80-cubic-inch contest.

On July 14, the State championships will be held on the same hill at Manchester and Barrett roads.

Jockey Is Given 10-Day Suspension

McNeill Is A Winner Over Riggs

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP).—Don McNeill of Oklahoma City won the men's singles championship of the national clay courts tournament today with a four-set victory over Bobby Riggs of Chicago, top ranking amateur of the country.

The scores were 6-1, 6-4, 7-9 and 6-3.

McNeill, 22-year-old graduate of Kenyon College, Gambier, O., and ranked third nationally, was much too steady for the erratic and slipshow national champion.

Only in the third set did Riggs show any of the form on offense or defense that has carried him to so many titles in the past, including the national clay courts crown three times.

Pirate Coach Fined $50, Handley $25

NE WYORK, June 24 (AP).—President Ford Frick of the National League disclosed today that he had fined Coach Mike Kelly of the Pittsburgh Pirates $50 and suspended him for three days and had fined Third Baseman Lee Handley $25 as a result of a disturbance in yesterday's Pittsburgh-Brooklyn doubleheader.

Manager Frank Frisch, who was banished by umpires along with Kelly and Handley, was not punished.

The Pirates objected to a diving cach made into a double play by Outfielder Joe Vosmik in the tenth inning of the second game. Frisch was ejected early in the argument, but others carried on a violent dispute and Handley tossed a water bucket out of the dugout.

Frick said no protests had been filed for either game of the doubleheader, although the managers of each team had announced they would protest both games.

Three New Records Set as Sentinel Retains DeMolay Title

McKee Is Individual Standout

Rabboni Finishes in Second Place 14 Points Behind Leaders — Granite City Gets Next Meet.

Sentinel Chapter retained its DeMolay relay championship yesterday afternoon at the Maplewood Senior High School Stadium, scoring 94 points in the junior and senior divisions to beat Rabboni Chapter of Webster Groves, by 14 points. Granite City was third with 54½.

While Sentinel again won the junior division, Rabboni took senior division honors. Sentinel led 45-41, with only the high jump to be completed. Joe Funk won the event for Rabboni and the five points gave his team top position.

Individual honors went to Bob McKee, Rabboni, and Joe Findley, of Wellston. The two tied for a new record in the junior pole vault, leaping 10 feet, 4 inches to better the old mark by four inches.

McKee set another new record in the junior discus throw with a heave of 109 feet, 10 inches to better the old mark of 108 feet, one and one-half inches. McKee also took first place in the high jump and was fourth in the shot put.

The Granite City junior mile relay team was credited with a new record, a new event on the program. The race replaced the 440-yard relay. The winning team members were Jones, Jerry Schmidt, Harmon and Allen.

Tom Burke, of Sentinel, was another man to win more than one event. He captured the senior 440-yard dash and the 120-yard high hurdles. Joe Funk, Rabboni, won the broad jump, in addition to the senior high jump.

Next year's meet was awarded to Granite City.

"Lead a Normal Life and You Will Succeed in Big-Time Golf"---Little

If You Are Used to Cocktails There Is No Use in Quitting, but Keep in Condition, He Says.

By W. J. McGoogan

Lead a normal life to succeed in big-time golf. That's the theory of Lawson Little, California college man, who celebrated his thirtieth birthday here yesterday, waiting for the rain to cease to enable him to play a scheduled exhibition match for the benefit of the Red Cross.

But the rain didn't stop in time to bring out a gallery, so Little and Westwood officials decided to postpone the event until his next trip here, probably next month.

After lunch, Lawson sat about and talked of his golf experiences. Everybody, of course, wanted to know how he won the open at Canterbury, in Cleveland, earlier this month and how to conduct yourself in a big tournament of that kind, both on and off the links.

"What did you do while you were not actually playing?" Little was asked.

His Daily Program.

"Perhaps the best way to answer that," he said, "is to give you my daily routine. I was scheduled to start the first day at 12:30 o'clock. So I got up about 10 o'clock, had some orange juice, milk and a sweet roll. I went to the club, practiced for a half-hour, had a glass of milk in the clubhouse, putted 10 minutes and went ahead.

"After I had finished my round, I had three or four highballs, and," he laughed, "you don't have to mention that. In the evening I had dinner, sat around and talked until midnight, then went to bed.

"The next day it was virtually the same, except that I started at 9 o'clock and had to get up earlier. And on the day of the final there was no change either, except that there were 36 holes to play and after the morning round I had orange juice, milk and two slices of toast, buttered and thickly sprinkled with sugar. Before I started in the afternoon I had some lump sugar. That night, of course, I tied for the championship and there were a number of friends around, so I had a few more 'scotches' before I went to bed. I got up for the playoff with Gene Sarazen all right the next morning."

Plays Course Too Often.

You wondered why Lawson didn't think the thing to do was to get to bed early before such a test, but he only laughed and said:

"If I go to bed at, say, 9 o'clock the night before a big round, I play that course 14 times before I go to sleep. Oh, of course, I birdie every hole in my mind. I wake up about 4 o'clock in the morning and think of just how I'm going to hit each shot.' The result is I reach the course in a fine state of jitters and can't hit an elephant with a fiddle."

LAWSON LITTLE

Little is, of course, hep to the idea that you have to be in good physical condition to play big time golf and he has the advantage of playing so much golf that he's always in good shape.

"I heard early in my career that the three essential things in golf were good physical condition, good nerves and the ability to relax. Constant playing will take care of the first two and I think if you lead a normal life the third will be cared for.

"For instance, a week before the Open in Cleveland, my wife and I went out for an evening. We visited a night club and stayed up quite late. That relaxed me and I was all right.

"I have been accustomed all my life to a few cocktails before dinner and I see no sense in changing the routine."

And then Lawson went on to tell a story about his being selected on the Walker Cup team in 1934. He heard it first from friends in a college fraternity house, but didn't believe it until they showed him the newspapers. Then he went into serious training, doing road work in the morning, gymnasium exercises and practicing until "you thought I was training for a prize fight and not for golf," he grinned.

"Then when we got on the boat, the captain had a cocktail party for the team the first night, but I refused a drink and indicated to other members that we weren't on a picnic but were going to play Great Britain for the honor of the United States. I was imbued with a deep spirit of patriotism because my father had been an army surgeon and I was reared in army atmosphere.

"Well, Francis Ouimet was captain of the team and when he heard about my not liking the idea of cocktail parties he called me into my cabin and explained:

"'We are going to England to represent our country, the United States Golf Association and ourselves,' he said. 'We want to do nothing to bring discredit to anybody. If it's your custom to have a drink, have it; if it should cause you to misbehave, don't. We are going to play golf, we want to be liked, we are going to have a swell time; if we win, we win; if we lose, we'll lose and like it. So just be yourself.'

"And that was such excellent advice," Lawson went on, "that I've never forgotten it. So just try to live my normal life, no matter what I'm doing."

It's Mighty Expensive.

Traveling around playing tournament golf when you're married isn't a cheap pastime, take it from Little.

"I was the eighth money winner on the winter tour and collected something like $2800. My wife traveled with me and our total expenses were about $3300."

What does he do about caddy fees?

"Well, after I collected my share in the open, more than $1000, I gave my caddy $200. But ordinarily when I win nothing, I pay an average of $3 per round. The Professional Golfers' Association has tried to set up a scale of 1 per cent of purses, but now has made it 2 per cent, in addition to regular fees, for the caddies, and believe me, my caddy at Canterbury earned it. He had an uncanny sense of judgment of distance and so did I. But his confirmation of my own judgment made me doubly sure."

And how much golf does a man in his position play?

"Well, from April, 1936, until April, 1937, I played 278 rounds in 365 days," Little replied, "and kept nearly to that figure for the next two years. And after I returned from the British open in July, 1939, I hardly touched a stick until January of this year in the Los Angeles open; that's how sick of the game I was."

Lawson now is trying to cash in on his greatest thrill, the open title, in exhibitions, etc. But naturally, it doesn't mean so much this year as in former times, what with the war occupying the attention of the public.

Little, Oliver To Play June 30

HORNELL, N. Y., June 24 (AP) ED OLIVER, who was disqualified in the National Open golf tourney, has announced tentative dates for three of a best five series with National Open Champion Lawson Little.

The dates are June 30, Chicago; July 3, Philadelphia, and July 7, near New York.

Oliver also plans to enter the Chicago open, the Milwaukee open and the St. Paul open.

Hoogerhyde Wins Allround Title in Archery Tourney

MILWAUKEE, June 24 (AP).—Russ Hoogerhyde of Northbrook, Ill., was high over-all scorer in the Grand American archery tournament concluded here yesterday with a total of 2201 points for the five men's target events.

Hoogerhyde, five times world's champion, finished the three-day shoot by capturing the 50-yard target event with a count of 468 and placing third in the 60-yard event with 418.

Heavy rainstorms during the last three days flooded the State Fair Park infield where the competition was held and forced the archers to don hipboots or shoot barefooted.

Leslie Berg of San Francisco trailed Hoogerhyde with a total target score of 2051, while Carl Strang of Dearborn, Mich., placed third with 2041.

Minerva Lanzer, Berwyn, Ill., was high scorer among the women target shooters with 2217; Mrs. Lola Gaston, South Haven, Mich., second with 2175, and Mrs. Olive Layer, Clarendon Hills, Ill., third with 2174.

Bob Anderson, Chicago, was high junior with 1665; Howard Wilson, Springfield, Mo., second, 1662, and Allen Druckenmiller, Bluffton, Ind., third, 1507.

Howard Hill, Hollywood (Cal.) archer, topped shooters in the three field events with a 901 total. Pat Chambers of Portland, Ore., the national champion, finished second with an 843 score, and C. A. Clarke of Angola, Ind., third with 836.

Mrs. Katherine Raisch, San Francisco, captured the women's field events with 181, while Mrs. Henry (Babe) Bitzenberger, Los Angeles, only other archer in the division to complete one full event, was next with 179.

Rogan Has Chance To Catch Leaders in Midget Auto Races

Johnny Rogan, St. Louis midget auto driver who is running fourth in the local points standings with a total of 559, has a good opportunity to catch the leaders in the weekly races tomorrow night at Walsh Stadium. Teddy Duncan of Chicago, with 962 points; Myron Ford of Milwaukee, with 816, and Ray Richards of Chicago with 604, are the three leaders.

Ford, Duncan and Richards raced twice yesterday in Chicago in the afternoon and the Raceview course in the evening. As a result their cars were put to severe tests. Rogan, on the other hand, turned down several chances to race out of town and instead worked on his car over the week end and has it running smoothly.

Helen Stephens of Olympic fame will race an automobile in the novelty feature. She will spot the car 10 yards in a 100-yard race.

New York State Now Likes Racing.

FOR years mutuel betting on horse races was about as welcome as onions in ice cream. . . . Today you couldn't change the mutuel law except over the dead bodies of the State legislators. . . . It's already proved to be a bonanza.

Daily average handles of $600,000 are being recorded. . . . By small and large tracks too. . . . On big days peaks of better than $1,500,000 have been reached in the mutuels. . . . Of all this, the State splits 50-50 on a 10 per cent takeout with breakage. . . . In one day alone the States' share of the mutuel take was around $90,000. . . . Receipts have almost doubled legislative expectation.

And this is in spite of the widespread pall over almost all sports due to the European war situation. . . . This affected the Joe Louis-Arturo Godoy fight appallingly. . . . But it didn't slow up the racing faddists.

Latest reports are that a new track will be built at Flushing. . . . It will be only 20 minutes from the Pennsylvania station. . . . The public here doesn't like the Belmont track. . . . You can't see the races run nearly as well as other tracks. . . . And the new course if carried through, may give the public what it wants—a well-arranged course close to the city.

fence to score Sisti. Miller then picked on the 3-1 pitch and parked it over the right field fence for a home run.

The Bees added another run in the next inning on successive doubles by Sisti and Moore.

Faced with a 5-1 deficit going into the sixth inning, the Cards took advantage of an error by Miller to score three runs. With one out, Terry Moore doubled to left and moved to third when Miller booted Koy's grounder. Mize forced Koy at second and Moore scored on the play. Pepper Martin then singled for his third hit and Joe Orengo hit the 3-2 cripple to right-center, scoring both Mize and Martin and cutting the Bees' lead to one run.

Two Titles To St. Louis Shooters

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 24 (AP).—William B. Woodring, Alton, Ill., marksman, racked up an aggregate score of 3155 to win the Midwestern regional rifle championship at Camp Lincoln yesterday.

Paul C. Spavor of the St. Louis Police Department, scored 1690 points to take top honors in the regional pistol aggregate event. Francis M. O'Connor of the Kansas City Police Department, was second in this event, seven points under the winner's total.

Woodring and Spavor were awarded free trips to the national rifle and pistol matches at Camp Perry, O., Aug. 18 to Sept. 7, by the National Rifle Association of America, sponsors of yesterday's event. Woodring held the national small bore rifle championship in 1936, 1937, 1938. A free trip also was awarded Hugh J. Adamson, of the Kansas City police, whose combined score of 1586 was high for pistol shooters in the lower qualifications.

The team title was taken by the St. Louis police foursome, which registered a combined score of 1114. The Kansas City police team finished third with 1062.

Among the individual winners, O'Connor captured two firsts—both in national pistol match course matches. In the event for any center-fire gun, he scored 284, and in the event for .45-caliber pistols, he won with 279. Sergt. Arthur Topper of Fort Benning, Ga., was second in the latter event, trailing by four points.

S. L. Benner of Fort McClellan, Ala., took the .22-caliber national match course match with 287. The .22-caliber Camp Perry course match was won by Garfield Huddleston of the Kansas City police team with 296.

Higgins Succeeds Grant As Hockey League Head

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 24 (AP).—George Higgins of Minneapolis yesterday was elected president of the American Hockey Association to succeed W. F. "Bill" Grant of Kansas City.

Grant, who has held the presidency through the past 13 seasons, resigned because of the press of business.

Higgins, who has been interested in the league's activities through several seasons as a sports broadcaster for WTCN also was named to fill the treasurer's position.

Grant was elected vice-president of the league and Herman Peterson, president of the St. Paul club, was chosen secretary.

Schedule matters were discussed at the meeting, but probably will not be arranged until late next month.

At the meeting beside the new and old presidents, were President Peterson and Manager Perk Galbraith of St. Paul, Ed Shave and Fred Hutchinson of Minneapolis, Lyle Wright of Omaha, President Ed Steffen and Manager Johnny McKinnon of St. Louis, President George Lackey of Tulsa and Secretary Harry Hodgins of Kansas City.

ARMY FINDS MEN QUICKLY FOR JOBS ON CONSTRUCTION

War Department Using Short-Cut in Hiring — Work in Prospect for 20,000 Civilians.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—War Department officials reported today that civilians were being put to work with war-time swiftness on new construction for the expanding army.

Five-hundred workers were rounded up in two weeks for the new $12,000,000 Anchorage (Alaska) air base.

Civilian workers similarly were put quickly to wcrk on construction jobs at Camp Ripley, Minn., and Fort Benning, Ga.

A list of clerks and stenographers ready to go on duty at once was turned over to officials at a middle-Western post the same day on which orders arrived to employ 200.

The War Department, which already has some 120,000 civilian employes, is using a short-cut hiring procedure perfected after the European conflict started. Jobs are in prospect for some 20,000 in the next few months.

Proposal for Training.

To meet the demand for skilled workers in the defense industries, meantime, the National Defense Commission has proposed a system of training men already working in the factories.

Commissioner Sidney Hillman suggested that a $20,200,000 fund which Congress voted to train workers be used for voluntary training of employes in industry, workers on WPA and NYA, and "for the unemployed generally as they may be needed."

Under the in-service training program, in which trade and technical schools would co-operate, workers would move up to more skilled jobs as they learned, and their old jobs would be filled with recruits.

CCC repair shops would train additional men in truck and tractor repair, and in the use of shop tools.

Civil Service Rating.

A. T. Onthank, personnel director of the War Department, said about three-fourths of the new army employes would be craftsmen, needed to work on barracks, arsenals and air fields. By law, they must be examined and rated by the Civil Service Commission.

There are millions from which to select. The Civil Service lists about 2,500,000 approved applicants for all kinds of work. The Federal employment service has some 6,000,000, whose skills are being surveyed by Hillman. More than 300 persons have been applying every day for work at the War Department.

The speedup in meeting army requirements was attained, Onthank explained, largely by a process of keeping lists up to date so that qualified persons were available to start work without delay. World War experience was a guide.

Because voluntary enlistments in the army have failed to raise the army to its authorized strength, Senator Lodge (Rep.), Massachusetts, has proposed a compulsory selective service law so that "this period shall not be known as the Chamberlain era in American history."

Discussing the $1,777,489,788 emergency defense appropriation bill, which carried funds for 95,000 additional enlistments to bring the army up to 375,000 men, Lodge expressed his belief that the United States should have an army of 750,000.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

82-Year-Old Runaway.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 22.—In addition to sending home 30 juveniles lured away by the circus last month, the Travelers' Aid dealt with its oldest runaway. They returned to her relatives an 82-year-old woman who had read about Canada in the newspapers and, without telling anyone, was off to see the sights.

Insists on Paying Tax.

GENEVA, Ill.—"I have a complaint to make," said Charles Hossock. "I want to pay taxes and didn't get any bill."

The County Board of Tax Review gave him an assessment blank and Hossock listed $60 worth of personal effects. The board figured he owned about $3.40.

BROWDER CONVICTION UPHELD ON APPEAL

U. S. Court Affirms 4-Year Sentence of Red Leader on Passport Charge.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed today the conviction of Earl Russel Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States, of wilfully using a passport obtained by false statements.

Browder was sentenced to four years' imprisonment and fined $2500 upon conviction by a Federal jury last Jan. 22.

DEALINGS IN FRENCH FRANCS ARE SUSPENDED IN LONDON

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—Dealings in French francs were suspended here today.

The franc was quoted on the official list at 176⅝ to the pound.

French bank notes were still being changed for refugees, but there were no other dealings.

CANADA EXPECTS WAR TO PROVIDE WORK FOR ALL

Increase of of $700,000,000 in National Income Forecast—New Taxes Scheduled in Budget.

OTTAWA, June 24 (AP).—Canada's Finance Minister forecast today a probable increase of $700,000,000 in national income during the current fiscal year, "a very large proportion" to go for military purposes.

The Minister, Lieutenant-Colonel J. L. Ralston, told the House of Commons that the over-all deficit for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1940, was $118,000,000, the exact amount of war expenditures for the period. Total revenues were $562,000,000, a Canadian record.

Was industrial effort, he said, presently will make it possible for everyone to find employment.

The Canadian contribution to the war, he declared, will "not be limited by what we can comfortably accomplish," but will be "the maximum effort possible."

Following are high lights of the budget:

All automobile sale staxed 10 per cent of $700 value, up to 80 per cent on $1200 values.

New national defense tax starting at 2 per cent on salary of $600.

Excess profits tax raised to 75 per cent.

Heavy increases in personal income tax in all brackets.

Tax of 10 per cent on value for duty on all imports except under British preferential tariff.

Tariff changes almost exclusively technical.

Tax on tires an dtubes increased to 5 cents pound.

New 10 per cent tax on phonographs, cameras, radios and radio tubes.

New 10 cents a pound tax on raw leaf tobacco.

Tax on cigarette papers and tubes increased from 2 cents to 5 cents per 100.

Manufactured tobacco tax increased from 25 to 35 cents a pound.

NEW STREET CARS FILLED FIRST DAY OF OPERATION

P. S. C. President Estimates Passengers on Broadway Line Increased 50 Per Cent.

The 35 new streamlined street cars which ran on the Broadway line for the first time yesterday were filled to capacity most of the day, William T. Rossell, president of the Public Service Co., said today.

Figures on the total number of passengers were not available, Rossell said, because of the large number of Sunday 25-cent passes used. But he estimated there was an increase of 50 per cent compared with an average summer Sunday.

One boy, Rossell said, made four complete round trips on a new car.

WAY CLEARED FOR MERGER OF ALL JAPANESE PARTIES

Prince Konoye Quits as Head of Privy Council to Lead New Nationalistic Faction.

TOKYO, June 24 (AP).—The way for immediate organization of a national party, a new political organization which may embrace all existing parties, was thought to have been cleared today by the resignation of Prince Fumimaro Konoye, former Premier, as president of the Privy Council.

Prince Konoye is expected to head the new party.

Dr. Yoshimichi Hara, formerly vice-president, succeeded Prince Konoye as president of the Privy Council.

W P A WORKERS TAKING ANTI-RED LAW OATHS

21,000 Here to Be Required to Swear Allegiance — Those Refusing Will Be Dropped.

Administration of oaths of allegiance to the 21,050 WPA employes in the city and county began today under the new relief bill, passed by Congress Saturday, barring employment of aliens not affirming allegiance, Communists and Nazi bund members.

District Director William Judson Gray said that those who did not sign the affidavit would be dropped from the WPA rolls. Work of administering the oaths by designated administration employes probably will be completed this week.

The affidavits are in three parts, the first, in the alternative, stating that the employe is a citizen of the United States or is not a citizen but owes allegiance to the United States.

The second states: "I do not and will not advocate or hold membership in any organization that advocates overthrow of the Government." In the third part it is stated: "I am not an alien, nor a Communist, nor a member of any Nazi Bund organization, and I will not become a Communist or member during any time I may be paid from funds appropriated to the WPA."

Gray said the affidavits would be presented to the 6917 awaiting WPA assigments as well as to the 13,885 workers presently assigned, and also to all other WPA employes, including administrative employes, propject supervisors and warehouse employes.

NAZI NAVY CHIEF INSPECTS UNITS PREPARING FOR ENGLAND

Goes Along Dutch, Belgian and French Coasts to Convince Himself of Their Readiness.

BERLIN, June 24 (AP).—Admiral Erich Raeder, commander of the German navy, has completed an inspection of naval units and facilities along the Dutch, Belgian and Northern French coasts "to convince himself of their readiness for action against England," the Nazi news agency reported today.

The agency said the inspection tour lasted from June 17 to 21.

CHICAGO LABOR LEADER, TWO UNIONS INDICTED

Nine Other Persons Named With Michael Carrozzo on Trust Charges.

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP).—Michael Carrozzo, Chicago labor leader, and 11 others were indicted by a Federal grand jury today on charges of conspiring by strikes and threats of strikes to restrain the use of ready mixed concrete in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Two unions and nine other individuals were named in the indictment returned before Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Carrozzo has long been a power in the Street Workers' Union. He maintains a home in Long Beach, Ind.

The International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' district council of Chicago and vicinity, of which Carrozzo is president, was named a defendant together with Local 150 of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

Individual defendants included officers of the unions.

The Government charged the conspiracy began in 1935 and cited several strikes in the Chicago area in 1938 and 1939 as overt acts.

KNUDSEN TALKS WITH FORDS

Conference Lasts Several Hours; No Statement.

DETROIT, June 24 (AP).—William S. Knudsen, member of President Roosevelt's special defense commission, conferred for several hours today with Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, at the Ford Motor Co. No statement was made as to the subjects discussed. Presumably they talked over Ford's plan to produce aviation engines or finished airplanes.

Knudsen is in charge of industrial production for the defense commission.

PLANES TO LINK U. S., NEW ZEALAND IN JULY

Pan-American Airways Also to Institute Daily Schedule to Argentina.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—Pan-American Airways will start transoceanic service over 8000 miles of the South Pacific to Australasia next month, at tre same time inaugurating a daily plane schedule to Argentina.

New schedules will provide a four and half day service between San Francisco and Los Angeles and Auckland, New Zealand, with stops at Honolulu, Canton Island and Noumea.

The Argentine service will start July 1; that to New Zealand, carrying only mail at first, will begin July 12.

As a part of improved South American service, the company plans to begin the first "stratosphere schedules" to operate nonstop at extremely high altitudes between Miami and Barranquilla, Colombia.

The expansion program also calls for operation of four schedules around the Carribbean area, with a fifth schedule through Central America and across the north coast of South America.

The company said that by Sept. 1 the United States would have more route mileage in South America than all of Europe's subsidized airlines combined.

Alaska Plane Service Cuts Time to Seven Hours.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 24 (AP).—Passenger travel between the United States and Alaska becomes a matter of hours instead of days today with the opening of the first regularly scheduled airline to America's northernmost territory, once served only by dog teams and slow ships.

Pan America Airways' Alaska Clipper, a 34-passenger four-engined flying boat, took off for Juneau at 10 a. m.

The fastest ships today require four days for the voyage. In gold rush days it took weeks. The clipper's schedule calls for seven hours and 10 minutes' flying time, including a stopover at Ketchikan, Alaska.

The Alaska link completes a continuous all-American air service the entire length of the Western Hemisphere. The trip of 11,000 miles can be made on scheduled planes in nine days.

The clipper will connect at Juneau with existing airlines linking the capital to other Alaskan cities.

Pilot and Two of His Three Passengers lose Lives at Elk City, Idaho.

ELK CITY, Idaho, June 24 (AP).—A barnstorming pilot and two of his three passengers were killed yesterday in a plane crash at the edge of this North Central Idaho town.

The dead: Pilot Defaye Chenoweth of Orofino, Idaho; James L. Turkington of Orangeville, and Rodney Tanner of Golden.

Physicians said there was little chance for the recovery of Leslie W. Last of Kamiah, the third passenger in the cabin plane in which Chenoweth was making flights during the Elk City rodeo.

LECHE FACES SECOND FRAUD TRIAL IN MONTH

Ex-Governor of Louisiana Accused in Connection With Alleged Raised Bid.

RUSTON, La., June 24 (AP).—Former Gov. Richard W. Leche of Louisiana, who resigned a year ago this week, was summoned for trial today for the second time this month.

Leche, who headed the now defunct political machine founded by the late Huey P. Long, faced a State charge of complicity in an alleged confidence game involving $27,000. The charge is based on reported irregularities in construction of Leche Hall, administration building of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute here. The building was completed in 1937.

A Lincoln Parish grand jury indictment alleged that the original "valid contract bid" for the erection of the building had been raised from $264,482 to $291,482, an amount $27,000 greater.

A Federal jury in Alexandria convicted Leche June 1 of mail fraud involving $31,000 in the purchase of State highway trucks. He was sentenced to serve 10 years.

CLOTHING AFIRE, MAN FALLS TO DEATH FROM 11TH FLOOR

Kansas City Resident's Garments Apparently Ignited While Smoking in Dallas Hotel.

DALLAS, June 24 (AP).—Virgil E. Harris, Kansas City (Mo.) business man, his clothing afire, fell to his death from an eleventh story hotel room yesterday.

Bystanders said Harris leaned from his window and shouted for help, then suddenly fell to a marquee.

Harris, about 50 years old, apparently dozed while smoking and set his mattress afire. He was Southwest district manager for Devoe and Raynolds Paint Co.

French Signed Truce Only 40 Minutes Before Deadline, Nazi Press Reports

BERLIN, June 24 (AP).—France had only 40 minutes left to consider an armistice when she signed her truce with Germany, DNB, official German news agency, reported last night. In an account of the historic negotiations in Compiegne Forest, France, the agency said Colonel-General Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German plenipotentiaries, fixed 7:30 p. m. (11:30 a. m. St. Louis time) as the latest hour to complete negotiations.

Keitel's written communication fixing the deadline in answer to an earlier French request for more time to consider the terms was delivered to Gen. Charles Huntziger, head of the French delegation, at 6:30 p. m. Saturday. Almost immediately, DNB said, the French announced they had reached a decision, and the signing took place at 6:50 p. m.

The French requested more time five hours after the first talk between the French and German representatives, which began immediately after Hitler's brief proclamation was read at the start of the negotiations at 3:30 p. m. Friday.

Scene at Signing.

German witnesses of the solemn act of signing told how the delegates wrote their names while standing, the French affixing their signatures first.

As the French left the railroad car to start on their aerial journey to Italy, Vice-Admiral Maurice le Luc brushed nervously at tear-stained eyes.

There was some difficulty with the telephone connection to Bordeaux, temporary French capital, as the French sought to clarify the situation by a long-distance discussion with the Government, DNB said. When the connection seemingly was established, the French nervously crowded around the instrument.

Gen. Huntziger took the receiver and spoke earnestly. DNB said the General suddenly appeared "to require support" and Leon Noel, former Ambassador to Poland, and another of the four plenipotentiaries, took the receiver. Then the connection was lost again.

It was not until Gen. Huntziger called Friday evening after the first session that the French Government knew where the conversations were being held, DNB said. The French delegates, without knowing their destination, had crossed the German operations border at Tours Friday morning and turned themselves over to German officers.

TEA DRINKING IN BRITAIN INCREASING WITH AIR RAIDS

Food Minister Asks Public to "Go a Little Slow" on Beverage Except During Bombings.

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—The British Food Minister, Lord Frederick James Woolton, assured the kingdom today that, "until I impose fresh restrictions, the public need not fear about supplies.

"Some of our stocks," he added, "and those most vital, are greater than they have been at any time in the history of our country."

Tea consumption has increased because of air raids, he noted. "I can understand the need for a cup of tea after an air raid," he said, "but I should be glad if the public would at other times go a little slow with tea."

BRITAIN TO START SENDING CHILDREN OVERSEAS SOON

First Contingents of Young Refugees to Be Removed Within Three Weeks.

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—Geoffrey H. Shakespeare, Secretary for Overseas Trade, expressed the hope yesterday that the first groups of British children sent out of the country "will be proceeding overseas within about three weeks," and said they will be leaving even sooner if possible.

In a broadcast to parents explaining the machinery set up for the removal of their children, Shakespeare added that "thereafter there will be a regular flow of departures."

Shakespeare would not say how many children would be in the first group, but said the dominion governments were prepared to receive 20,000 immediately and that such a number "may be regarded as a beginning." He added that the program would be limited only by shipping capacity and the ability of the dominions to absorb the refugees.

NAZI MILITARY SUCCESSES VIEWED AS EASING PUBLIC MIND ABOUT PACT WITH REDS

Germans Play Up Russian Denial of 'Pressure' Moves in Baltic—People Said to Feel That Agreement, Which Didn't Prevent War, Aided Speedy Victory in West.

By WALLACE R. DEUEL

(Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1940.)

BERLIN, June 24.

THE Nazis brought out into the open today a question which has been in the back of a good many Germans' minds and which has puzzled them more than once since the war began—the question of German-Russian relations.

The press and radio here devoted considerable prominence to a denial, issued in Moscow, that the Soviets have concentrated troops on the Lithuanian-German frontier in an attempt to bring pressure to bear on the Reich. There are only 18 to 20 Russian divisions in the Baltic, the Soviet denial claimed, and these forces are not concentrated on the Lithuanian-German frontier, but are distributed among the three Baltic countries. Their function, furthermore, is not to bring pressure to bear on Germany but "to create guarantees for the execution of the pacts for mutual assistance between the Soviet Union and these countries," the Russian denial says.

The German-Soviet pact has played a variety of roles in the emotions of the German people since it was signed just before the war began last fall.

The first reaction of most Germans to the announcement that the pact had been concluded was one of overwhelming joy and relief because most people thought that, with Russia on Germany's side, the Reich would get what it wanted from Poland without having to fight France and England for it, and possibly even, without having to fight Poland, because most Germans dreaded the prospect of a major war—dreaded it because they overestimated the Allies' strength, just as most of the rest of the world did. France and England, and possibly Poland as well, would yield to the Reich's demands on the Poles when they realized that they could not count on the Soviets, the man in the street calculated.

Few Upset by Flip-Flop.

The pact with the Soviets appeared to most Germans to represent a complete flip-flop in Nazi policy, but this fact upset extraordinarily few people here. A few ardent, old party members were upset by it, but the man in the street did not seem to be. The joy and relief which the pact evoked were too great to trouble many people with thoughts of consistency; besides, there were numerous and important elements in the country which always had wanted an understanding with Russia—notably the army, which dreaded a war on two fronts; big business, banking and industry, which looked with longing on trade markets and fields for investment; and the extreme left wing in the country, which had never been converted to an anti-Soviet policy.

The circumstances of the announcement of the pact added still further to the satisfaction with which the country as a whole viewed it, for had not Hitler snatched the agreement out from under the very noses of the French and British?

This initial reaction of relief lasted for several days. It was encouraged by Nazi propaganda, which soft-pedaled the expressions of determination in London and Paris that the Allies would fight notwithstanding Germany's pact.

When the French and British did, in fact, declare war, on Sept. 3, notwithstanding the pact, popular enthusiasm about German-Soviet friendship declined sharply. The pact had not prevented the war, after all. And while it is hard to conjure up, now, the mood of the people last September, it is definitely the case that most Germans dreaded the prospect of a major war which they thought probably would take much the same form as that which the last war did and would last so long and exact such a toll in blood and treasure that nobody would win much from it.

Misgivings Grow.

The rigid rationing which went into effect here, even before the outbreak of war, lowered enthusiasm for the pact still more. For were the Soviets not supposed to make enormous deliveries in foodstuffs and other raw materials? And if the rationing system was so rigid, did that not mean to cast a certain doubt on the volume of these deliveries? The bitter winter and the coal shortage deepened these misgivings and so did the Russian moves in Eastern Europe and the Baltic.

The quid pro quo which the Reich granted in return for Soviet neutrality has never been officially made known here. The Soviets' march into Poland, therefore, and their advance into the Baltic caused certain misgivings in the mind of the man in the street.

Where would this Bolshevik advance end? Would it extend also to the Balkans? And if the war lasted long enough and weakened Germany sufficiently—as most Germans thought until a month ago it probably would—then, would the Reich be strong enough to maintain its position at the end against the Soviets?

And would the fact that Germany had to fight on only one front—after the Polish campaign—be enough to make it possible for the Reich to win the war at a cost sufficiently low in blood and treasure to make it worthwhile? The

WASHINGTON LETTER

Significance of Proposed Western Hemisphere Cartel for Economic Defense.

WASHINGTON, June 24.

THE war and Republican politics have tended to obscure a piece of news of tremendous long-range importance—the news, namely, of the administration's effort to set up a great trade cartel, embracing the 21 American republics and perhaps Canada, for the "economic defense" of the Western Hemisphere.

Congress in the near future will be asked to enact enabling legislation. In its broad outlines, the plan has already been submitted to the Latin-American countries, and a Pan-American conference for its discussion is being arranged. This will probably be at Havana.

Roughly—for the details are yet to be worked out—the plan contemplates an economic union for the handling of some two billion dollars' worth of exportable surplus products of the United States and Latin America. Germany was not mentioned by the President in his announcement of the plan at his Hyde Park press conference Friday, but the object clearly is to prevent a victorious Germany from getting an economic stranglehold on Latin America. It is only by some such project as this, the President and his advisers are convinced, that the countries to the south of us can be saved—if Germany keeps on winning the war—from having to trade with Germany on her own terms.

Economic fire would be fought with fire.

It is estimated that the operation of the cartel would cost the United States, at least at the start, some $250,000,000 a year. But this, it is contended, would be a small price to pay for the prevention of German trade domination, which inevitably would bring political domination of Latin America.

What is in mind, the President said, is the creation of "an effective system of joint marketing of the important staple products of the American republics"—in other words, a gigantic pool with sufficient resources to enable it to compete with the vast politico-economic system that is one of the aims of German conquest. Only a "crooked" mentality, Mr. Roosevelt said, would see in the scheme any proposal to bring in South American wheat and beef in competition with American farmers.

America, Incorporated, if the plan goes through, would be this country's answer to Germany, Incorporated. The prospect is an accurate measure of the shattering and far-reaching changes that are being wrought in the world's economy.

Back of the maturing plan for a North-South trade axis is the study of a group of administration advisers. If any one of them can be singled out, more than another, as the author, it is Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. The imaginative mind of Mr. Wallace has been working for a long time on ways of improving the trade and cultural relations of this country and Latin America. He told the American Political Science Association here last year that Latin America offered great possibilities of becoming the substitute for the land frontier which disappeared in the United States early in this century. How Mr. Wallace's thinking along these lines has been stimulated by the war may be seen from a speech he made the other day at Bennington, Vt., in which one can find the outlines of America, Incorporated, and the reasons behind it.

If Germany should win, he said, the world would be divided into four great spheres of influence. One would be the German-controlled area of Europe, Africa and

ELIOT SUGGESTS FIVE NAVIES IN LATIN AMERICA BE UNITED AS VALUABLE DEFENSE FORCE

Asserts U. S. Warships Should Have Joint Maneuvers with Combined Fleet of 5 Battleships, 3 Cruisers, 31 Destroyers, 20 Submarines.

By MAJOR GEORGE FIELDING ELIOT

Author of "The Ramparts We Watch" and "Bombs Bursting in Air."

(Copyright, 1940.)

IT IS growing increasingly evident that Pan-American unity for the common defense must become something more definite and clear than a mere agreement to "consult" on the appearance of danger. Danger, in these days, has a habit of translating itself from imminence to incidence so swiftly that consultation will hardly serve as a safeguard. Hence the steps now being taken toward doing the consulting first are to be welcomed.

In any Pan-American defense discussions the primary interest must be naval; and it is too little realized in this country that the navies of Latin America can make a real contribution toward the defense of this hemisphere. It might be a good idea to increase the efficiency of this contribution by joint maneuvers working together rubs out many little kinks, and a joint maneuver in the Caribbean area between our Atlantic squadron and a Latin-American fleet would have real military value, as well as dramatizing to the people of all the republics concerned the necessity for close co-operation.

To consider in some detail the contributions which the several navies of Latin-America might make to such a maneuver force we must of course begin by eliminating ships too old or unseaworthy to participate. In the matter of personnel budget considerations have prevented some of our neighbors from keeping their fleets fully manned, but most of them have some sort of naval reserve, and we might well provide the money necessary to embody sufficient reservists to bring up to full strength the complements of the ships participating in the exercises.

Latin-American Navy.

The ships available would include some or all of the following:

Argentina: Two battleships of 28,000 tons, with 12-inch guns; three modern light cruisers; 12 destroyers, three submarines.

Brazil: Two battleships of 19,000 tons, with 12-inch guns; nine destroyers (some of these may not be completed yet), four submarines. Auxiliaries: one submarine depot ship, one oiler.

Chile: One battleship of 28,000 tons, with 14-inch guns; six destroyers, nine submarines. Auxiliaries: one submarine depot ship, two oilers.

Colombia: Two destroyers.

Mexico: Four escort vessels.

Peru: Two destroyers, four submarines.

TOTAL: Five battleships, three light cruisers, 31 destroyers, 20 submarines, four escort vessels, five auxiliaries.

In addition, smaller maneuvers with special attention to anti-submarine patrol, convoy duties, and the like, might include some of the smaller and older ships of the navies mentioned, as well as ships from Cuba, Venezuela, Ecuador and Uruguay.

The maneuver force as mentioned is on the whole (save for cruisers) a well-balanced group which could be usefully worked as a unit. There are some older cruisers available (three in Chili, two in Brazil, two in Peru) which might be used to make up the deficiency in this class if thought advisable.

Anti-Aircraft Ships.

But it is suggested that the two Brazilian cruisers might well be be purchased by the United States and converted into anti-aircraft ships as a beginning of experiments with this type, of which our navy now has none. They are not dissimilar in characteristics to the British C-Class cruisers, recently converted for this purpose.

The command of the force might, by mutual agreement, be rotated amongst the three principal navies concerned, while the subordinate type commands (battleships, cruisers, destroyers, submarines, train) could be apportioned amongst the participating navies and also rotated. Rotation would be so arranged as to permit a complete phase of the maneuver without change in commands. Co-operation of naval aircraft from shore bases should also be sought; several of the navies mentioned possess such aircraft, though none has a carrier. Such problems as communications should receive preliminary study. If an advanced base problem were to be included, co-operation of military forces might be obtained. Brazil is the only Latin-American country which has a Marine Corps.

It may be pointed out that this sort of training with units of the United States fleet will make naval aid from Latin-America much more immediately available, and that the forces enumerated will be a substantial addition to the defense of the Atlantic.

Military Missions.

Such maneuvers are only one phase of the measures which should be undertaken. Arrangements should be made at once for the accrediting to every Latin-American capital of a United States military mission, including an air section; and of naval missions to every Latin-American country possessing a navy.

Per contra, every non-American military, air and naval mission in Latin-America should go home at once. Indeed, one subject for discussion at the forthcoming Pan-American conference might well be the whole subject of German-Italian and perhaps Japanese diplomatic missions of various sorts, with their overgrown staffs; and the prompt undertaking of measures designed to reduce such staffs to normal size.

As to the United States military and naval missions proposed, it may be pointed out that in all Latin-American countries the army is a greater proportionate political force than with us, and such missions, if composed of carefully-chosen officers, can do a great deal to promote good will and mutual understanding. It goes without saying that in addition to these missions, military and naval attaches should be accredited to every United States embassy and legation in Latin-America.

Army School Exchanges.

The number of Latin-American officers attending our service schools should be increased as rapidly as possible; and arrangements should be made for selected American officers to attend the various excellent service schools of Latin-American armed forces. The attachment of Latin-American officers to units of our army and navy for instruction might also prove a useful expedient.

Finally, when the forthcoming conference has threshed out the political questions having to do with co-operation for mutual defense, these should be supplemented by general staff consultations, both military and naval, with a view to evolving a joint defense policy supplemented by suitable plans; and a joint consulting staff might well be set up for the purpose of keeping those plans revised and up-to-date.

The time factor in modern war is such that only the most careful forethought can give any safety against attack. It is too late to make plans and implement them when the enemy has already appeared.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

Knox, Stimson Serving Country, Party; G. O. P. Chiefs Sleep Walking.

OBVIOUSLY, it would have been better if the Cabinet had been reorganized six weeks ago, better still if it had been reorganized at the outbreak of the war, and the historians will long be busy explaining why such an obvious and necessary measure was so long delayed. Obviously also, this is only a partial reorganization: it will have to be followed by several other changes, notably in the establishment of a true administrative agency through which Messrs. Knudsen, Stettinius, and Budd can operate, and in the appointment of a new Secretary of Labor.

But sober reflection, and above all the experience which impending events are going to provide, will demonstrate, I think, that Col. Stimson and Col. Knox have done a great service to their country, and, however disconcerting it may seem now to some of the political managers at Philadelphia, a great service to the Republican party.

For 18 months the Republican party has been walking in its sleep. At no one of the critical junctures of this period has the party understood the situation or proposed measures to deal with it or offered the country positive leadership. There have been many individual Republicans, of course, who were aware of what was going on. But they have been in a helpless minority and, as an organized party, the Republicans have had no policy at all. A year and a half ago when they were told that war was coming, the politicians said that this warning was "ballyhoo" and "warmongering." Last winter they voted to support the administration's wholly inadequate program of national defense but they are not on record, I think, as having made any kind of effort to make the program more adequate. They refused to support measures to avert the European war, saying as late as last July that they knew there was not going to be a war. One can, I think, search the speeches of Mr. Taft and Mr. Dewey, and search them in

FRANCE'S WILL TO FIGHT REPORTED WEAKENED BY TREACHERY IN HIGH PLACES

Feeling Said to Have Spread in Army That Politicians Were Concerned First With Safeguarding Own Interests—Refugees Tell of Fifth Column Activity.

By HELEN KIRKPATRICK

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1940.

LONDON, June 24.

HOW Hitler's secret weapon—the fifth column—brought the downfall of France is graphically described by the British and French arriving daily from France. Treachery in high places, employment of supposedly bona fide refugees by Government ministries and moral decadence which made many important Frenchmen place personal interests above national, were among the factors which so weakened the French armed forces that they were not able to withstand German attacks.

The majority of the French people were stunned by the extent of which those in their midst betrayed France and the feeling seemed to have spread in the army that politicians were concerned more with safeguarding their own interests than combatting the enemy.

Following evidences of treachery beyond anything possible for the outside world to realize, the French companies guarding two Somme bridgeheads handed them over to the German troops, convinced that the French Government did not intend really to fight.

French Disintegration.

The forces of disintegration in France are now said to be beyond description, making it questionable whether the truncated France—deprived of vital areas, even as Czecho-Slovakia was—will not dissolve into chaos and revolution. The uprising of "Garibaldi groups" in various areas of France is regarded as likely unless Pierre Laval, Georges Bonnet and others who are viewed as leading Quislings, establish a strong Fascist Government relying on German assistance to keep down people who had not, a few days ago, grasped exactly what has happened, or its consequences.

While extension of German territory down the entire Western coast of France is logical, in view of Germany's intention to launch an unprecedently enormous attack on Britain, it is also believed to be a prelude to the extension of German possessions down the Western coast of Spain and Portugal. Maps printed in Germany as long as two years ago show boundaries in France just as they have been marked by the armistice and further extending down the Iberian peninsula. Germans in Spain are believed to be urging upon Generalissimo Francisco Franco the necessity for his taking over Portugal with German assistance and in exchange for the Portuguese coast, Spain would be given the French Basque country which Spain has long coveted.

Situation in England.

The first question the French and the repatriated British ask on arrival here is, "Has Britain cleaned up and shot its fifth columnists?" "Does treachery exist in high places here, too?" The answers to the first must be a qualified one. Neutral observers believe that satisfactory answers cannot be given to either until the military here are placed in full control.

The confidence of the British that they can withstand Germany's fiercest onslaught in whatever form it comes and can hold out long enough to allow the forces of disintegration in Europe and the desperate food situation to do its full work, is based mainly on the tremendously improving defense measures being taken. Driving through the country yesterday, we were impressed by the new measures taken to prevent German planes using roads and fields as landing grounds. Local defense units are being drilled and taught all forms of fighting even when equipment has not been available. For example, some London defense units are being taught the principles of street

Largest 6 Months... in Savings Increase

IN THE SIX MONTHS ending July 1 more people will have saved more money with Industrial than in any 6 months in the 27-year history of the institution.

The reason—the 6-Advantage Savings Account.

Local, national and world conditions have combined in a peculiar sequence of events to make this an attractive place for money.

In a day of low interest rates, 2% return with savings account liquidity puts it in the attractive investment class.

The strength of the bank, its method of operation, and Federal Deposit Insurance take care of the safety feature—which seems absolute.

Non-fluctuating principal makes it impervious to war news.

So the logical thing has happened. More people deposit more money with Industrial than ever before.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

No Time to Attack Civil Liberties.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE thinking people with whom I have recently spoken are 100 per cent in approval of the Post-Dispatch policy of publishing honest public opinion.

In these days of violent hysteria and growing intolerance, it is a grand thing to find an organization which is standing up to a traditional policy of printing the truth as it sees it.

The majority of the people of the United States are today connecting Fascism with a personality or a country and fail to realize that Fascism is nothing more than national intolerance.

Today, when our nation is facing a national emergency, we need to keep all of our wits about us that we may not lose our civil liberties—the thing we seek to protect.

Without doubt, the thing we need most to guard against is not invasion from without, nor fifth columnists from within, but rather we must prepare to defend ourselves tooth and nail against a dissipation of our civil rights by so-called patriots who are protecting the "American way of life."

Using the "American way of life" as an excuse to be intolerant of others will end all our civil liberties.

On Proposed Military Service.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

PERHAPS this is no time to squabble over where the minor chips are going to fall, but before the war lords take over and free speech is no more, I'd like to ask what is going to happen to the jobs held by those called up for military service.

I can't deny that I have a personal interest in this point. I am 28—the ripe age—and have a job.

Now do I, like thousands of others, get sent to training camp for eight months, only to return and find that another person has taken my place in business? Why is it that legislators can't seem to remember that if we have a war in the New World, life will eventually go on anyway?

I am single, which probably will add to the disregard the Government is going to have for me. I might add, however, that I am single only because my fiancee and I are unwilling to undertake marriage on a time-payment basis.

In less than a year, a home I am buying will be paid for. However, it will never be paid for if I have to get along on $5 a month for eight months, then return to find someone else in my job.

If circumstances are such that people must be ground indiscriminately into the wheels of a military machine, let me do my part. But I don't want to lose any more than is necessary.

My own employer is a reasonable, generous man and probably would place me right back where I am. Hundreds of other employers, however, will feel no moral obligation.

Why is so vital a thing left to chance?

G. L.

Criticises Lindbergh.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial, "Closer to War," has merit except for the mention of Lindbergh. His qualifications as one who would have sense enough to know how properly to spend the billions voted by Congress for defense are no better than those of Wrong-Way Corrigan.

Rickenbacker at least is familiar with war-plane fighting, which requires much more brains and thought than taking an airplane on a straight line for a given point, with no enemy in sight.

R. E. WILLIAMS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SINCE a great number of people never read the editorial page, front-page editorials should be used in this crisis. People must get this important information that we have everything to lose and nothing to gain by entering the war. In that event, our President would be our dictator and how he would dramatize his importance—nothing to check him.

Keep up the wonderful work to keep us out of war! Straight-thinking people know that to get into it would be folly. Helping the Allies all we can, short of war, is as far as we dare go.

It may also not be amiss to give some publicity to the "M-day" legislation. So many people are ignorant of all that it means and think it applies to mobilization of troops only.

It may have a chastening effect on the "reckless Roosevelt" followers.

SAFETY FIRST.

Protests Against Closing Taussig School.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT is quite a puzzle to me to figure out just what the "Brain Trust" of the Board of Education of St. Louis is holding high office for.

Isn't the School Board satisfied by now in having caused enough disturbance over the recent "shakeup" without including the Taussig Open-Air School in its drive for a reduction in the expenditure of school funds?

Why do helpless children, most of them without the vital necessities of life, have to suffer just to cut the expenditure of the public school allowance?

I am a graduate of the 1931 class of the Taussig Open-Air School and I'm very thankful that there was an open-air school at that time to help me overcome the difficulty that is still affecting so many boys and girls today.

BERNICE HEIDSIECK.

TO REDEEM ST. LOUIS.

The opportunity to turn the tide of decay and rejuvenate the City of St. Louis is at hand. The militant civic spirit aroused in the drive against the smoke evil is overflowing and is already moving on to attack other problems that afflict the city.

This fact is strikingly proved by the formation of an unofficial committee of the city's business leaders to take steps to halt the deterioration of the downtown section.

This process of downtown decay—which is not peculiar to St. Louis but is common to practically all the large cities of America—can be halted and the city can be placed solidly on the road to progress if we make use of the spirit and energy of men like Tom K. Smith, William Connett, Frank Mayfield, Fred Salomon, Arthur Baer, Albert Keller and the others who have been meeting informally to study the problem.

The picture was clearly drawn in the article on the editorial title page of the Post-Dispatch yesterday. Property values in the district bounded by Washington avenue, Third and Market streets and Twelfth boulevard have shriveled in the past 10 years to the extent that tax receipts have dropped 28 per cent. Retail sales have fallen faster than the national norm. Vacancies of store and office buildings have increased at a truly alarming rate.

The greatest single factor causing this deterioration will be removed with the conquest of smoke. But there are other steps which must be taken to restore the downtown section to something resembling its old place in the city's civic and commercial life.

First and foremost is the necessity for providing faster and less trying facilities for transportation from the outlying residential districts.

This problem contemplates, first, the speeding of traffic for those who make the trip in their own automobiles. The express highway must be extended downtown. Third street must be widened into an arterial highway, with the broadening of the streets that feed into it. And additional parking facilities must be provided.

It is a striking paradox that with one of the heaviest vacancy rates for store and office buildings in the country, the parking situation should be as congested as it is. City planners have developed a whole literature on the subject of parking facilities, and some of it is doubtless readily applicable to conditions in St. Louis.

Improvement of public transportation facilities is equally important. The reorganized Public Service Co. is showing some signs of trying to throw off the helpless inertia with which it has been afflicted for several years. The transition to busses and the installation of new streamlined street cars on a few lines are encouraging developments.

But a great deal needs to be done in the simplification of routes and the speeding up of service from the suburbs. The complications in service—the circuitous route of the busses from Richmond Heights and Clayton is an example—are enough to give an efficiency expert a stroke of apoplexy.

The suggestion that suburban trains, instead of making Union Station their terminus, should use the railroad tunnel and discharge their passengers at stations to be set up in the basement of the Arcade Building or the old Federal Building, has obvious merit. Why hasn't it been carried out already?

Mayor Dickmann is concerned about reviving the blighted residential section between the downtown area and Grand boulevard. With the alleviation of the smoke evil, this should be feasible. But if it is to be done, reliance must be placed not in Federal housing projects, which will reach insufficient numbers, but in large-scale, privately financed projects to modernize the substantial buildings already existing in this area. Thought must be given to some plan of incentive taxation and especially protective zoning—both deplorably lacking in the past.

It will take daring, imagination and initiative to put these things over. As in the case of the anti-smoke drive, a terrific amount of civic inertia must be overcome and selfish interests must be persuaded to bow to the public good.

A determined movement, planned along the lines of the anti-smoke campaign and headed perhaps by Mayor Dickmann himself, should be organized at once. The success of the move to eliminate smoke proves that St. Louis has the public spirit necessary to accomplish civic miracles, if only it is aroused.

Instead of "A City in Decay," let's make St. Louis a city redeemed!

FINE TRAINING IN CITIZENSHIP.

Political science may have seemed a "dismal science" to Carlyle, but there is nothing in the least dismal about it as the Boys' State at Fulton, Mo., is teaching it this week. This is an encampment, under the auspices of the American Legion, where 347 Missouri high school youths are busy organizing a working model of government. They live in imaginary cities and counties, they are divided into two political parties, they select ward committeemen and party chairmen and will soon hold a "convention" to draw up platforms and nominate candidates for office.

Here is a demonstration of government in action, designed to impress upon youth the duties and privileges of citizenship. The next generation of Missourians should be advanced in political maturity as a result of this training for groups of youths over the last few years.

OUR TASK IN LATIN AMERICA.

The United States Government is acting wisely in looking after the important lines of defense that run through Latin America. The co-operation thus far offered by the neighboring republics is reassuring, though the magnitude of the task must not be overlooked.

All these nations have accepted invitations to a special Pan-American conference, Secretary Hull has announced. Here will be an occasion for defining and agreeing upon the policies required for keeping the Western Hemisphere free of European interference. At the same time, the great problem of economic consolidation is being resolutely tackled.

Uruguay, the smallest South American Republic, at the moment is the most conspicuous point of threatening Nazi penetration. The forces of democracy and freedom in that country must have been greatly heartened by the speech at Montevideo yesterday by United States Minister Edwin C. Wilson. This country's full co-operation is available whenever desired, Mr. Wilson said, to help other American governments in "crushing any activities arising from non-American sources which might imperil our political and economic freedom."

If the United States is able to devise a sound economic basis for alliance, a solid front against foreign penetration can assuredly be established.

HITLER'S TERMS TO FRANCE.

Despite Hitler's show of courtesy to a beaten foe, despite the original French insistence that only honorable terms would be accepted, the actual provisions of the armistice amount to abject capitulation.

They are oppressive terms, but there should be nothing particularly startling about them. They were foreshadowed years ago in "Mein Kampf," when Hitler avowed France's destruction as a Continental Power. They are dictated not only by a spirit of hate and vengeance, but also by the Nazis' present military necessities.

The greatest undertaking of Hitler's war is about to be launched, the attempt to storm the British ramparts. It is elementary that he should seek not only to make France helpless to give an atom of aid to England, but should endeavor to convert all French resources to his own uses. To treat France leniently now would be wholly out of keeping with Hitler's malevolent character and cunning strategy.

The terms are adroitly drawn, with two purposes in mind: First, to make sure that France comes promptly to terms with Italy, so that Mussolini's forces may be speedily available for co-operation in the attack on Britain. Second, so that the slightest violation of the armistice terms will permit Germany to denounce all its provisions and despoil France even further. And the Nazis, as has often been shown, are adepts in finding excuses for the abrogation of treaties.

It is only natural, moreover, that the British should bitterly denounce the Petain Government for accepting these onerous terms. Britain is desperately in need of any help she can get. If Churchill's fiery speech of yesterday succeeds in rallying only a modicum of resistance among French units that have not yet surrendered, Britain will be that much the gainer.

The deadly onslaughts of the Nazi war machine have reduced France to a state of weariness and exhaustion. Her military leaders have been compelled by crushing defeat to accept the dictated peace terms. It is no doubt true that treachery also played its part in the capitulation, and that the ghost of appeasement has risen again to influence acceptance of the Nazi terms.

Military defeat and treason are twin aspects of the tragedy that has reduced a once great democracy to a pawn of Hitler tyranny. The humiliation of the French people by these armistice provisions calls forth from America even greater sympathy than that produced by the crushing defeats in battle.

MR. McDANIEL STAYS ON.

State Senator Allen McReynolds makes the charge that a fund of "probably not less than $50,000" is being raised for the campaign of his primary opponent, Lawrence McDaniel. He bases his estimate on a reported levy on State employes of $200 per county in addition to the "lug" in St. Louis on city and Police Department employes.

About this we do not know. But we do know that Lawrence McDaniel, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, is still Lawrence McDaniel, Excise Commissioner for the City of St. Louis. We do know that every St. Louis tavern keeper, to borrow a picture from one of Fitzpatrick's cartoons, sees two faces on the barroom floor.

This is a grossly improper situation. Mr. McDaniel's vacation and leave of absence from the office of the Excise Commissioner is an acknowledgment of what is wrong. His refusal to resign is an insistence that that wrong be retained—to his personal and political benefit.

DEFENSE FALLACIES AND FACTS.

President Roosevelt has taken a stand for "universal Government service for every boy—and perhaps every girl, too, regardless of class or station in life," as his plan has been described.

Senator Burke of Nebraska has introduced a bill for a selective draft for military training—the full text of which was printed in the Post-Dispatch last Friday. This bill is sponsored by the Military Training Camps Association and so would seem, on the surface at least, to represent informed opinion in the field of national defense.

Maj. George Fielding Eliot, who commands respect as a demonstrated defense expert, does not agree. He makes the same point against the Burke draft bill which we made against universal compulsory military training—that it would hinder rather than help development of our national defense. Describing the plan as "conceived along outworn lines," he says:

> It would cause men to be selected for the army to be trained for the wholly insufficient period of eight months, thereafter passing to the reserve without provision for further training.
> If enacted into law, it would create the illusion of military strength in the minds of the American people, without substance. It is therefore not only useless, but positively dangerous.
> Unless we are going to indulge in military adventures overseas, we do not need a great army of millions. We need, as our first commander-in-chief put it, not a large army but a good one.

Gen. Hugh Johnson is another student of defense needs who emphasizes the urgency of improving technical preparedness and opposes distracting attention from that first job by going off on confusing tangents. One of the criticisms he brings against the Knox-Stimson appointments is that these men are on the side of immediate war, at a time when we are obviously unprepared. This, in the graphic phrase of Gen. Johnson, would be "suicidal crap-shooting with the destiny of our democracy."

This country's geographical situation is such that our defense needs are measured in terms of naval equipment, a great air force and adequate bases for both vessels and airships; millions of men under arms do not fit into these requirements.

The character of war has greatly changed. This is a Machine Age, in which mechanical armaments, manned by relatively few operators, enjoy vast superiority over masses of the old-style foot soldier.

We will only ape the dictators if we impose a military system on civilian life—particularly on that of youth.

If there is any one thing the American people need to do these days, it is to keep their heads and think critically as proposals of far-reaching potentialities are brought forward for application to their lives.

"Are We In or Out?" Asks Wheeler

The Mirror of Public Opinion

"Wake up or you'll find yourself in war," says Montana Senator, warning against interventionist stampede; quotes Ambassador Kennedy as favoring hands-off policy for nation; asserts giving up peace would bring economic collapse and end of democracy.

From an Address by Senator Burton K. Wheeler in St. Paul, Last Monday.

A FEW days ago, the Philadelphia Record, recognized as one of the leading administration papers in this country, made the sensational statement that we are now in the European war.

Under the heading, "We're In," there appeared words such as these:

"Make no mistake about it: The action of President Roosevelt and the Navy Department in deciding to send bombing planes and guns to the Allies puts us into the war on the side of England and France.

"We must recognize that Hitler and the German nation already look upon our arming of the Allies as an act of war; that, in German minds, we are now a German foe as much as France or the British Empire. We're in."

If we are in this war, we are in it without the approval of the American people. At no time have the American people given a mandate to the President or to Congress to lead us into war.

We are still a democracy and we should find out by democratic processes if the American people want war.

It has been said that we will give the Allies all aid short of war. But what is "short of war"? Can we drive an automobile 80 miles an hour down a road toward a precipice, keep feeding the engine gas and suddenly stop short of the precipice?

These are large questions and they must be calmly and thoroughly debated. The right answer cannot be found by a stampede of Congress. The answer can be found only by calm and cool deliberation.

A distinguished Senator the other day made an impassioned plea—he waved the bloody shirt—and all but demanded a declaration of war now. He closed by saying: "Wake up, Americans, wake up!" I repeat what he said, but for quite a different reason.

I say to you mothers of America, to the youth of the country, to the business men and to the workers: Wake up, or you'll find yourself in war.

Your boys killed and maimed, your hospitals and insane asylums filled—the debts of the country increased beyond all comprehension and your American way of life gone forever. And for what?

Many people believe that the defeat of the Allies would mean an economic catastrophe for the United States. Undoubtedly the United States would be forced to readjust its foreign markets. But I would rather give up billions of dollars worth of trade than the lives of millions of American boys.

We are the richest nation in the world, we can tighten up our belts, we can work a little harder, some of those who want to get us into war might eat a little less and still preserve democracy—and the lives of our boys.

If we concentrate on solving our own economic problems at home and put 30 billion dollars of idle capital to work, we will more than compensate for any possible loss of foreign trade.

If we should rush headlong into the European war we would simply leave exposed our own domestic economy. Is not the sensible thing under the circumstances to build up our economy and at the same time build up our own defenses in a rational way?

If the people of this country want to go into another European war to save the world for democracy—with what will the country fight?

Our bare hands against the armored tanks and diving bombers of Mr. Hitler? Will it fight with an army of less than 300,000 men against the millions of trained mechanized forces of Germany? Will it fight with its navy and leave the Pacific bare to be attacked by Japan—an axis Power who hates us? Theodore Roosevelt said, "Speak softly and carry a big stick." What are we doing? The truth is we are not prepared to carry on a war across the sea, nor is any other country equipped to invade the United States.

Gen. George C. Marshall recently testified before a congressional committee that "we do not visualize any invasion of this country. An air raid or something of that sort is possible, but frankly, at the present time we do not find it in the offing."

Let us first determine whether this is the same old ghastly European struggle over the balance of power—of age-old hatreds and age-old quarrels, or whether it truly is a war for civilization. Let us determine whether it is a fight for world markets—for oil wells and gold mines or for democracy and Christianity. These are the real questions. They are being obscured by the bombardment of propaganda.

Who is better qualified to tell us whether we have a place in this war than our Ambassador to Great Britain, Joseph P. Kennedy? I will read to you what he frankly said only a few months ago:

"There is no place in this fight for us. It's going to be bad enough as it is. As you love America, don't let anything that comes out of any country in the world make you believe you can make a situation one whit better by getting into the war. . . . There is no reason—economic, financial or social—to justify the United States entering the war."

Let us find out what Ambassador Kennedy meant when he said this was not our war. Let us get at the private papers, the secret correspondence that will answer these questions. But don't let us take as answers the nervous reactions and emotions of amateur strategists or frightened bankers.

We in America today face an enemy. That enemy is the force that is slowly sapping the strength of our economic and financial system. Let it collapse—as it surely will if we are engulfed in another war—and democracy and liberty are gone. Wild-eyed leaders will arise—promising Utopia and bread. Reactionary leaders will also arise and promise more. Between them our people will be bedeviled. In the end some sort of disguised Fascism will crack all of our democratic safeguards.

There is one sure way to produce that collapse—go into war. There is only one way to avoid it—stay out of war and correct the conditions that make 10,000,000 men idle and jobless. We ought to be thinking today of making democracy work in America. That is the best way to preserve democracy at home and to help democracies abroad. There are no victors in warfare—only famine and death.

A PARTIAL EXPLANATION.

H. V. Wade in the Detroit News.

Census figures show a drop in the St. Louis population between 1930 and 1940 which is only partly explained by Cardinal managers leaving town.

McDaniel—Machine Candidate

From the Kansas City Star.

IT now seems that all the remnants of the old Kansas City machine are likely to go down the line for Lawrence McDaniel of St. Louis for Governor.

And why not? McDaniel is the machine type of candidate. He is running for Governor as the representative of the St. Louis machine. He is a close associate of Senator Joseph H. Brogan, who has always worked closely with Senator Michael Kinney and Senator M. E. Casey of the Kansas City machine.

McDaniel is the kind of candidate dear to the hearts of machine politicians everywhere. A fellow could expect him to play ball. He is a 100 per cent politician who ought to know how the boys love favors and privileges.

And such things are important in a Governor who will be entrusted with the authority for appointing the local Election Board and Police Board, to say nothing of State jobs.

Of course, a McDaniel victory wouldn't return the local boys to their old prestige. It would mean the ruling power in the hands of the St. Louis instead of the Kansas City machine. But the Kansas City crowd can't hope for anything more. Better tie up with the going St. Louis machine than pass entirely out of the patronage and favors picture.

Running against McDaniel is Senator Allen McReynolds of Carthage. McReynolds is an independent leader who would most certainly put the interests of the State ahead of the politicians. He would stand for no fooling with honest elections in Kansas City and he would protect the merit system in the Kansas City Police Department. You just can't mix machine politics with a man like that.

So the boys have little choice but to throw everything they have back of McDaniel—the machine candidate for Governor.

DEFENSE AND REFORM.

From the St. Louis Catholic.

WHAT are the issues that face America in this world crisis?

Briefly, they are defense and reform. America must defend her shores. This does not mean sending war supplies and machines 3000 miles away to defend the European democracies.

In this we declare ourselves to be at one with the view of the Post-Dispatch. Those countries are beyond salvaging. The forces that brought them to the brink of destruction have done their work and cannot be overcome by arms.

There is still time for us, however, to defend ourselves from the ravages of diabolical and total assault. We must prepare, and we must prepare quickly. The common good must be sought instead of profit.

Yet defense is not enough. We must build machines, but we must also build men. That means men in the complete sense of the term, soul as well as body.

A HARSH ORDER IS WITHDRAWN.

From the Philadelphia Record.

STATE RELIEF DIRECTOR ARTHUR MUDD of New Jersey can be congratulated for seeing the daylight.

A week ago, Mudd issued his famous "enlist or starve" order to able, eligible men on the relief roll. Came public protest up and down the State, followed by criticism nationally.

Now Director Mudd sees the wisdom of rescinding the order.

He is entitled to credit for correcting a mistake. It might not be a bad idea for more public men to learn how to do that. We have some who are "too big" ever to admit they're wrong or to accede to public opinion.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

MISS BETTY DEACON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Francis Deacon of Dallas, formerly of St. Louis, will become the bride of Lieut. Donald Vivian Bennett at 8:30 o'clock this evening. The ceremony will take place at the Church of the Incarnation in Dallas with the Rev. Valentine Lee, rector, officiating. The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Mary E. Bennett of Port Clinton, O., and his best man, Lieut. Henry Cunningham of Bonham Tex., will wear full dress army uniforms.

Mr. Deacon will give his daughter in marriage. She will wear a white lace gown, fashioned on princesse lines, with a heart-shaped neckline and long fitted sleeves. A pearl tiara will secure her fingertip length tulle veil. She will carry a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Martha Eubank of Sherman, Tex., the maid of honor, will carry flame-colored gladiolas with her white marquisette gown which is banded with lace at the waist and through the skirt. Miss Rosemary Bennett, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Jean Saitta of Westfield, N. J., junior bridesmaids, will be similarly gowned and carry white roses and feverfew. Barbara Gibbins, cousin of the bride, who went for the wedding with her mother, Mrs. G. Donald Gibbins, and her brother, Jerry, from Webster Groves, will be flower girl.

Lieut. Bennett's ushers will be Edward F. Deacon Jr., Jack Plunkett and Lewis Williams, formerly of Winnetka, Ill., all of Dallas.

After the ceremony there will be a reception at the Deacon home, 3408 South Western boulevard. Lieut. Bennett and his bride will leave for Mexico to spend their honeymoon, returning to Dallas to live.

Out-of-town guests in Dallas for the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. Waldo A. Layman of Evanston, Ill., grandparents of the bride, who formerly lived at 22 Kingsbury place in St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Keene N. Brundage of Elmwood, Conn., uncle and aunt of the bride; Mrs. Bennett, the bridegroom's mother, and her daughter, Miss Margaret.

The bride is a graduate of Briarcliff Junior College. Before moving to Dallas last September she and her family lived in Evanston, Ill. The bridegroom spent two years at Michigan State College, where he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, before entering the Military Academy. He was graduated this month.

DR. WILBUR SAYS PEOPLE REFUSE TO FACE REALITY

Cites Criticism of Lindbergh When He Said Germans Were Making Better Planes.

PALO ALTO, Cal., June 24 (AP).—Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University, speaking at a dinner of the California Publishers' Association last night, said:

"In their individual lives, people are soft. They are full of blind spots, dishwater, rubbish. They can't think beyond slogans."

He said one of the tasks confronting doctors is "to untangle these reactions and see if we can make democracy work or if the world is going to be run by experts who pick themselves out."

The average man will not face reality, he said, explaining: "When Lindbergh told us Germany was making better airplanes we knicked high and called him pro-German. We think things will happen to the other fellow but not to us."

RED CROSS WAR RELIEF FUND NOW $14,843,967

Late Contributions Include $25,000 by Bethlehem Steel, $1125 From Prison Inmates and Employes.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—The Red Cross war relief fund totaled $14,843,967 today. Late contributions included $25,000 from the Bethlehem Steel Corporation and $1125 from inmates and employes of the Jackson (Mich.) State prison.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 24 (AP).—Red Cross executives said yesterday they had received $70,000 from the movie and radio star benefit broadcast Saturday night.

This was exclusive of $5000 pledged in what proved to be a hoax telegram which Charles Ryder, Columbia Broadcasting System auditor, said was received from Miami, Fla., and signed "Alexander Orr Jr., Mayor of Miami." Telegraph company executives were attempting to find the sender and said this was a Federal offense.

Howard Hughes, noted flyer, was one of the largest contributors, giving $25,000.

Seven thousand persons were crowded on two film studio sound stages where the show was held.

THE REV. DR. JAMES DE WOLFE INSTALLED AS DEAN OF CHURCH

Successor at Cathedral of St. John the Divine to the Very Rev. Milo H. Gates.

NEW YORK June 24 (AP).—with a plea to Americans to avoid "sentimentalities or blind optimism" and face the fact of the world's tragedy, the Rev. Dr. James Pernette de Wolfe was installed yesterday as dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

The new dean succeeds the Very Rev. Milo H. Gates, who died last fall. A native of Kansas City, he was formerly rector of Christ Church, Houston, Tex.

Bishop William T. Manning, titular head of the Protestant Episcopal Church in New York, made the installation at a communion service attended by 3000.

The body will be at the Arthur J. Donnelly Chapel, 3840 Lindell boulevard, pending funeral arrangements. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Clare Kennedy Young; two sons, George J. Young of the Cabanne avenue address and Donald Young of Cleveland, and a daughter, Mrs. Frank Cantrell of the Branscome Hotel.

OSTEOPATHS DISCUSS POST WAR EPIDEMICS

Convention Told That Disease Always Sweeps World After Conflict.

Possible effects of the European war on the osteopathic profession were discussed today at the opening session of the forty-fourth annual convention of the American Osteopathic Association at the Municipal Auditorium. About 2500 osteopathic physicians, surgeons and specialists were in attendance.

Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, in his address of welcome, urged support of the national defense program and preservation of democratic liberties and traditions. It was his observation, he said that, the people of Missouri opposed sending another army to fight on European soil for any European country but were willing to make great sacrifice to preserve the American way of life.

In welcoming the delegates on behalf of St. Louis, Mayor Dickmann told of efforts to foster better health through the city's system of parks and playgrounds and other facilities.

Dr. R. McFarlane Tilley of New York, chairman of the Department of Professional Affairs, urged the profession not to be swayed by hysteria but to face practical issues and plan for the future.

"Suddenly face to face with a great national emergency of defense and preparedness," he said, "we cannot think of modern civil practice today without realizing that tomorrow may bring a military necessity. Even if this should be avoided we must expect with a relentless certainty the pestilence of devastating disease epidemics that sweep the world in the wake of great wars."

Dr. Frank F. Jones of Macon, Ga., president of the association, warned against any "blitzkrieg" to undermine American conceptions of liberty. But benefits of American citizenship carry responsibilities of working for the general welfare, he added, stating such duties apply to no group more than to doctors.

"Our American heritage of freedom of thought, speech and worship," he continued, "includes freedom of therapy. This means our people have the right to select doctors of their own choice and that properly educated and trained doctors have the right to use whatever methods they think best for the patient. This freedom must not be superseded by any philosophy or system based upon greed, power and regimentation."

The war is increasing the cost of surgical operations, Dr. H. J. McAnally of Kansas City, president of the American Osteopathic Hospital Association, said yesterday at the annual convention of the association, one of a number of osteopathic groups which met in advance of the general assembly.

Supplies of instruments made in Germany were cut off by the war, he explained, with the result that there was a shortage and consequent sharp price increases. However, he asserted, the increases are being absorbed by hospitals and surgeons without being passed on to the patient. Moreover, he added, elimintion of German competition would enable development of the American industry.

Among the delegates was Dr. Charles E. Still of Kirksville, Mo., son of the founder of osteopathy, the late Dr. Andrew T. Still, who formulated the principles in 1874 and established the first college of osteopathy at Kirksville in 1892.

FUNERAL OF ERNEST EKSTEDT

Service for East St. Louis Inventor to Be Tomorrow at 1:30 P. M.

The funeral of Ernest Ekstedt, East St. Louis inventor and former pattern shop foreman who died Saturday night of complications from chronic neuritis at Christian Welfare Hospital, will be tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. at Kurrus Mortuary, 2500 State street. Burial will be in Mount Hope Cemetery.

Mr. Ekstedt, 75 years old, invented an oil burner, a truck for freight cars and other devices involving steel casting. Surviving are five daughters and four sons. He lived at 536 North Fourteenth street.

'APPLE BLOSSOMS' AT PARK OPERA

Fritz Kreisler Musical Play to Be Produced Here First Time Tonight.

"Apple Blossoms," a musical play by Fritz Kreisler, the violinist, and Victor Jacobi, operetta composer, will open a week's run at the Municipal Theater at 8:15 o'clock tonight. It is the first time the show has been produced there.

A cast of Municipal Opera favorites, headed by Nancy McCord, Lansing Hatfield, Audrey Christie and Jack Good, has been assembled for the show. Miss McCord and Hatfield were in two productions together last year, while Miss Christie will be making her first appearance here since 1936.

Two new dancing teams, the Debonairs and Lynn, Royce, and Vanya, will be seen here for the first time. Lew Christensen and Gisella Caccialanza, will be making their second appearance of the season. Others in the cast include Ruth Clayton, and Joseph Macaulay.

Ray Sinatra, co-conductor of the orchestra, will take over the baton for the first time this season. Some of the principal songs are "Second Violin," "Star of Love" and "Who Can Tell?" The story centers about the activities at an Eastern girls' finishing school.

The final performance of "Naughty Marietta" was delayed 45 minutes by rain last night, but there were 7800 persons in the seats when the show began. Total attendance for the week was 65,800.

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW FOR MRS. LUCY H. KING SMITH

Wife of Methodist Publishing Agent and Former St. Louis Minister Dies at Nashville, Tenn.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lucy H. King Smith, wife of Dr. Alfred Franklin Smith of Nashville, Tenn., publishing agent for the Methodist Church and a former St. Louis minister, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the Drehmann-Harral Mortuary, 1905 Union boulevard, with burial in Memorial Park Cemetery. Mrs. Smith, in her early sixties, died at Nashville yesterday after a long illness resulting from two hip fractures suffered in falls.

Born in Columbus, O., Mrs. Smith in her youth was a concert singer and she later taught music at Central College for Women at Lexington, Mo., where her husband was president of the college. In recent years she had written much poetry and had given poetry recitals throughout the country. She and Dr. Smith lived in St. Louis for many years, during which he held pastorates at Centenary and St. Paul's churches, and was chaplain at Barnes Hospital and editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate. They moved to Nashville in 1923, when he became editor of the Christian Advocate, national organ of the church.

She will be buried near the grave of her daughter, Mrs. Archibald C. Loud, who ended her life in 1931 after refusing to comply with her wealthy husband's request that she divorce him. Dr. and Mrs. Smith later had erected at the grave a white marble figure of a woman in a posture of grief, symbolizing their bitterness toward their former son-in-law.

MIXED PAIR BRIDGE WINNERS

Mr. and Mrs. David Carter of Sedalia, Mo., won the mixed pair event last night in the closing session of the three-day Mississippi Valley contract bridge tournament sponsored by the Greater St. Louis Contract Bridge Association at Hotel Gatesworth. They will represent the St. Louis district at the national tournament of the American Contract Bridge League in August at Asbury Park, N. J.

The Carters, with a high score of 523 points, finished 94 points ahead of the runner-ups, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Howerton of St. Louis. Ted Faulkner of St. Louis and Mrs. W. L. Dickens of Memphis, Tenn., won the open pair event in Saturday's competition. About 300 players participated in the tournament.

STIMSON A GENERAL, NOT COLONEL, ARMY OFFICERS DISCLOSE

Served in That Capacity at 1926 Maneuveers; Better Known by World War Title.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—It's General—not Colonel—Henry L. Stimson.

Officials cited records today showing that the nominee for Secretary of War was promoted to Brigadier-General in the Reserve Corps on June 16, 1922.

He actually served in that capacity at maneuvers at Pine Camp, N. Y., in June, 1926, when he commanded the 152d Field Artillery Brigade. He retired to inactive status with this rank on reaching the statutory age limit of 64 in 1931.

Because of his World War service, however, he is still Col. Stimson to many associates. At the close of that war he was commander of the Thirty-first Field Artillery Regiment of the regular army.

COST ACCOUNTANTS PLAY GOLF AND VISIT MANUFACTORIES

Convention Discussions, Lasting Through Thursday, Will Begin Tomorrow.

The twenty-first annual convention of the National Association of Cost Accountants got under way today with a tour of the city for delegates and a golf tournament at Norwood Hills Country Club. About 1200 members are expected to attend the four-day meeting.

Visits were made this morning to the plants of the Wagner Electric Co. here and of the Owens-Illinois Glass Co., at Alton. Luncheon was served at the Anheuser-Busch Brewery after which the cost accountants made a trip to the Knapp-Monarch Co. plant. This evening at 9 o'clock the president's reception and ball will be held in the Gold Room of Hotel Jefferson.

Technical sessions, including talks and round table discussions, on problems raised by Government and war orders will begin tomorrow and continue through Thursday afternoon. The annual banquet will be held Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

GEORGE F. MUELLER FUNERAL

Service for Former St. Louisan to Be Wednesday at Belleville.

Funeral services for George F. Mueller, former St. Louisan and father of Mgr. Joseph M. Mueller, pastor of St. Peter's Cathedral, Belleville, who died of a heart ailment yesterday at St. Elizabeth's Hospital there, will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock from the Renner, Geminn and Bergmann undertaking establishment, Belleville, to the Cathedral, 330 South Third street. Burial will be in SS. Peter and Paul's Cemetery.

Mr. Mueller, 74 years old, was employed at the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co. in St. Louis until his retirement five years ago. Also surviving are another son, Fred J. Mueller, and two daughters, Mrs. Clara Hartman and Mrs. Martha Lampe, all of St. Louis.

CIVIL LIBERTIES UNION ON ANTI-RED MEASURE

Says Action to Bar Communists From Private Jobs Is Unjustifiable.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—The American Civil Liberties Union called congressional action to bar Communists and German-American Bund members from the public service and private employment a "deprivation of civil rights wholly without justification," yesterday.

"National defense is not promoted by wholesale denial of employment and public relief to aliens and members of unpopular movements," said a statement issued by the union.

It referred specifically to a provision of the relief bill passed by Congress removing aliens, Communists and Bund members from WPA and to legislation to prohibit proivate employers in interstate commerce from hiring them, and to a recent order by the United States Civil Service Commission refusing to certify members of the two groups.

"It may fairly be argued that some citizens, because of their proved attitude toward the Government of the United States or the principles of democracy, are not qualified for certain public services," the statement said.

"But it cannot fairly be argued that the Government may by law bar from private employment persons because of political beliefs."

CATHOLIC ACTION SUMMER SCHOOL SESSIONS BEGIN

400 Delegates From 20 States and Canada Register for Week of All-Day Programs.

Sessions of the Catholic Action summer school began this morning and will continue through Saturday at the St. Louis University School of Commerce and Finance, 3672 Lindell boulevard. More than 400 delegates from 20 states and Canada have registered for the all-day programs, and many of the university's 1200 summer students are expected to take part in afternoon meetings.

The Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., editor of the Queen's Work, spoke to general sessions this morning of "God's Closeness to the World" and "God, Man and Happiness." Stressing the importance of measure and proportion in human life, Father Lord said, "Unhappiness comes from distortion of nature, and we experience it when we have too much or too little in money, food, drink or pleasure."

Problems facing college men and women, marriage, money and children, were the subject of a third talk by Father Lord. The Rev. Aloysius J. Heeg, S. J., and Miss Dorothy J. Willmann, national executive secretary of women's sodalities, also spoke.

Hindsight and Foresight

By HOLGAR J. JOHNSON

President, Institute of Life Insurance

A CORRESPONDENT writes me as follows: "Why do life insurance companies have reserves? I always thought they were to take care of unexpected disasters or epidemics. Something you said in one of your columns, however, made me wonder if I might be wrong."

You are wrong. Insurance companies depend on their surpluses or contingency funds to take care of such emergencies. The legal reserves are entirely different.

If the cost of your life insurance each year were based on the deaths during that year in your age group, your premiums would be low when you are young, but would steadily increase in cost. In your old age you'd probably find the premium too high for you to pay. It would be like a road starting out level but becoming steeper and steeper until you finally start sliding backwards.

But you don't want to give up your life insurance in old age when you may need it more than ever. Therefore, the mathematicians have figured out a way of establishing the same premium for year after year—a level premium.

This flat rate is higher than it otherwise would be during the earlier years and lower in the later years. It enables you to keep your life insurance in force when you're 65 at the same annual premium you started with at 30.

The company puts aside part of what you pay in the early years as a reserve, to take care of the slack in the later years. This is the so-called legal reserve.

UNDER the supervision of the state insurance commissioners, all companies keep reserves invested in sound securities for the benefit of the policyholders. The interest earned helps make life insurance lower in cost.

So, you see, the legal reserve is not just "something extra" to meet an emergency. It is created to make it possible for your company to pay you or your beneficiary what your policy promises to pay.

NOTE: In this regular Monday column, paid for at advertising rates, the Institute of Life Insurance has asked its president to discuss questions of interest to life insurance policyholders. Inquiries may be addressed to 60 East 42nd Street, New York City.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS BODY APPROVES CARTEL IDEA

Council Says It Is Best Course for Americas in Fighting Naziism.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—The American Council on Public Affairs expressed the opinion last night that the American nations, including the United States, may be reduced to the status of economic colonial possessions of a Nazi empire unless they establish central control of their exports and imports.

The administration is understood to be considering a proposal for such control of trade between the Western Hemisphere and the rest of the world. It may be formally laid before other American republics at the Pan-American conference to be called soon.

The council, a private organization, asserted in a pamphlet that Germany, once master of Europe, could soon establish strong economic pressures in the American nations if trade were uncontrolled.

Once such pressures were established, the council added, it would be only a step "to the time when firms employing individuals who for any reason are unacceptable to the Government of Europe will not receive orders . . .

"Also newspapers which print any unflattering news about Europe or its government will have to be boycotted by those firms expecting trade from Europe, and no advertising may be placed with them."

The pamphlet was prepared by a committee including Clark Foreman, chairman, author of "The New Internationalism"; Will W. Alexander, Farm Security Administrator; David Cushman Coyle, engineer; Oscar A. de Lima, president, Roger Smith Corporation; Paul Douglas, professor of economics, University of Chicago; Mark Ethridge, general manager, Louisville Courier-Journal; Edwin R. Embree, president, Julius Rosenwald Foundation; Mrs. May Thompson Evans, assistant director, women's division of the Democratic National Committee; W. Jett Lauck, economist; Ernest Lindley, author; Mrs. Joan Raushenbush, political scientist; Michael Ross, economist, and Phil D. Swing, former Republican Representative from California.

In a foreword, Charles A. Beard, the historian, said that while the details of the proposal might be criticised "the central policy cannot be challenged by any citizen who is concerned with the preservation of civilization against the forces of brutality and destruction."

FRENCH RESISTANCE UNDERMINED BY FIFTH COLUMNISTS

fighting and house-to-house fighting.

R. A. F. Survey.

The Royal Air Force has made a survey of the country and has spotted all the land where planes could alight. Orders are being given to make this land impossible for this purpose and to see that defense units cover it. The question remains whether the fifth column can be discovered and cleaned up in time. Recent air raids have undoubtedly assisted in this work.

The R. A. F. seems confident that it can deal with the German air force and, to the best of our knowledge, recent raids have not done any important damage. In several cases, the Germans have failed to find their targets and where they have done damage to other than houses and civilians, it appears to have been slight and entirely by chance.

If Hitler intends to make a quick job of Britain—and it is believed that he does—it would seem essential to attempt the invasion and the British believe that they can effectively resist this. Otherwise, strangulation by submarine blockade and constant air raids would take a long time as there is supposed to be enough food here for a year. The answer to British success seems to lie, as did the French, in assistance that Germany will get from fifth columnists. No one is in a position to give an accurate answer to this before the real attack begins.

WINNERS IN MODEL PLANE CONTEST AT WELSCH FIELD

Chester Plegge and Stanley Dubowski Tie for First; Lawrence Maze Takes Third Place.

Chester Plegge, 17 years old, 4249 Peck street, and Stanley Dubowski, 18, 1823 Benton street, tied for first place in total number of points at the model airplane contest held yesterday at Welsch Field, Belleville. Third place was won by Lawrence Maze, 14, 4131 Castleman avenue.

The three will compete in the national contest at Chicago, to be held from July 2 to 6, with expenses paid by Stix, Baer & Fuller, sponsors of the local contest.

WASHINGTON LETTER

the one-time colonies of France and Britain in Asia. Another would be North and South America, with possibly Australia and New Zealand included. (Clearly these are the countries which the President had in mind when he said that states outside the Americas might be invited into the proposed union). Number three would be Russia and number four Japan.

"If Germany wins," he said, "she will have the complete resources of the European and African continents and a slave population of 400,000,000 people. She will be more powerful in many respects than all the New World put together. . . . The American public is not even yet awake to the magnitude of the problem we are facing.

"If a huge Germania corporation were to control the purchase of all the exports of agricultural products from the New World to Europe, the effect would be felt on every farm and in every home in the New World."

He gave numerous examples to show the extent to which South America is dependent on Europe for her export markets—the extent, therefore, to which the economic pincers of a winning Germany could be used on the trade and political relations between Germany and South America. The greater part of the Latin American agricultural products normally sent to Europe come from Brazil and Argentina, countries rich in potentialities, with small populations and with racial minorities "whose sympathies may be with Germany and Italy."

"The Germans," he said, "cannot help looking at Brazil and Argentina as two of the four choicest fur-bearing animals on this hemisphere. . . .

"It may be seen, therefore, that this entire hemisphere has a tremendous stake in the European market. If Europe organizes herself, so that all buying is done through one corporation, it is obvious that this hemisphere will have before it a job of consultation about the immediate organization of an effective bartering agency sufficiently powerful to play the same game as the Germans."

This is the job which the Administration, with its proposal of a Western Hemisphere cartel, has now undertaken.

GERMAN SUCCESSES EASE PUBLIC MIND ABOUT SOVIET PACT

man in the street doubted it. He was still overestimating the Allies.

Nazi propaganda handled all these problems with its customary skill. The Russian advances into the Baltic were treated briefly, dryly and matter-of-factly. No mention was made, naturally, of the doubts raised in some quarters as to the reality of the Soviet friendship for Germany. All utterances in Moscow friendly to the Reich were prominently featured. Russian deliveries to the Reich were played up. The importance of having to fight on only one front was stressed again and again.

Impressed but Skeptical.

All in all, most Germans viewed the Soviet pact with mixed feelings. They were impressed by its value, but they were skeptical, too.

This was the attitude of the man in the street toward the agreement when the Soviets made their latest move by virtually occupying Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania last week. Did this move conjure up new misgivings among the German people?

It seems doubtful that it can have done so to any serious extent. For one thing the facts, as presented to the Germans, warranted no serious misgivings. For another thing, the prowess of German arms has now been so unmistakably certified by the advance in the West that it would be a panicky man, indeed, who was frightened by a Russian move in the Baltic.

It, obviously, would be exceedingly annoying to have to fight a full-scale war with Russia at this time but nobody can be found here who really thinks the Russians are likely to march against the Reich now—or that the Reich is likely to march against the Russians now. The man in the street may be right or he may be wrong, but for what it is worth this is how he feels.

The Germans are as much surprised as everybody else at the staggering successes of their armed forces in the West. Yet, now that these successes have been won, they put the pact with the Soviets once more in a light more favorable than it has enjoyed since last September—the pact saved Germany from having to fight a war on two fronts and this, it now seems to the man in the street, has been enough to enable the Reich to strike down its enemies so speedily that the pact has justified itself many times over.

Hollywood Gossip

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, June 24.

BEHIND movie headlines: Fifteen years before the Valentino craze a sleek, good-looking chap named Tony Merlo was getting all the breaks. . . . Rex Ingram, directing his first picture, discovered Merlo and used him as leading man in "The Great Problem." . . . For several years thereafter casting directors were constantly on the hunt for "Tony Merlo" types. . . . A paragon of fashion, suave in acting, Merlo became the ideal of aspiring young extras, among them a certain Adolphe Menjou, who declares today that Merlo gave him more tips on screen conduct and the wearables for which he is now famous than any other individual. . . . Feminine stars, Theda Bara, Alice Brady, Jeanne Eagels, Grace Davidson and Virginia Pearson, sought and obtained Merlo opposite them in silent pictures. . . . Tony is still around, still in the movies—but in a much less conspicuous way. . . . This week he turned up on the set of RKO's "Dance Girl, Dance," as one of the waiters in a swank night club sequence, where Maureen O'Hara and Louis Hayward are being co-starred. . . . Tony is rounding out 30 years in the business, having started with World Films in 1910. . . . Except for a couple of stage plays, "Front Page" and "Speakeasy," he's kept faith with the movies.

CLAUDETTE COLBERT has been the odd girl on many a night club party recently, giving added credence to rumors that divorce is imminent in the Dr. Joel Pressman household. Claudette met Pressman, a nose and throat specialist, as a patient about five years ago. They were married after a brief romance. The star continues to deny rumors of a rift, but calloused Hollywood won't believe until it sees them out together.

BARBARA HUTTON, five-ten heiress, has hired a high-powered publicist to do a good will campaign in her behalf around the U. S., object being to regain her American citizenship which she lost by marrying a Danish subject, whom she is now divorcing. Cary Grant was unaware Miss Hutton might be in a mood for publicity when he escorted her into the Victor Hugo the other night. So when cameramen began popping bulbs, Cary got mad—very mad. He threatened to have them all thrown out. Next day Miss Hutton called each of the photographers to apologize for the incident and a little later Grant did likewise.

PAUL MUNI will play his fifth screen healer when he takes over the lead in "Frontier Doctor," a story dealing with pioneer days in Oregon. . . . Maureen O'Sullivan is sure of a job when she returns from visiting her husband, Director John Farrow, now stationed with the Canadian navy. MGM took up the actress' option the day before she departed and gave her a rough script of the new "Tarzan" picture to read on the train. . . . A worker's careless flick of a cigarette resulted in a peculiar and costly accident on the set of "Flowing Gold" at Warners. The butt struck John Garfield in the eye and he was out two days healing the inflamed optic. . . . Sneak preview fans report "The Boys From Syracuse" will prove the season's biggest laughfest and in times like these Universal expects to reap a neat harvest from its promised good cheer. Alan Jones and Joe Penner are rumored as having hit new peaks in the comedy.

EVERYBODY CONNECTED with Warner Brothers held their breath and hoped the night of the "All This and Heaven, Too," premiere. Bette Davis, the star, attending her first premiere in 10 years as a headline actress, got too friendly with thousands of fans sitting in temporary stands along the Carthay Circle's forecourt and half a dozen astonished guardians of the law were soon having the time of their lives pushing back hundreds of souvenir-maddened fans anxious to tear Bette's gown to shreds. Two white-faced Warner press men hurried her away from the danger zone and into the theater.

Street Sprinklers Settle Desert Dust

TUCSON, Ariz.—Wesley Ruggles, filming "Arizona" near Tucson for Columbia Pictures, finally has conquered Arizona's relentless desert dust.

For a week, the company was stalemated in trying to film 100 Papago Indians stampeding more than 500 head of Hereford cattle in Rattlesnake Pass, because of the dense clouds of desert dust the animals kicked up and which completely obscured the action from the seven camera crews.

Experts went into huddles and it finally was decided to bury the Arizona dust.

For three days, half a dozen Tucson street sprinklers poured 10,000 gallons of water onto the desert to soak the dust. For three days a corps of trucks hauled coarse gravel to Rattlesnake Pass—150 tons in all—which a small army of laborers raked over a large area of the desert.

The cattle were herded into the canyon again, the starting gun was fired, and the stampede which had been three weeks in preparation finally became a complete success.

DOROTHY THOMPSON WRITES

"ON THE RECORD"

Thoughts During This Struggle—Washington Suffering From Nervous Breakdown, but American People Are Pushing Through Chaos to Truth—Democracy the Real Revolution.

MY column Wednesday on "Thoughts After the Fall of Paris" has had such a remarkable response that now I know that I did not really write it, but picked it out of the air.

In deeply troubled times, when the nerves become strained with mental anguish, there comes to people that integration of thought and emotion out of which grows the kind of conviction which is really an act of faith: "The substance of things hoped for; the evidence of things unseen."

In time of great crisis individuals either fly to pieces, or all the pieces in them fly together, and what is true of individuals is true of peoples, of nations.

When an individual fails to react to danger by that spontaneous mental and physical co-ordination that alone will save him, he is suffering from nervous breakdown. The same is true of nations. And the faith that is in my heart arises from seeing that, although Washington is truly suffering from nervous breakdown all along the line at this moment, the American people are not. Watching with horror-stricken eyes the apocalyptic spectacle of the collapse of a world made of the stuff of dreams and vanished with a sleep, they are pushing through the chaos to clarity, to realism, reason and truth.

Every one of us is asking himself today what he really cares for and what he really believes. It has become a necessity of our lives, as real and necessary as bread. In that process of self-criticism, that stripping for action, it is amazing how much one throws away in order to lighten the pack one carries.

For what do I really care, one asks one's self. What is essential to my happiness? Immediately one rids one's self of a great load of material things. Pleasant things, even lovely things, but not things for which one really cares. Do I care about this large apartment, that sweet house in the country? No. I need a room of my own, where I can be quiet, and think and work. I need a room for my child. I do not need any other shelter whatsoever. I need a certain amount of caloric content of food each day, and I need no other food whatsoever. I need sufficient clothes and changes of them to keep clean, and I would like them to make me look as nice as possible, because that helps one's courage, but I need no other clothes whatsoever.

That house in the country. Yes, I love it, because I planned it—took the old structure, ipped out this wall, planned that chimney there and that window there—dug in the garden, planted the irises—it is part of myself, and I love it. But for what was I making it? For my family and my friends. But who are my family and my friends? Everyone today who suffers what I suffer, and wants what I want, and needs what I need. I think of the hundreds of thousands of orphaned children in France and Belgium; tomorrow in England. Democracy's children. I have rooms for them, and food for them, and I want to reach them.

No, I do not want the state to take over my house. That is what the Communists would do. They would make it into an institution. It is a home. The state cannot make it into a home. They do not understand my house. But if they will let me make it into a larger home, I will do it, and do it better than they could. And as I am, so are millions. All the state needs to be is a transmission system—a transmission system to the power that is resident in every cell of our society.

Do I care about money? What is money? In the bank lies a trust fund for my child, that if I die he shall be sure of a home. But what is a home? Has a Polish child with a trust fund a home? This society is my child's home, and if it collapses he may be hunted in the streets for all the money in the bank. Does the government need that money to save and rebuild this society? Take it. But take it and save this society with it. Do not hand it out to grafters! Do not hand it to the enemies of my child! It is a trust fund.

What is it that I need and seek? I need to live in a society and a world that makes sense. I cannot exist in an insane asylum. I need to live in a world that I trust. I cannot live in a world that I do not trust and that does not trust me. I am willing to try to love my neighbor as myself. But not better than myself, because that is destructive of all order.

I am willing to share the results of my work with all who work. But I am not willing to give it to the parasitically lazy. For I do not ask that I myself shall live without working. And since I know that work is a self-creating process I am jealous for it for all men and women.

What is it that I believe? I believe what I know. All the rest is speculation, fascinating, protean, excellent mental exercise, but not knowledge. It becomes wisdom only when it is recognized and validated by that conscious and unconscious experience of life which is reality.

I have read a library full of books in my life, and some of the most brilliant and seductive have been the most nonsensical. Who does not know that exquisite pleasure, however, that springs from the printed page when one reads a word that opens a blind in the windows of one's mind? One says, "That is true." One knows it instantly—it is the key for which one has been looking—it brings all other thoughts into shape, it adds to a harmony, it helps create the mind. It calls unconscious observations into the consciousness. It is food and drink to the spirit.

What do I know about human societies, from all the experience of history and reality? I know that they cannot be based upon hate. That remark is of an extreme banality, but some of our brightest intellectuals do not recognize it, perhaps because it is banal. (Many banal things are so). That is why the Communist Revolution is the most ghastly failure in history. It has eaten away the creative power of a great slumbering race, and it will disappear ignominiously from history, brought down by the weapons of war, conspiracy, divison, and treachery which it forged itself.

That is why I know that the Nazi system will fail, even if Hitler conquers the whole earth. It is based upon hate, upon an arrogant assumption of unreal superiority, and everything it does in the long run will prove to be false.

It is an attempt at world-wide political and economic monopoly, and it is as true now as it ever was that "all power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely."

Just now it is the greatest success story in history; but do not tie to it; it will go down in one way or another: either from external pressure or from internal corruption. Germans with light in their minds and reality in their hearts know it. Why did they speak to me in Europe, when I met some of them, here and there, wringing their hands, and crying, "We are going to win this war!" And agony was on their faces. Not on every one's face. No. But on the faces of those whose wisdom is deepest.

I do not know when this will happen—whether in my lifetime—but it will happen. I wait with fascinated eyes for the peace terms offered to France. If they contain a ray of noble magnanimity, I shall be somewhat shaken. I shall think, "They are being sly, and it will take longer." But if they divide France and plunder her liberties utterly, then I shall know that the day of reckoning is not so far off. For there is a natural law, and it never fails.

But democracy, noblest dream of man, what crimes have we committed in your name, that you suffer now such bloody agonies? When did you degenerate on the political side into a filthy vote-buying machine? When did you degenerate on the economic side to a money-worshiping stagnation? When did labor bosses become racketeers instead of democratic leaders of strong and prideful guilds? When did society become a perpetual war instead of a family in which each member performs his function under an authority that lives by the respect it commands and not by naked force or votes manipulated or seduced? When did you forget "that hospitality that forever indicates heroes"?

Or have you never really been born, except as an idea—an idea not yet made flesh and reality?

Are you not the revolution, of which these others will be ill-cast forms, broken to bits in universal destruction? Are you not the revolution to end revolutions for centuries, and bring us peace?

If so, let us set about building you, wit hthe love of our hearts, the intelligence of our brains, and the work of our hands.

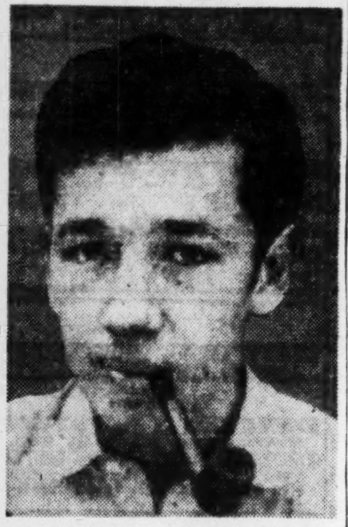
Drowned on Outings

BEVERLY ANN BENNETT



JOSEPH SWANARD

CHILD DROWNS IN LAKE, YOUTH IN THE MERAMEC

Girl Sinks in 3 Feet of Water —Clerk Fails in Attempt to Swim River.

Beverly Ann Bennett, 11 years old, was drowned at Lake Park, south of East St. Louis, yesterday and Joseph Swanard, 19, a drugstore clerk, lost his life when he became exhausted attempting to swim across the Meramec River above the old bridge at Fenton.

Beverly Ann, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar A. Bennett, 775 North Fifty-second street, East St. Louis, had gone to the lake, which is not yet provided with life guards, with her friend, Marylee Deranek, 11, and Marylee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Deranek, 5718 Ohio avenue, East St. Louis.

The two girls were playing in about three feet of water 15 feet from shore when they suddenly called out for help. A nearby swimmer carried Marylee into shallower water, but Beverly Ann had already gone down. Her body was recovered shortly after and an inhalator was used, but to no avail.

In previous years the WPA provided lifeguards at the lake, but none has been assigned so far this season. Last week a 14-year-old boy lost his life in the lake.

Swanard was swimming in the Meramec with two friends, Frank Hafner, 3404 South Second street, and Otto Maly, 2637 South Twelfth boulevard.

Maly told a Post-Dispatch reporter that they had started to go across the river when Swanard called out: "I'm turning around, I can't make it."

Maly and Hafner continued on and when they got to the opposite side saw that Swanard was struggling in the water. Maly went back in and swam toward Swanard but was unable to reach him before he went down. The body was recovered two hours later.

Swanard lived with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Siebert, at 3331 Lemp avenue.

PLANE FIRM TO ENLARGE PLANT

Curtiss-Wright to Double Propeller Output by September.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP). — Curtiss-Wright Corporation announced today its intention of doubling the manufacturing facilities of its propeller division before the end of September.

It will begin construction within the next three weeks of a one-story steel, brick and glass factory of 230,000 square feet floor space near Caldwell, N. J., more than matching the 220,000 square feet of the propeller plants operating at Clifton, N. J., and Pittsburgh, Pa. The new plant will employ 1500 skilled workmen. The other two plants use 1600.

Increase in Truck Freight.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—The volume of freight transported by motor truck reached a 1940 peak of 1,110,853 tons in May, the American Trucking Associations reported yesterday. This compared with 1,055,326 tons in April, and 991,486 tons in May, 1939.

C C C TO ACCEPT YOUTHS OF FAMILIES NOT ON RELIEF

Better Job Conditions Have Reduced Applications Enough to Drop Restrictions to Needy.

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP). —The Civilian Conservation Corps hereafter will enroll sons of parents not on relief, if the boys are unemployed and actually need jobs.

Better employment conditions have reduced applications for CCC work, a spokesman said, and therefore it was decided to drop the previous requirement that enrollees come from relief families.

Young men whose families are on relief will still receive preference in enrollment.

ABANDONED CATS AND DOGS ROAMING STREETS OF PARIS

PARIS, June 24 (AP).—The Prefect of Police, concerned over the number of abandoned dogs and cats roaming through French cities, advised citizens today that they be seized, killed and buried to prevent an outbreak of rabies.

Pets kept at home or on leash will be spared.

Despite the number of abandoned dogs and cats, many war refugees clung to their pets in flight and even climbed up ship ladders with them.

INDORSEMENT OF M'REYNOLDS

Service Station Operators Commend Candidate for His Record.

Indorsement of the candidacy of State Senator Allen McReynolds for the Democratic nomination for Governor has been given by the Associated Petroleum Retailers of Greater St. Louis, it was announced today.

The association of service station operators, which has opposed increased State gasoline taxes, commended McReynolds for his "long record of distinguished service to the people of Missouri." Harold Fox is the association's president.

THE PHILADELPHIA STORY

By Five Staff Correspondents

Speeches . . . nominations . . . demonstrations . . . a stirring picture is unfolding in Philadelphia this week. Republican delegations from all parts of the United States have gathered to lay down their platform and name their choice for President of the United States.

So that this picture will be brought to you completely and accurately the Post-Dispatch has assigned five experienced staff correspondents to cover the moving scene. Raymond P. Brandt, Marquis W. Childs and Charles G. Ross of the Post-Dispatch Washington Bureau are there to report on the national aspects of the convention . . . Curtis Betts, Post-Dispatch political writer, is there to observe the Missouri delegation and report its activities . . . and Virginia Irwin, Post-Dispatch feature writer, is there to transmit the human interest features of the convention to you. Incidentally, these five writers also will journey to Chicago in July to bring you complete coverage of the Democratic National Convention.

GAINS WELL DISTRIBUTED IN VERY SLOW STOCK TRADE

Wall Street Continues to Maintain Hopefulness for Industrial Prospects as It Attempts to Assay News of the War and Domestic Politics.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—While unable to provide answers for the European war and domestic political questions, stock traders generally leaned slightly toward the bullish side in today's market.

Most buyers were reluctant to bid up favorites to any noticeable extent, but at the same time offerings were negligible and, at the close gains of fractions to a point or so were fairly well distributed. Utilities, firm most of the day, developed last minute strength.

The ticker tape moped throughout and transfers for the five hours totaled 471,990 shares.

Speculative forces were none too happy over the reported terms of the German-French armistice, and no particular cheer was expected to follow the Italian-French agreement for the cessation of hostilities. In addition, trends at the national Republican convention, opening today, still were hazy enough to restrain potential share purchasers. On the other hand, business continued to act well and defense spending hopes remained a bolstering influence.

Steel Operations.

A drop of 1.2 points in this week's steel-mill operations, first recession in nine weeks, failed to unsettle stocks in the metal group.

Up at one time or another were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Douglas Aircraft, American Airlines, United Air Lines, Westinghouse, du Pont, Great Northern, American Smelting and Texas Corporation.

Bonds tilted forward selectively. Commodities were a bit uneven. Wheat at Chicago was off ¼ to up ⅛ of a cent a bushel and corn down ⅛ to 1⅛.

Cotton, in late transactions, was ahead 20 cents a bale to 15 cents lower.

"Free" sterling backed away in terms of the dollar.

Utilities did moderately well in the Curb, as on the "Big Board." Bought were Electric Bond & Share, American Gas, American Super Power. Pennsylvania-Central Airlines was a gainer.

News of the Day.

As one analyst remarked: "If the market faces any further liquidation of importance, it will have to come largely from investment holdings. This inference may be clearly gathered from current brokers' loans which now stand at the lowest level ever recorded by the Federal Reserve compilation since the latter was begun almost 25 years ago."

Over Week-End Development.

The survey of the magazine "Steel" said lifting of pressure for metal shipments to France has permitted mills to give increased attention to domestic business and other export bookings. Orders, it was added, have run ahead of deliveries so far this month.

The review noted that scrap markets, highly sensitive to overseas developments, have lost some of their recent buoyancy, despite further price advances in several districts.

SECURITIES PRICES CUT SEVERELY AT LONDON

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—Securities prices were cut severely in the market today following news of the acceptance by France of German armistice terms. Trading was almost at a standstill pending further war developments. British Government bonds lost an outside of 1 point while foreign loans held steady. Industrials declined throughout and a rallying attempt in kaffirs failed. Domestic rails leveled off after morning recessions. Oils were neglected and base metals weak.

LIVERPOOL, June 24 (AP).—Heavy liquidation hit the July cotton contract today on fears of delivery difficulties. Buying in later months was generated by threats of a snag in the import situation. The final range was 12 points lower to 8 higher.

WASHINGTON BUSINESS NOTES

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—The Census Bureau reports that factory sales of motor vehicles during May were below April levels but continued well ahead of last year.

Total May factory sales were 391,215, compared with 432,746 in April and 297,542 in May last year. For the first five months of this year total sales were 2,083,892 against 1,652,251 in the corresponding period of 1939.

Panama Canal tolls during the first 20 days of May declined to about half the amount for the corresponding period last year. This year's period showed a 20-day total of $753,851 compared with $1,404,335 a year ago.

The Treasury reports that sales of United States savings bonds for the first three weeks of May amounted to $30,294,356, a decline of $13,091,679 from sales for the corresponding 1939 period.

Business advices to the Commerce Department from representatives abroad include:

Nicaragua—Break in drouth relieves food growers.

South Africa—Industrial activity increases.

Canada—Farm outlook satisfactory.

Odd-Lot Stock Trade.

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—The free British pound slipped 1½ cents in relation to the dollar today after Saturday's fast run-up.

Business was put through in blocks of only a few thousand dollars at a time, foreign exchange dealers reported, while the market waited further word of British policy affecting the free rate.

Hints circulated in banking uarters recently England might condone continuance of the free market.

The Swiss frac advanced .01 of a cent. The Canadian dollar dipped ⅛ cent to 81 U. S. cents. All changes were to noon or so.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Foreign Exchange late rates follow (Great Britain in dollars, others in cents); Canada: Official Canadian Control board rates for U. S. dollars; buying 10 per cent premium, selling 11 per cent premium, equivalent to discounts on Canadian dollars in New York of buying 9.91 per cent, selling 9.09 per cent. AXIS BOND GROUP IN SHARP ADVANCES

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—German and Italian Government bonds advanced from 1 to 4 points today in a thin market.

Corporates and U. S. Governments generally were slightly ahead near the final hour. Dealings were small.

Best gains in the foreigns were made by Rome 6½s, Milan 6½s, German Government 5½s and 7s and Italian 7s.

Australian 4½s rose around a point in brisk trade.

Dealers in the domestic list took a standoffish attitude in view of the many factors clouding the immediate future. Foreign news was still studied closely for market clues but the Republican convention also came in for attention.

Gains ranging to around a point were scored for N. Y. Central 3½s, Continental Oil 2¾s, American & Foreign Power 5s, Nickel Plate 5½s and Pennsylvania General 4½s of '65. Warren Bros. 6s jumped more than four points.

Marked down were such issues as Youngstown Sheet 4s, International Telephone 5s, Consolidated Oil convertible 3½s and Bethlehem Steel 3½s.

Among liens a point or more higher at the close were Commonwealth-Edison convertible 3½s at 120⅝, Delaware & Hudson refunding 4s at 48, Remington-Rand 4¼s at 95¼, Pennsylvania general 4½s of '65 at 101⅜ and Portland General Electric 4½s at 72⅜.

UTILITY REFINANCING.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—A new issue of $38,000,000 Jersey Central Power & Light Co. 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds, due 1965, was offered today by a syndicate headed by First Boston Corporation, E. H. Rollins & Sons and Halsey, Stuart & Co. The bonds were priced at 102½ plus interest.

Proceeds of the loan, it was planned, will be applied to redemption of $42,225,000 outstanding first mortgage bonds of the company bearing a higher coupon rate.

The offering, bond men said, was the first large-sized corporate financing since United States Steel sold $75,000,000 debentures in early May. Despite the Jersey Central issue, however, new financing in June was expected to be the smallest since last October.

C I A LOANS SHOW GAIN OF $10,00,000 IN WEEK

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP).—"Commercial, industrial and agricultural" loans of banks increased last week for the third straight week.

The Federal Reserve oBard said that in banks of 101 cities, these loans gained $10,000,000 to a total of $4,387,000,000 in the week ended June 19. This put he total in these cities $564,000,000 higher than a year ago.

Last week, Chicago district banks alone increased their "commercial, industrial and agricultural" loans $12,000,000, but small decreases occurred in some other areas.

CORPORATION REPORTS

NEW YORK, June 24.—The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. and subsidiaries earned net profit of $18,663,571 in the year ended February 29, equal to $8.07 a common share after 7 per cent preferred dividend requirements. This compared with $15,833,783, or $6.75 on common, in the preceding year.

Boston Wool.

BOSTON, June 24 (AP).—(U. S. D. A.)—Scattered sales were being closed on domestic wools in Boston today, demands being much less active than at the beginning of last week. Fine territory wools in original bags were bringing 85@87c, scoured basis, for good French combing lengths, and 82@84c, scoured basis, for short to average French combing lengths. Demand was rather slow on country-packed three-eighths and quarter blood bright fleece wools, but prices were fairly firm at around 40c, in the grease, delivered to users, on the few sales reported.

Silk.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Spot silk (60-day basis): Japanese crack double extra 81 per cent seriplane 13-15s, 2.70.

WHEAT NARROW AND IRREGULAR CLOSING MIXED

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP).—Week-end rains in the spring wheat belt caused only a temporary setback in the market today and after prices had slumped almost a cent they staged a recovery that wiped out most of the loss.

Although Government purchases of wheat flour were believed to have been light, there was sufficient buying from milling interests to support prices much of the time. Continued slow movement of new wheat and reports of rust damage strengthened the market.

Fair weather was forecast for most of the grain belt. Rain received recently in the Southwest and soft winter wheat belts delayed harvesting and maturity, some reports indicated.

The weather maps yesterday and today showed moisture was well distributed. This encouraged profit taking on the part of dealers who carried wheat during most of last week's rally of around 6 cents a bushel from the lows reached a week ago on the slump that followed word of the French capitulation.

Tending to offset this pressure to some extent was buying credited to mills possibly in connection with Government flour purchases for relief distribution. It was believed purchases were on a small scale.

The European situation continued to disturb most traders who attempted to appraise probable chances of a revival of continental demand in some form. Grain men said United Kingdom and Spain were the only European countries in a position to import wheat and other grains. In the 1928-29 season they took slightly more than half of the total amount of wheat imported by European deficiency countries, amounting to about 426,000,000 bushels. Whether Germany will aid in the importation of foods into controlled territory and what funds will be used for this has not been determined, although there was one report that the German Red Cross was active. The American Red Cross also is participating in relief work.

Corn prices were off ¼ to ⅜ cent while most of the rye showed small fractional declines.

Lard sagged with grain despite early strength in hogs.

At 11 a. m., wheat was ⅛c lower to ¼c higher compared with Saturday's finish, July 79½c, Sept., 80c, and corn was unchanged to ¼c off, July 62⅝c, Sept. 60½c.

STEEL MILLS TO TRIM OPERATIONS THIS WEEK

Decline of 1.2 Points Ascribed to Suspension of Activity on French Orders.

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP). — The nation's steel mills will trim operating schedules 1.2 points to 86.5 per cent of capacity this week, first reduction in nine weeks, the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated today.

This compared with 76.9 per cent a month ago and 54.3 per cent a year ago.

Steel circles said the decline was due primarily to suspension of activity on French orders.

"The let-down will probably be temporary," said one steel man, "since domestic defense needs should take up the slack."

St. Louis Area Expands 2½ Points.

Steel ingot production in the St. Louis area was reported at 70½ per cent of capacity this week, an increase of 2½ points over the rate of a week ago.

Scrap steel prices were reported 25c higher, No. 2 heavy melting being quoted at $15.50@16 per ton.

CLEVELAND, June 24 (AP).—Lifting of pressure for steel shipments to France has permitted mills "to give increased attention to domestic business and other export bookings, fairly large backlogs of which are at hand," the magazine "Steel" reported today.

"Orders have run ahead of deliveries so far this month" and ingot output last week rose an additional two points to 88 per cent of capacity, the trade publication said in its weekly review. This is the eighth consecutive upturn in the operating rate.

"The holdup brought about by war developments has not caused serious complications in mill schedules" since work "had not started on the major part of recent French purchases.

"In some instances producers have been instructed to complete these orders, with consignment changed to British destination, but such tonnages comprise a relatively small portion of the total. "Steel" continued.

"Possibility is seen, however, that additional lots will be released in this manner."

Some buying hesitancy appeared early last week "on receipt of the adverse French news, but this was dissipated quickly, "Steel" said. "Scrap markets, highly sensitive to European developments, have lost some of their recent bullishness, despite further price advances in several districts, which moved the composite up 42 cents to $19.75, new high for the year. Some scrap originally destined for export is moving back to domestic mills."

Except for a six-point drop to 89 per cent at Detroit, all leading steelmaking districts showed unchanged or higher operations last week. Gains included one and one-half points to 93 per cent at Chicago, nine and one-half points to 85½ at Cincinnati, eight points to 78 at Youngstown, seven points to 83 in Eastern Pennsylvania, two and one-half points to 84½ at Cleveland, one-half to 90½ at Buffalo and four points to 70 in New England. Unchanged were Birmingham at 88, Pittsburgh at 81, Wheeling at 90 and St. Louis at 68.

COMMODITY MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—Prices headed downward over a broad front in major commodity makets while traders considered the possibility of a Europe completely under German domination.

Wheat at Chicago displayed more resistance than most other staples. After losing almost a cent early, the final price range was ¼c lower to ⅛c higher. Corn, however, dropped ⅛@1⅛c. Milling interests supported prices most of the session.

Demand for the spot cotton delivery tended to steady the balance of the list although closing prices were 10 cents a bale higher to 25c lower. First notice day comes Tuesday.

Key armament raw materials moved uniformly downward, including copper, hides, rubber, cocoa, sugar and wool tops. Silk coffee and cotton seed followed suit.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 wholesale spot commodities, based on 1926 as 100, declined to 71.98 from 71.99 Saturday.

vain, for any evidence of foresight as to what has happened, for a single proposal which has sought, in advance of the administration, to strengthen the national defense. The speeches of Messrs. Taft and Dewey during these critical months make Mr. Neville Chamberlain seem like a far-sighted and strong statesman.

The alarming inadequacy of this whole performance has caused profound misgiving within the ranks of the Republicans of this country. That is why Mr. Wendell Willkie has risen so spectacularly. That is why Mr. Hoover has once again a popular following. And that is also why Mr. Roosevelt has become so much stronger than he was a year ago. A very large mass of the people in both parties have watched the conduct of the regular Republican politicians, and have concluded that unless the Republican party can turn to someone like Willkie or Hoover, it will be led by men who are walking in their sleep, by men whose minds have not grasped the situation in which this country finds itself.

But long before the elections in November it may become clear to everyone that the United States is isolated in a highly armed, hungry and jealous world. Even if that does not happen because the British are able to sustain the resistance, it will, nevertheless, be a fact—and this is one of the most momentous facts of modern history—that the capitalist system of private property and free enterprise and free labor has come to an end in every industrial nation on the face of the globe, excepting only in the United States.

The two American parties are nominating candidates whom they hope to make President during the next four years. Has it dawned upon the platform makers and party managers at Philadelphia that the next President of the United States is going to administer our affairs in a world where the whole commercial system we have known has broken down, in a world in which private property and private enterprise have been replaced by a regime of military socialism?

Do they realize what this is going to mean? That when an American business man wants to sell or buy in Europe and Asia, he will not be trading with other business men, but with monopolies administered by dictatorial governments? That when he competes in the few free markets which may be left, say, in South America, he will be competing not with foreign business men, but with a European government monopoly?

Do they realize that the American farmer and the American producer of raw materials will be able to sell to this monopoly only if this country will take in payment the manufactured goods of Europe? Have they grasped the fact that these goods are going to be produced by highly skilled labor which is paid the wages of sweated labor and, so far as the conquered peoples are concerned, the wages of slave labor? Have our labor leaders grasped the fact that the trade union movement in all other industrial nations is dead, and that they will be competing in the American market and in all other markets with workers who have no rights and have a standard of life lower than any white men have known for much more than a hundred years? Have our manufacturers and bankers and shareholders and bondholders grasped the fact that this European government monopoly of industry will not only rest upon sweated labor and slave labor, but that it will have no financial overhead to burden the costs of production? For the capitalists of Europe will have been expropriated, the Germans in fact, though not perhaps in appearance, the conquered capitalists completely?

Has it occurred to the Republican leaders in Philadelphia what it will mean to compete with such an industrial machine as that? Do they realize that no existing tariff, no subsidy, no system of labor laws, no system of trade union agreements can protect American agriculture and industry against the inroads of such a system? For if they let in the imports from such an industrial machine, how can American producers survive in competition? And if they shut out the imports, how can American surpluses be disposed of?

These are a few of the facts which the American people are going to have to live with and deal with in the next years. No one in his senses can think he has a ready-made plan for dealing with them. But if they can be dealt with, the party in power must be led by men who are awake to what is happening. The sleepwalkers in Philadelphia do not seem to have even a dim appreciation of what is happening, and that is why the salvation of the party depends upon men like Hoover and Willkie, Stimson and Knox who do know what is happening.

Men like these, whether they serve the Government in office or in the opposition, alone can save the Republican party from a disaster like that which has overtaken Neville Chamberlain and his following. These men, whom the little politicians dislike, are identifying the Republican party with the energetic defense of American vital interests and establishing it as a party suited to the times we live in. If they succeed, the Republican party will be fit to be trusted by the country. If they fail, the sleepwalkers are in command at Philadelphia and later of the Government itself, the American people will pass through the most dangerous period of their history, led by men who do not know what they are doing.

"Speed's the thing in aquaplaning," says Florence Holliss, "but in a cigarette the fun and the extras go with slower burning...with Camels."

SLOWER BURNING MAKES SUCH A DIFFERENCE. THE MORE I SMOKE CAMELS, THE MORE I APPRECIATE THEIR MILDNESS AND COOLNESS. CAMELS GIVE ME EXTRA PLEASURE AND EXTRA SMOKING, TOO

THERE'S A FRESH THRILL in every white-capped wave—a breathtaking bounce that says, hang on or take your ducking! Pretty Florence Holliss, riding the board above, likes the fast pace in sports. But in cigarettes, she prefers the slower-burning brand...Camels.

"THE FASTER THE PACE, the more the fun," says Florence Holliss, above. But she likes her smoking slow. "I always smoke Camels," Florence says. "Camels are extra mild and extra cool—and have such a welcome flavor." Smoke Camels and enjoy extra pleasure and extra smoking (see below).

EVERY DAY more and more smokers are discovering that the important "extras" in cigarette pleasure and value go with slow burning...Camels. For slow burning preserves and heightens natural tobacco flavor and fragrance...means freedom from the excess heat and irritating qualities of too-fast burning. Camels, with their matchless blend of costlier tobaccos and a slower way of burning unequaled in recent tests (see right), give you extra mildness, extra coolness, extra flavor... and extra smoking per pack. Get more pleasure per puff and more puffs per pack in slower-burning Camels. Penny for penny your best cigarette buy.

Things I Never Knew and Still Don't Know

THAT Editor William Allen White's auto license number, which he picked himself, is 13-1313. (His idea being that no one'll steal a car with a number like that.) . . . That all the great Powers appoint thin men as Ambassadors to Japan. (Because the Japs don't like fat men.) . . . That in "Philosophy for Our Times," C. E. M. Joad reports that when he praised the technical marvels of our civilization to an Indian sage, he received this acid comment, "Yes, you can fly in the air like birds and swim in the sea like fish—but you do not yet know how to walk upon the earth like men" . . . That married women in Dutch Guiana have to wear bells around their necks. (So their husbands can locate them when they want them.) . . . That Jascha Heifetz has an aluminum violin which he uses in damp weather. (And when the violin needs repairs, Heifetz sends it to a plumber!) . . . That Queen Isabella, of Spain, boasted that she had only two baths in her life—one when she was born and the other when she married Ferdinand . . . That Brenda Marshall, though an established movie star, has never been kissed on the screen . . . That all the page boys at the N. B. C. studios in Hollywood must attend classes in acting and announcing! . . . That 60 per cent of the women in this country wear their stockings inside out. (Because the dull texture is more flattering to their ahems!) . . . That Cholula, Mexico, is probably the most religious town in the world—there are 365 churches there, one for every day in the year . . . That according to Edward Weeks, when Henry Ford was interviewed on his fiftieth birthday, the reporter asked him, "Mr. Ford, what would you say are the disadvantages of great wealth?" Ford replied, "Well, for me it was when Mrs. Ford quit cooking!"

THAT THE SYSTEM of house numbers in use today (odd numbers on one side, even on the other) was originated by Napoleon . . . That in Washington, D. C., there's a beauty shop for cats and dogs . . . That the average house fly travels more than five miles every day. (Gosh, you'd think they'd get worn out!) . . . That in Maryland, it's against the law to be cruel to oysters. (And you can go to jail for it—but the law isn't enforced.) And on the Island of Badu, in North Australia, the law makes it punishable by fine for any wife to nag or cook badly . . . That according to a recent survey, business executives prefer brunette secretaries to blondes . . . That in Japan, "after dinner" speeches are made before dinner . . . That Americans smoked an average of 1300 cigarettes per person last year . . . That Sir Walter Scott, the author, had such a bad memory that he once praised one of his own poems, thinking that Lord Byron had written it!

THAT WHEN A Navajo Indian squaw wants to get a divorce she simply put her husband's saddle and other belongings outside the door of their hut. . . . That George Bernard Shaw's definition of a pessimist is a man who thinks everybody is as nasty as himself, and hates them for it . . . That Ernst Henri's "Hitler Over Europe," written six years ago, prophetically called the turn on practically all of Hitler's moves to date and, according to the book, the U. S. is next on the schedule after England. (The name is believed to be a pseudonym for two German army staff officers.) . . . That in some parts of China, when a man doesn't pay his debts, his creditor has the right to remove the door of his house . . . Benjamin Franklin predicted the use of parachute troops as far back as 1784 .

Home Fires Burning

By Elsie Robinson

SHE thinks we should "limit our expenditures and dispense with all luxuries, particularly public amusements, for the limit of the European war." And will I not "write an article urging loyal Americans" to follow her suggestions? Yes, lady, I will not! What's more, I think that any American who does follow your suggestion is either so dumb he needs a guardian or so disloyal he deserves a firing squad. No policy could possibly please Herr Hitler as well as this program of stagnation. No super-tank, no fleet of bombers, could damage America as tragically as such inaction. The one thing above all others which civilization needs in this desperate pass is to Keep the Home Fires Burning! And there's just one way to do that—by staying normal!

ELSIE ROBINSON

THE GERMAN menace represents all that is deadly in the human mind. We, too, can lose faith, as they have lost faith. We, too, can turn back to the jungles, as they have turned back. The seeds are in us . . . we have only to yield to our own secret weakness and viciousness, and life will shortly become as poisoned in America as it is in Germany.

Life was meant to be good and glad, for all people, not merely the powerful and predatory few. Life was meant to be active and abundant. We have known such life in the past because we have lived normally. Know it now! Let us keep ourselves free and whole, not by retreating from life but by going ahead—by expressing every happy impulse, every healthy desire . . . by backing up every vital interest and industry in our national program. If you want to stay on the map, keep America there! No, this isn't an advertisement. It's simply sound mental hygiene and 100 per cent patriotism.

THE AMERICAN who through selfish fear, restrains his own wholesome expansion and his country's commercial activities, is as surely a traitor as the one who betrays his nation's secrets and deals her as deadly a blow. If you want to save democracy, if you want to preserve decency, if you want to defeat those who would throttle and thwart life—live normally! Live and give as you've never given before!

Keep American business going and American morale functioning! Lift your outlay above mere commercialism, make it an "act of grace," an act of faith in the last stronghold of freedom and equality. Give, that your country may live! Give, that your own spirit may remain eager and undaunted! For your nation needs more than your lip service. It needs your enthusiasm, your faith, your good sportsmanship . . . all the abundance of your soul, mind and body. Out of that abundance was America conceived and maintained. Out of it—if you will give it—shall she be saved today and, with her, the hope of the world!

Youth Still Standing Up To Its Work

By Angelo Patri

"O, I don't know. The young people of this generation seem to be gone to seed entirely. They want Communism without any of its penalties, brutalities and shams; they want education without any of its hardships, self-denials nad disciplines; they want freedom without its responsibilities. They want to live without paying their way in life. So it seems to me by reading the papers. What will become of my children in such a generation is more than I can see."

I don't feel discouraged at all. The Youth of America is still standing up strong, doing its daily chores, dreaming its dreams and unfolding its plans. Newspapers publish news. Young people making speeches and shaking fists in the face of Age makes news. Young people attending to business are just facts of life and have no news value. To see these young people one has to go where they are, and publicists cannot spread themselves as far and as thin as that would demand, for these young folk cover the country.

I talked to a girl in her early teens about the steer she had reared. He was a beauty, beef to his heels, and would bring a high price in the market.

"He's going to pay my way through college for a couple of years. I have another one on the way that I expect to win, too."

"You must have worked hard and well to rear an animal like that one. Wasn't it hard for you to feed and clean him and keep him like the prince he is?"

She laughed, stretched out her arms and said, "I loved it. It makes me feel like a princess to tend a youngster like him and see him growing and growing into a prize beef. Nothing's too much trouble for that. And it means so much for us all. I can go to school and not put an extra load on mother and dad, and even help them at the same time. Hard? Nothing. I'm growing up with my steers."

AND I TALKED with a boy in a big city, a busy, happy youngster who had his way marked out.

"I'll be entering medical school next fall and I have the money ready for the first year and a half," he said. "I earned it all myself. I mind kids."

"You mind kids? How?"

"I like them for the first thing, especially little boys. I take them to the dentist; I go with them to have their eyes tested; I take them out for a hike and a picnic; I play with them; I mind them evenings when their people have to go out. I do errands for their mothers, such as taking shoes to be mended and seeing that they're done right. I mind kids whenever I get the chance. I like the job and I earn my way by it.

"I'm glad I can ease dad's burden that much anyway. Lately I can even help a little at home. Every cent counts these days."

Boys and girls of the 4-H Clubs, the self-helping groups, the wholesome, active, interested young people who go their way doing their work and giving their best to it and to those they love, are still with us in great number and fine quality. I don't worry about the young people as much as I do about their elders who get in their way.

Spinach Ring

Mix together three cups chopped cooked spinach, one cup soft bread crumbs, one cup milk, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon pepper, three tablespoons grated cheese, two well-beaten eggs. When well blended, turn into a buttered ring mold. Place pan in hot water and bake for about 40 minutes in a hot oven. Serve immediately so it is light and dainty. Fill the center with creamed chicken or fish.

Those Popular Girls

By Patricia Lindsay

PEGGY MORAN OF THE MOVIES. SHE LEARNED HOW TO BECOME A POPULAR BELLE.

NO girl is born a belle—she usually earns her popularity by being interesting to talk with and most personable in her appearance. Many very popular girls are not beautiful—but they are attractive for they have the sense to make the most of themselves.

They see that they exercise out of doors or at home on a mat. They find stretching movements make them graceful, bumps and thumps keep their figures streamlined!

They sleep sufficiently to keep eyes sparkling, skin clear and dispositions engaging! If one night keeps them up too late they hop into bed earlier the next night. Cat naps in the afternoon taken in the "beauty-angle" with feet higher than head builds beauty.

They watch their menus. They eat enough for strength and ignore between-meal-snacks at the corner drugstore. They know plenty of fruit and many salads during summer should be the major part of their nourishment.

They keep hair glossy with care—much brushing, regular shampoos every 10 days or two weeks, and frequent scalp massages. During summer they never allow sun or salt water to dim their tresses. Vanity sees to that!

They take the trouble to learn how to preserve their teeth. Semi-annual examinations are good, you know, but daily care of brushing, chewing, and using dental floss are more important. They keep mouths free of acid by keeping them healthy.

They realize skin health is the foundation of skin beauty. Cleanliness is first in their thoughts so that means daily tubbings, facial shampoos after cream cleansings. Tired makeup is never covered with fresh.

They take time to study how much makeup they should wear. No occasion finds them with too much rouge and powder and lipstick. Fingertips match their lips always, and for sports they usually look delightfully casual even though it might have taken them an hour to dress! No set hair styles, subtle cosmetic artifice!

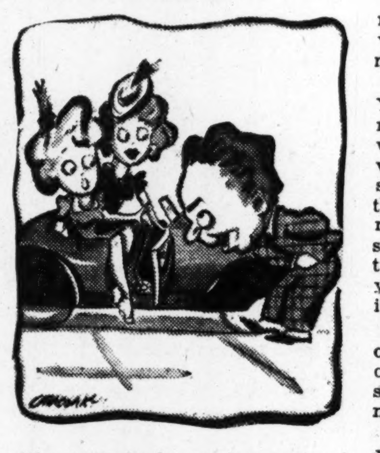
They sense the importance of personal daintiness. No day, no matter how sweltering, finds them limp and messy. Fresh as a daisy and as sweet smelling as a freshly bathed babe, is their motto. Depilatories, anti-perspirants, deodorants, shields and refreshing colognes are stocked regularly. Lingerie touches of dress are kept immaculate. Nails are beauty assets always.

They check on fatigue or other ailment. Good health, good looks; poor health, no beauty.

They take study or work in their stride and know when to take time for play. All work, no play makes Susie a dull doll!

They value their femininity and put a high price upon it. Swains dance attendance and handle them with reverence, for a belle who masters poise through self-confidence can usually choose her own stag line! She keeps lovely for the joy of it and men proudly seek her company!

OLD WORLD CHIVALRY



WHEN they take Susie Jones to the movie with them, Susie says, "Look, why don't you park in the space right here? You won't find a vacant one nearer." And he says, "Oh, no, I'm going to take you right to the door."

And Susie says, "Oh, don't do that. Then you'll have to look for a place to park and have to walk all the way back." And he says, "Nonsense. It's absolutely nothing at all. I wouldn't have you women walk. You would ruin your slippers."

And Susie says, "Please do what I say. I wish you'd let us walk." And he says, "I simply won't think of it. What is a man for if he can't drive his women folk right up to the door and save them a lot of useless steps?"

And Susie says, "Really, in this modern day it is seldom you come into contact with such Old World chivalry. The boys of the younger generation wouldn't think of putting themselves out for the girls. Mary, you certainly are fortunate in having such a thoughtful husband." And Mary says proudly, "Oh, he likes to make himself useful." And he says, "Well, here we are." And Susie says, "Yes, right at the door. I have never seen such service.'

But when they go to the movie without Susie he spots a vacant parking space four or five blocks away. And he says, "Honey, this is about as near as I can get." And Mary says, "It seems a long way off." And he says, "Oh, it isn't so far. Surely you don't mind a little walk. It'll do you a lot of good and maybe take off some of that excess flesh you were worrying about."

And she says, "Humph! That's very different from the way you talk when other women are around."

The Bulgarian Treatment of Palsy Cases

By
Logan Clendening, M. D.

WHAT is the Bulgarian treatment for palsy?

The great epidemic of influenza of 1918 had following in its wake a group of very distressing cases which were popularly called "sleeping sickness" but which were known technically as "encephalitis." It often happened that as a patient was recovering from this, he had the complication of palsy or uncontrollable tremors. Many remedies were tried; none very successful.

In 1926, Ivan Raeff, a plant collector in the Bulgarian village of Chipka, found that he was able to treat some of the victims of this worldwide epidemic successfully with belladonna root. He achieved considerable fame throughout Europe, so much so that the Queen of Italy became interested in his work and in 1935 established a special hospital for this disease in Rome. Here the treatment was studied carefully by expert nerve specialists and pharmacologists. It was put on a more scientifc basis and has undoubtedly been very successful in the treatment of this distressing condition. A hospital was opened in Germany in 1937 to be used exclusively as a center for this treatment.

One case of which I heard was of a minister who had the condition for more than 10 years, but after two weeks' trial of the Bulgarian belladonna root treatment, he said to his doctor, "Doctor, I believe you have something there."

Patients must not be encouraged to expect a complete cure but if they are relieved from the agony of the constant twitching of their muscless and the sleeplessness, the treatment is worth while.

WHAT ARE crocodile tears?

I don't know how my correspondent got onto this question. In fable, of course, the phrase "crocodile tears" come from the old belief that crocodiles shed tears over those whom they were about to devour. Crocodile tears are tears without emotion behind them or with hypocritical emotion.

As a matter of fact, the condition does occur in human beings. It is called the "syndrome of crocodile tears" and occurs after palsy of the facial nerve. Whenever people with this condition begin to eat or move their jaw muscles, tears brim over the eyes and run down the cheek.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

Why Is It Called Coney Island?

Under its Indian name, Narioch, meaning "a point of land," nobody would recognize this world-renowned five miles of summer resort.

A "must" on the list of every New York City visitor, Coney Island, not so long ago, was a marshy waste of weeds, scrub and rabbits—which last, though there is not a single one to be seen throughout the length and breadth of this mammoth amusement area, may be responsible for its present name, after the Dutch word for our bunny, konyen, or an old English name for it, coney.

Efforts along all logical avenues of research reveal a number of other likely roots from which stemmed the first usage of the name Coney.

An authoritative paper published during the first quarter of the nineteenth century, previously read before the New York Historical Society, attributes the designation to a Dutch family of land owners named Conyn.

Another trail ends at the name "Congu Island," which Coney Island seems actually to have been called originally but there is ground for believing that Congu is wrong for Conyn.

A rather fantastic theory is that in the early days, when this now Colossus of Innocent Pleasure was nothing but storm-whipped dunes, the drifting sand would be formed by the wind, here, there and everywhere, into a large-sized truncated cone—on account of which, the entire expanse came to be called colloquially Coney Island.

Last and perhaps least accepted version is that Coney is a modification of the Indian konooh, bear.

Anyway, it's a lot of fun.

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE P-173: Clark B., aged 23, is an unemployed college graduate. "I got him a job working in a garage," his brother-in-law told me, "but Clark wouldn't accept it, although he hasn't been earning anything for two years, but has been sponging cigarette money from his sisters. I admit the job didn't pay a lot, for he'd get only $15 per week to start with, but I always figured that any honest work was better than no job at all. But Clark said there was no future in this job, so he refused to accept it. Dr. Crane, what do you think of Clark?"

NO FUTURE!!

DIAGNOSIS: I think Clark doesn't have much "horse sense." Besides, he labors under an all too common delusion today; namely, that some jobs have a future in them while others do not. A man's future lies not in his job but in himself. An energetic, ambitious fellow will rise to the top, regardless of what type of work he starts with. The presidents of many great companies began working as newsboys, or as window washers, shoe shiners, etc. It makes no difference where you start, for you'll get to the top if you are the type of person who pays the price in hard work, intelligent planning and perseverance, which are essential parts of the formula for success in life.

Clark will have a poor future, regardless of the kind of work which he may ultimately select, for with his present attitude and sloth, he will never get very far in any line of business. There is still too much of the white collar complex in America. It is quite likely that Clark doesn't want to soil his lily white hands by greasy work such as he would encounter in a garage.

PERHAPS, TOO, he has an exaggerated pride in a college diploma. He will soon learn that a sheepskin is never rugged enough to carry a man to success, for this is a tough, virile world where it requires the courage of a lion, plus the tenacity of the fabled tortoise, plus the thick skin of the elephant to carry a man to the top. Plenty of college graduates are pounding the pavements looking for work or are on WPA and in CCC camps sticking little saplings into hillsides.

Many a hard-working laboring man who never went beyond grammar school has slaved and saved to send his children through college only to find them ashamed of manual work thereafter and afraid to admit their humble origin in life. So they try to get a white collar job, failing which they sit at home and bum cigarette money from their old dad who still goes out to work each morning with his tin dinner bucket.

THERE ARE still plenty of windows and automobiles to be washed in every neighborhood, or ashes to be carried out or lawns to be mowed, or trees to be pruned, or children to be cared for, etc. It is absolutely inexcusable for any college man to be without some kind of work, even if he has to go into the junk business, buying up old rags or newspapers.

Most of our liberal arts courses don't fit a person for life and its vital problems, anyway, so the sooner a college man gets wise to himself and starts getting an economic toehold in our modern society, the sooner he will be started on the road to success. Every man has a future but it lies within himself. There is really no blind alley job, but plenty of blind alley workers.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I HAVE been married 23 years and really love my husband. He has worked at night most of those years. I get lonesome to go out with some of my friends, but they all smoke and my husband disapproves of that and is afraid I might take it up, but I wouldn't, really; I don't like the looks of it for a woman. Now my husband works from 3 p. m. to 11 p. m. and when he quits work he and two other men stop to have a few drinks and he never gets in until 2 or 3 in the morning. When I mention it he gets mad. I tell him I don't go out and smoke and drink when he's gone. All I do is go to a show or maybe the house of a friend. Am I being foolish to mind him staying out like this?

SORROWFUL SUE.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

I should think this could be worked out very easily. Doubtless he simply forgets the time when he is at the tavern. Have you tried asking him if he couldn't make it home just a little sooner, as the fact that he has to get his sleep in the daytime robs you of so much of his company? Don't nag, just explain to him that there are good times the two of you could have together during the day, if he didn't come home so late and then have to sleep through most of the daylight hours.

Perhaps he would see your point of view and agree to come home at 12:30, for instance, instead of 2 or 3 a. m. As to his feeling about your friends, that is a little old-fashioned and not very reasonable, it seems to me. Most women seem to smoke these days, but just because your friends do this doesn't mean you have to. Since you don't approve of it for yourself, anyway, I should think he would feel you quite safe there. See if you can't compromise in this instance, too, for you would be foolish to cut yourself off from all your friends. If smoking is their worst fault I don't believe your reputation is going to be deeply injured by associating with them.

IN ANSWER to "Unhappy": I think perhaps the root of your trouble lies in the fact that you refuse to go out with your husband, so the habit of taking his recreation apart from you is growing on him more and more. A man who works hard needs a certain amount of diversion; he would probably enjoy most of all taking this diversion for the most part in your company, but since you refuse him this he takes it in the company of others.

Why not plan ahead and see that in some way most of his evenings are filled, so that one night per week would be all he would have time for with the boys? Have friends in for dinner or a game of cards; take the children with him to a show, plan on one night a week for just the two of you, as you did in the early days. If he is kept pleasantly occupied elsewhere the tavern will cease to be such an irresistible attraction.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

IS IT EVER correct for the bride's note to read: "Miss Mary Smith and Mr. John Brown want to thank you for the lovely steak knife and fork?"

WONDERING.

A letter of thanks for a wedding present should be appreciative and informal, and if sent by a married couple, should be written to the wife and both parties thanked. "Dear Mrs. Jones: Thank you so much for the lovely steak knife and fork which you and Mr. Jones sent us," for instance. Engraved or printed cards of thanks for wedding presents are inexcusably rude, and the written form you have mentioned is incorrect.

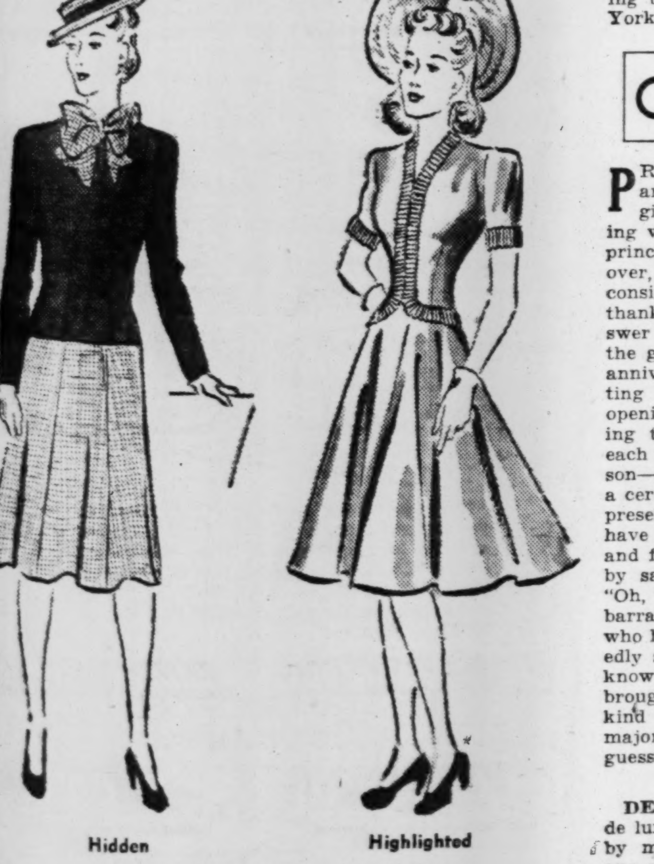
IN ANSWER to "Worried Mother": A boy must be 21 to marry without his parents' consent. Your boy is very young to be forced into a marriage and I think you have a right to have positive proof of the true state of affairs before giving your consent to the wedding. The bride's family is responsible for all incidents you mention regarding the wedding, and the reception should be held in their home or in some other place provided by them.

Designing Women



Hidden Highlighted

MARGARETTA BYERS SAYS:

JACKETS cut straight around the hips look best on boyish figures. Remember these hip-length jackets were originally designed for men—who have no hips at all to speak of. At the left, other mistakes are: a dark jacket with a light skirt, a short, fairly straight skirt; and the stiff, small sailor hat.

At the right you have these remedies: a bias skirt; a short jacket with a curving, cutaway line; carefully placed bodice fullness; a full hairdo; and a big, off-the-face hat. Notice, too, that all the accents are above the waist. Finally, see how the single-breasted jacket nips the waist, while the double-breasted one at the left broadens and squares the torso.

Watch for your type tomorrow.

SHE'S MISS AMERICA OF THE AIR

MARGARET MELLON, THE "MISS AMERICAN AVIATION FOR 1940"

MARGARET IS 23 YEARS OLD, HAS BLUE EYES AND BROWN HAIR.

Margaret Mellon of Belleville Has Been an Airplane Stewardess Only Six Weeks but Has Already Won a Title—Knows How to Handle Men Who Ride Her Plane.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN

IN SIX weeks' service as an airplane stewardess, Margaret Mellon, for her years—which are 23—and for a small town girl, born and reared in Belleville, has accumulated a good deal of wisdom about dealing with various types of air travelers. Her words may be pearls for girls who would like to be popular, though choosey, keeping men a little up in the air even when their dates are on the ground.

"You have to be something of a smoothie in this business," said Margaret. "You have to abide by the rule against dating passengers and yet remember that you mustn't say 'Shush' icily and make a customer feel, 'Huh, I'll walk to New Orleans next time.'"

Margaret was enjoying a stopover as the guest of D. D. Walker III, vice-president of Chicago & Southern Air Lines, after having landed the title "Miss American Aviation for 1940" as the entry of that company in a national air show competition in Birmingham. All the airlines, aircraft manufacturers and State aviation commissions named representatives to compete for this honor and a jury composed of airline officials and publicity men awarded the crown on the basis of charm, looks, personality, poise and intelligence.

Since the award, proud officers of the Chicago & Southern and a tireless publicity man, George E. Bounds, have had their prize winner in tow showing her off as the paragon of air stewardesses. In a whirl of public appearances, Margaret has learned a lot more about "how to win friends and influence people" than she did from the book which is a standard text in the air stewardesses' training course.

"It really wasn't much like Belleville," said Margaret, recalling coast to coast broadcasts, occupying the celebrity suite at the New Yorker Hotel and being photographed exactly 246 times during her week in New York. But she seems to have made good on the charm, looks, personality, poise and intelligence claimed for her.

It is a demure but serene sort of charm she exhibits. Winsome is the word I thought described her best as she sat in the Walker apartment, wearing a smart brown French gingham two-piece dress, plaided in turquoise with a turquoise bow at the throat. Not forward about interrupting the press agent who persisted in taking charge of the interview, but responsive enough when at last the interviewer got her to herself.

Young and pretty and slight, up there in the air in charge of the wants of 21 passengers when the plane is filled, she must have to cope with some situations, it was suggested.

"With men, you mean," she responded. "Yes, but don't make the mistake of thinking men are all alike. If you tuck a pillow behind a man's head and bring him refreshments, well, he's just naturally going to like it. Doesn't matter whether you are on a plane or a date, you can make a man feel comfortable, and, oh, important. That frame of mind may lead a man to demand more time than a girl can or wants to give. I don't believe in advance decisions on handling situations. Best to size up each one. But there are recognizable types.

"There's the wolf," she enumerated, "definitely out for a date, and you definitely don't want it. He's a wise cracker, so you keep on your toes, a little ahead of him if possible. When you are through he doesn't feel squelched. No," she sighed, "he'll be asking stewardesses for dates the rest of his life.

"There's the married man," she went on, "who chats about his wife. Often he is a misunderstood husband. Then your conversation is liable to become an argument, a sort of nagging. It's better to get off on something less personal, his interests and hobbies. The conversational switch-off is always good.

"The appealing type, the considerate, undemanding man, he's the worst menace of all," she reflected. "He's so nice you wish the rules didn't exist. You sort of hope he'll figure out a way to see you away from the plane—and sometimes he does," she grinned. "So does the big brother type, the airline employe traveling on a pass—he speaks your language, knows the rules too well to behave in such a way that he might get himself reported—he is decidedly a safe date."

IT was remarked at this point that the average career of an air stewardess has been found to be one year and six months, that 90 per cent of the reasons given for quitting are marriage, and that a large proportion of the marriages are to pilots or other employes of the airlines.

"There are non-daters who must be handled just as tactfully," continued Miss Mellon. "Just bring the fatherly type a drink of water and he'll try to keep you talking the rest of the trip. And there's the first rider or buzzer pusher. He reads the rules about the flight kits. These number 1171 items a stewardess has to check in and out when there are 21 passengers. The items range from diapers to electric razors. The buzzer pusher wants all the service he is entitled to or can possibly use. Nothing to do but to do it," she said resignedly.

"Then there's the executive type who opens his portfolio the minute you're in the air and thinks he means it when he refuses coffee. But if you don't bring it anyway, he'll feel neglected."

Margaret flies about 4000 miles a week on her route between New Orleans and Chicago. Her home base is New Orleans, where she keeps an apartment with four other stewardesses.

"BUT I can see little old Belleville in the distance on every flight," she remarked, "and know my father (he is E. W. Mellon, a furniture dealer and upholsterer) and my young brother and sister are down there watching and thrilling as my ship goes over on schedule."

Her most difficult experience in the air has not been encounters with storms.

"We never fly when weather conditions are against us," she declared. "I am not nervous when the air is bumpy. Even when we find unfavorable conditions aloft, we know we can count on the judgment of pilots and agencies in control of airway operations to bring us in safely.

"The only time I am the least bit nervous is when I must serve a full course meal in reduced time. That happens when we have a strong tail wind between St. Louis and Chicago during lunch or dinner time. Our normal flying time is one hour and 43 minutes. But with a stiff tail wind, the trip has been completed in one hour and 10 minutes. On one such trip when I had 21 hungry travelers to serve, I figured I had had exactly three and a half minutes to serve each meal, I had made 216 trips back and forth, and had actually walked over a mile doing so."

Something of an anti-climax it was to learn that a chief qualification for this glamourous vocation, besides having charm, looks, personality, poise and intelligence, is that you must be a fast-stepping waitress.

Opening Party Presents -o- By Emily Post

PRESENTS brought to a party are usually opened and each giver thanked immediately. Seeing what is in the packages is the principal fun at a "shower." Moreover, when this is done, it is not considered necessary to write thank-you notes afterwards. In answer to a letter asking what reason the guest of honor at her wedding anniversary could have had for putting her presents aside without opening any of them and then having to write thank-you notes for each of these later, the obvious reason—so it seems to me—is that only a certain few of the guests brought presents. In this case she might have felt that to open these gifts and focus attention on their givers by saying "thank you, Jane" and "Oh, thank you, Mary" would embarrass Edith, and Kate and Mabel, who had nothing for her. Undoubtedly she thought letting every one know who had, and who had not, brought a present would have been kind to a few—and unkind to the majority. Of course this is only my guess!

DEAR MRS. POST: In the new de luxe coaches that are advertised by many of the railroads, where one sleeps by night as well as sits by day, may a woman change her dress at night and wear a negligee or house coat to keep her dress from looking slept in?

Answer: A house coat that is a long princess dress, zippered (or buttoned) down the front—the sort of dress that is meant to be worn around the house—would be very suitable. But a negligee that looks as though it might be an elaborate nightgown would not do at all.

DEAR MRS. POST: At my wedding reception it would work out much better in our house to serve the ice cream and little cakes on plates direct from the kitchen. I want to have these passed by six small cousins who would feel very important to have a part in my wedding. But if the plan is followed, what about having a wedding cake? There would be no buffet table set for the refreshments and no place for the wedding cake to be displayed and then cut.

Answer: Cover a card table with a white tea cloth and put the wedding cake on this alone. After you have cut the first piece (which, according to custom, you share with the groom) the guests either go over to the table and cut themselves pieces, or else some one who is strong-handed and experienced in cutting thin slivers of fruitcake cuts a few pieces at a time. After these have been taken, then some more is cut. You should also provide a stack of waxed paper (six or seven inches square) so that those who want to take their piece of cake home to dream on, can do so. The only other way would be to stack small boxes of wedding cake on a table for each one to take a box home. But this preparation is difficult to do at home and expensive to have done at a caterer's—and even so does not replace the wedding cake.

TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

Select the answer which you consider best. The best problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 4.

1. A gimlet is usually associated with Jailers, Carpenters, Painters Electricians.
2. You should expect to find a silo on a Mountain Top, Battleship, Farm, Gasoline Motor.
3. A cant hook would most likely be used by a Surgeon, Tailor, Lumberman, Milliner.
4. The word "manna" should remind Bible students of Noah, Adam, Moses, Hezekiah.
5. You would most likely find a tureen on a Dining Table, Woman's Hat, Soda Fountain, Gridiron.
6. Here is a good problem for crossword puzzle fans. Try to match the following words with the things to which they refer. You are allowed one point for each correct identification.

—— Tibetan priests	(a) Lammas
—— South American plains	(b) Llanos
—— Beasts of burden	(c) Lamas
—— The first of August	(d) Lambda
—— The Greek letter "L"	(e) Llamas

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. (Note—The last question counts five points.)

Economical Menus—By Meta Given

DON'T let anybody tell you that you can't make good apple pie with summer apples. You may not make the same kind of apple pie with fruit that cooks quickly to a golden mush instead of holding its shape like the winter varieties, but you can certainly make a good one. With an ease, too, that is in harmony with the season—the season of hot weather when you don't care much about keeping the oven on for long at a time. You'll like this apple sauce and orange pie for several reasons.

Apple Sauce and Orange Pie.
(Cost About 23c).

Two pounds apples (six to eight apples). One-half cup water, one-half cup sugar (or to suit taste), one tablespoon lemon juice, two oranges, peeled and diced; one cooled, baked eight-inch pie shell.

Peel, core and slice apples. Put into saucepan with water, cover tightly and place over moderate heat until apples are mushy. Add sugar to suit taste, stir just enough to mix, and cook a minute or two longer. Remove from heat, add lemon juice and whip up to a smooth, stiff sauce. Chill. Just before serving, prepare the oranges and fold into the applesauce; turn into the cooled pie shell. If desired, one of the oranges may be sliced and used to garnish top of pie. Serves five.

MENUS FOR TUESDAY.

Breakfast.

Sugared fresh pineapple, one small pineapple; soft-cooked eggs, five eggs; toast, 10 slices bread, butter; coffee, four tablespoons coffee (adults only); milk for children.

Luncheon.

Kidney bean salad, No. 2 tin red kidney beans, one small onion grated, three tablespoons mayonnaise, lettuce; rye wafers, one-fourth pound rye wafers, butter; sliced banananas with top milk, five bananas, sugar, top milk; cookies, one-fourth pound bought cookies; tea, two teaspoons tea (adults only); milk for children.

Dinner.

Pan-broiled ham loaf, 12-ounce tin ham loaf; green beans in brown sauce, two pounds green beans, four tablespoons butter, one-half cup browned flour, salt, two cups milk; hashed brown potatoes, two pounds potatoes boiled, fat for sauteing; cauliflower salad, one small head cauliflower, cooked; one-fourth cup French dressing, one-half cup grated cheese, fove leaves lettuce; apple sauce and orange pie, recipe already given; coffee, four tablespoons (adults only); milk for children.

Cost for day, about $1.75.

Mushrooms Rockland.

Five tablespoons olive oil (or other fat; one pound small (or sliced) mushrooms; two tablespoons minced celery; one tablespoon minced green peppers; one teaspoon minced onions; three tablespoons flour; two cups milk; one-half cup grated cheese; one-half teaspoon salt.

Heat oil in a frying pan, add mushrooms and seasonings. Cover and cook slowly five minutes. Uncover and cook until the mushrooms are browned. Stir frequently. Mix in the flour and milk. Cook slowly until thick and creamy. Stir constantly. Add the cheese and salt, and when blended, serve.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

BEST part of today is up till mid-afternoon. Apply lessons of the past; deal with elders; use valuable portions of old plans. Later hours carry impractical conflicts involving those with whom we should co-operate; maintain domestic harmony.

Extremes

Astrology shows us that man's intellectual and moral equipment, as well as his body and the materials of the world which are at hand, can be put to use in many ways, all the way from one extreme to the other. These extremes are those of excessive violence on the one hand, and excessive laziness on the other. We see this clearly in the extremes of warlike aggression and complacent unpreparedness.

South Makes Wrong Guess And Goes Set

By Ely Culbertson

CARD placing is usually a difficult process and even experts are forced to a great many guesses on run-of-the-mill hands. They hate these guesses and, given the opportunity, will do everything in their power to avoid them. A situation such as the one described today is an expert's delight because he is able to locate key cards with a minimum of risk and a maximum of assurance.

East, dealer.
East-West, vulnerable.
North-South, 30 part-score.

              ♠7 6 4 3 2
              ♦Q J 10
              ♣K J
♠5            NORTH          ♠10
♥J 10 7 4     WEST   EAST    ♥A 9 3 2
♦4 3 2                       ♦A K 8 5

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 diamond	3 spades	Pass	Pass
Pass

Obviously, South's three spade bid was a game stealing effort; he attempted to take advantage of his own part-score and at the same time to cut off the communication between the East-West hands. West was helpless over the three spade bid, as was East. It is true that they could have defended successfully at four clubs, going down only one trick, but there was no way to reach this contract safely after the preemptive overcall. It would have been a suicidal bid for West to make without the knowledge that his miserable club suit would find good support in partner's hand.

The opening lead was the four of diamonds. East won the king and ace and played a third round, hoping that West could ruff, but West had to follow and the diamond queen won.

As the hand was actually played by the declarer, the spades were then drawn in one lead and a club was led toward dummy with the prayer on declarer's lips that he would guess correctly as to which card to play. West naturally ducked and declarer's prayer, fairly enough, was not answered—he guessed the jack! East won and returned a club to West's ace and the heart ace accounted for the setting trick.

As mentioned above, an expert would have practically no guess with this hand. He, too, would draw the adverse spades, but then would go on a prospecting tour. He would realize that East's opening diamond bid had been based on the ace-king of diamonds (already shown) and in all likelihood on only one of the other two missing aces. If East had held four honor tricks with the short diamond suit he had shown he would in all probability have doubled the three spade bid. Therefore it was an odds-on chance that West had one ace and declarer had a safe way of determining which one it was.

He should have laid down the queen of hearts to find out which defender had that ace. If it proved to be West, the expert would later play East for the club ace and would accordingly finesse dummy's jack, but with East showing up as the holder of the heart ace the expert would have no doubt as to the club play. He would lead from his own hand and, when West ducked, promptly put up dummy's king.

MY SON, MY SON!

By Howard Spring

CHAPTER FORTY-NINE.

THE interview with Fox was not easy. He was not a very intelligent man; he had one or two half-baked social ideas, and I had found before this that in conversation he worked them to death. He was, or said he was, proud that most of his scholarship boys were tradesmen's sons, and on every occasion he rubbed that in by a loud insistence on all his boys being treated alike. Why there should be any need to labor the point, why a butcher's son should not be as estimable a young animal as a stock broker's or some other artful dodger's, I could not make out.

Fox sat back in his big armchair and swung his pince-nez in a fashion which I think he must have observed in some statesman. "The fact is, you know, Mr. Essex, that Oliver thinks he's somebody.

"In itself, that's a good thing to imagine," I said. "So far as I can make out, the trouble in this case is that he's not a big enough somebody. Young Grimshaw, I gather, has the secret of making him feel small—a nobody rather than a somebody."

"Yes," Fox consented, with a satisfied smile, "I have observed that my faith in tradesmen's sons is more often justified than not. In the case of Grimshaw, there is certainly a gift for the telling phrase that a boy from any social stratum might envy. But what I mean," he continued, putting on the pincenez and looking at me over them with a preposterous solemnity, "is that Oliver seems to assume, because he is the son of a distinguished man, that he may, shall I say, take it out of a boy less fortunately circumstanced."

"I entirely disagree," I said. "I don't think that has anything to do with it. If it had been the Prince of Wales, Oliver would have kicked him just the same. Don't let's get all wrapped up in theories about it. The facts are simple: there's a boy with an annoying tongue; Oliver couldn't stand his tongue, lost his temper and kicked him. Now, whatever the provocation, it is agreed that kicking is a dirty trick, and what to me seemed worse than the kicking was the running away without dicovering what were the consequences of the kick. As you know, they were fortunately light. A bruise on the shin, a superficial cut on the head, a brief fainting."

We were interrupted by a knock at the door. It was the father of young Grimshaw, who had received an alarmist report and seemed relieved that his son was little the worse. Mr. Grimshaw was a sturdy hale-looking chap, and I gathered the impression that he was a better man than his son was likely to be. He shook hands with me without hesitation. "Ah've bin talking to yon young beggar of mine" he announced to me and Fox who seemed rather colder with tradesmen than with their scholarly offspring, "an Ah've told 'im if 'e can't keep a civil tongue in 'is 'ead Ah'll put 'im into t'butcherin'. 'E always was a one for lip. 'E's tried it on wi' me once or twice an 'Ah've given 'im a clip in t'lug. That soon stops 'im, Ah reckon your boy won't be 'earin' much more from 'im, Mr. Essex."

I thanked Mr. Grimshaw for this very generous view of the matter, but explained to him that perhaps Mr. Fox could hardly be expected to see it in so simple a light. "I think when you came, Mr. Grimshaw, our conversation was just about to reach the question of what disciplinary action it might be necessary to take."

Fox swung his spectacles and pursed his lips gravely, but Grimshaw burst in heartily: "Nay, it'd be a bloody shame if a boys' rumpus led to all sorts of 'owdy-do—"

Fox interrupted stiffly: "It is Mr. Essex's son who is now in question, Mr. Grimshaw. If you will please allow us" and he rose and steered Grimshaw out of the room. "Well, don't do anything daft," I heard that forthright man expostulating as he disappeared down the corridor.

And Fox, I soon gathered, for all his pretended judicial weighing-up of the matter, was going to do anything daft. There was some question of my joining the governing body of the school. I suppose my name would have looked well on the prospectus. Anyway, when I asked point-blank: "Do you want me to remove him from the school?" there was a lot of tut-tut-tutting and deprecation of ever-hasty action. Some added discipline, no doubt, would meet the case. When I left, I was wondering not whether Oliver was good enough for Fox, but whether Fox was good enough for Oliver.

Oliver himself, in the school courtyard, was explaining to a group of admiring fellows, including young Grimshaw, whose head sported a star of sticking plaster, that this was his father's car and his father's chauffeur.

THERE was a time when the idea of spending six months or more out of England, with plenty of money and no one but myself to please, would have fascinated me. Now it would fascinate me no longer. I had done it, and I was glad to be home again.

I had got rid of The Beeches, passed the winter in a quiet London hotel, taken Oliver to Heronwater for his Easter holiday, and then, when he was back at school, set out. I had found a house on the Spaniards road, overlooking the Heath, and Dermot was to see to its furnishing and decoration. This was the end of old Moscrop. He had been in my life since I could remember any life at all. Now he was going.

I had no scheme, no time-table. I stayed where I liked as long as I liked and then passed on. By land and sea I visited most countries in Europe and some in Asia, and in Constantinople I decided suddenly to take a ship home. I had avoided tourist routes, and whenever possible had traveled on cargo boats. I did so on the homeward journey. There was one other passenger on the ship, and we met at dinner in the captain's cabin.

The captain introduced us—"Mr. William Essex, Mr. Josef Wertheim"—but, so far as I was concerned, there was no need for the introduction. I should have known Josef Wertheim anywhere. His fat, pale, dark face, bald head and brooding melancholy eyes were familiar to anyone who saw the newspapers and weekly magazines. I could well understand his presence on that ship. To avoid publicity would be a grateful thing to Wertheim.

There was a small saloon on the ship, and after dinner we sat there and talked. I had a whisky and soda at my side, and smoked a pipe. Wertheim was a teetotaller, but a large cigar was rarely out of his mouth. His reputation was tyrannical; it was said that he worked his artists to the bone. He had a genius for finding them everywhere; the latest Spanish dancer, the coming world's champion heavyweight, the biggest giant and the smallest midget, jugglers, trick cyclists, and troupes of equestrian acrobats; it didn't matter to Wertheim what they were so long as they were the best in the world.

He asked me what I thought of "Reach for the Sky," the musical show which he had on at the Palladian. When I said I hadn't seen it he apologized with grave courtesy for having taken up so much of my time with talk of his affairs and began to draw me out about my own books. He had read a number of them, and showed an understanding of life in the North of England that surprised me. He had put on several big shows in Manchester and confessed that Manchester audiences frightened him. If you could get past them you were all right.

I said that I felt I had said everything that I wanted to say about Manchester. I wanted to settle in London and try my hand at a play.

A play," he said, looking gravely at the glowing end of his cigar. "That is something now." He pondered, and added: "I have never done a play. That would be satisfying. Musical shows, circuses, boxing—yes, all that is amusing, and with wisdom one makes much money. But a play—that might be to make money and at satisfy something here—eh?" He tapped his enormous chest. "I have thought I would do it some day?"

"You have only to make it known, Mr. Wertheim," I said, "and you'll have a hundred young men of genius on your doorstep every morning."

It was not till the last day of the voyage that Wertheim reverted to this conversation. "You know, Essex, I have been thinking about what you said—all those young men of genius on my doorstep with plays in their pockets. Well, here you've been on my doorstep for days and you haven't tried to interest me in that play you're going to write." He laid his heavy hand on my shoulder. "I like that. You let me see that play when it's ready."

Continued tomorrow.

Peach Trifle

Two cups stale cake cut into cubes, one-half cup peach marmalade or jam, six marshmallows, one cup milk, two tablespoons sugar, one egg, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Spread the cubes of cake with the jam. Cut marshmallows into quarters. Arrange a layer of cake in a bowl, dot with marshmallows and repeat until the cake is used. Scald milk. Beat egg with sugar and pour milk into it. Put into a double boiler and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and add vanilla. Pour over cake while hot. Cool and serve with whipped cream.

Oven Secrets

A too-hot oven will spoil the milk pudding.

The more sugar in the cake, the lower the temperature of the oven.

If the oven is too hot, it can be cooled quickly by placing a pan of cold water on the lowest shelf.

If you want the roast of beef to be especially pleasing to your guests serve it with Yorkshire pudding. It is a deilcious accompaniment.

When the roast is first put into the oven, let the flame be high. When browned all over, turn down the gas so the meat will cook without burning.

YOU'RE ALIVE! BUT THAT'S IMPOSSIBLE! THE ELECTRIC CHARGE WAS POWERFUL ENOUGH TO KILL A DOZEN ORDINARY MEN!
THAT'S WHAT WE'RE TRYIN' TO TELL YA, BOSS—HE AIN'T NO ORDINARY MAN!
LET'S COME TO THE POINT—!
AFTER RESISTING AN ATTACK BY GANGSTERS OUTSIDE THE MAYOR'S OFFICE, SUPERMAN FOLLOWS THEM TO THEIR EMPLOYER WHO TRIES TO OVERPOWER HIM WITH A DEADLY ELECTRIC SHOCK.
WHO IS "THE UNKNOWN"?
YOU WON'T GET ANYTHING OUT OF US—WILL HE, BOYS?
YOU DON'T KNOW TH' GUY, BOSS—HE'S DYNAMITE!
ER—WON'T HE?
NOT TALKATIVE TODAY, EH? PERHAPS THIS WILL JAR YOUR MEMORIES!
OUCH!
OW-WW!
STILL WANT TO BE PERSUADED?
I'LL TALK! LEMME GO! I'LL TALK! I'LL TALK!

CRASHING ON EARTH AFTER BAILING OUT OF THE SPACE SHIP, I WAS TAKEN TO A HOSPITAL BY WILMA AND DR. HUER. THEY DIDN'T KNOW ME. IN FACT, THEY CLAIMED THEY HAD NEVER HEARD OF A MAN NAMED BUCK ROGERS
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF
DOES EVERYONE ON EARTH THINK I'M CRAZY? WILMA HUER, THE HOSPITAL STAFF? WELL, MAYBE I AM!
BUT I'M NOT CRAZY ENOUGH TO STAY IN THIS BLASTED BUGHOUSE! WHERE'D THEY PUT MY CLOTHES?
AH! IN HERE!
PRETTY RAGGED BUT BETTER THAN NOTHING! NOW TO GET OUT!
CAN'T GO THROUGH THE HOSPITAL! IT'S DOWN THE DRAINPIPE FOR ME. OH-OH! BARS AT THE WINDOW!

FROZEN CHEESE SALAD.

This might prove a novelty for the person very fond of salads. Blend one cake cream cheese and one-half cup sweet cream. Add six chopped olives, one tablespoon finely chopped salted pecans, a dash of red pepper and one tablespoon sherry. Pack in a small pudding mold and pack in ice and salt for two hours to freeze. May be frozen in the pan of the mechanical refrigerator wtih success. When hard, cut in thin slices and serve on lettuce leaves with French dressing.

Too Much Blacking

If the surface of your stove seems rough and ugly, it is probably from an accumulation of stove blacking. Sandpaper the surface until it is smooth all over, then give it a fresh coat of polish and it will look like new.

Sans Lids

When putting away pots and pans after using, remove their lids and let the insides have a chance to air. Pots and pans put away with their lids tightly on are very apt to retain the odor of the food last cooked in them.

My Neighbor Says:

When delphiniums have pretty well passed their first season of bloom, the question comes as to whether or not they should be cut back. Growers differ on this point. Some think that no harm is done, while others believe that cutting back the stalks in order to induce a second blooming season saps the stamina of the plants. On general principles it is safe enough in the home garden to cut back below the point where the flowers appeared, and to do this as soon as new leaves have started.

Never allow silver spoons, stained with egg, to stand. Put into cold water to soak as soon as they are removed from the table.

A tablespoon of lemon juice added to the water in which eggs are poached, will make them firmer.

Want something especially tasty for picnics around the camp fire? Broil or brown thin slices of ham. Dip each slice in a shallow dish of chili sauce mixed with seasonings and place it inside a split roll. Be sure there are plenty of pickles handy.

For Rough-Dry Clothes

A drawer in the dresser or kitchen cabinet to hold those small rough-dry articles that have been washed in between laundry days is handy. They will not get soiled in there and yet will not be forgotten until they require another washing.

PINEAPPLE BAVARIAN CREAM.

Two tablespoons granulated gelatin, one grated pineapple, one and one-half cups sugar, three cups whipping cream, one tablespoon lemon juice, one-half cup cold water. Soak gelatin in water 10 minutes. Heat pineapple with the sugar and add gelatin and lemon juice. Set in a pan of cold water and stir until it begins to thicken. Fold in the whipped cream and pour into a mold. Chill thoroughly.
